Builder avoids jail term

BY SCOTT DANIEL
STAFF WRITER
sdaniel@oe.homecomm.net

A Livonia man convicted of defrauding more than a half-dozen metropolitan Detroit residents will not go to jail.

Builder Roy B. Mason, 43, was sentenced to five years probation and was ordered to repay thousands of dollars to victims by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge David Kerwin Tuesday.

"What you owe them," the judge told Mason sternly, "is the bare minimum of what you took from them. If there are any violations of the conditions of your probation, I will put you in jail."

Mason pled guilty to eight counts of obtaining money under false pretenses over $100. He could have received up to 10 years in jail, a $5,000 fine or both on each count.

"I would've like to see him do some jail time," said Canton resident Adonna Wright, whom Mason swindled out of more than $12,000. "But I am glad for the restitution."

Bruce Conroy, a Canton resident who claims that Mason took $2,860 from him, agreed. He was skeptical of ever getting his money back.

"It's hard to believe that he would ever do the right thing," Conroy said.

Mason was also convicted of defrauding Plymouth and Northville township residents. Canton Police Detective Steve Miller said Mason is facing similar charges in Oakland and Livingston counties.

Mason was scheduled for trial on the Wayne County charges a year ago, but failed to appear. Police finally caught up with him in Livonia on Dec. 22. He has been held in the Wayne County jail since.

The list of Mason's victims is lengthy.

He told Wright he'd build decks and ramps for her house and her mother's. Wright told Kerwin she paid Mason $12,313 for work that he never completed.

"He was our neighbor," she added. "We could see his house from our window. I thought, 'he's not going to stiff me, he's my neighbor.' But it was lies from day one."

Mason took between $1,400 to $5,600 to build decks for other area residents, according to police records.

Plymouth Township residents Tom Jarvis, Ron Merlino and Joe Molloy say they were swindled out of $5,600, $5,110 and $3,600, respectively.

Northville Township residents John Bolwer and Jeffrey Allman say Mason took $2,400 and $1,460 from them, respectively, and never completed work.

Bowler described Mason as a con man's con man. He said the builder told numerous stories about his family designed to elicit sympathy.

"He did everything he could to ensure we'd sign a contract with him," Bowler said.

Wayne County Assistant Prosecutor Danton Wilson echoed Bowler's thoughts in his remarks to Kerwin.

"You almost want to feel sorry for Mr. Mason," he said, noting the endless sob stories he told victims. "That's what makes him so dangerous."

In giving Mason probation, the judge told him he must pay each victim back in full. Otherwise, Kerwin said, he would spend the final year of probation in a work-release program.

The judge said he wanted to see Mason's victims repaid, which is why he didn't assign jail time, Kerwin said.

For his part, Mason said he was sorry to victims that appeared in court.

"I would like apologize to everyone," he said. "I intend to pay restitution."

Though the Falcusans are known to the Plymouth community as owners of the Box Bar in Plymouth, they shy away from drawing attention to their family's annual charitable efforts.

Jamie Senkbeil, community resource officer for the Plymouth Township Police Department, said the department is grateful for the donations.

"Police officers will give the bicycle helmets to children in need who they see not wearing bike helmets," Senkbeil said. The police department also hands out free ice cream certi-ificates during summer months to children who police see riding with bike helmets, she said.

"This is a blessed family sharing in the community," said Karen Porter, a First Step administrator. "They are a fine example for others, an example of families helping other families. We appreciate the support. It makes a difference."

Porter called donations like these "tremendously uplifting" to both the recipients and First Step employees.

The need at First Step is continuous. "Sweatsuits are always needed as are disposable items like napkins and diapers," Porter said.

She also suggested alarm clocks and small care packs with pens, stamps, envelopes, and paper. "These are the same kinds of things that you need to take care of business if you are at home," Porter said. "But, they aren't at home."

Donations can be dropped off at First Step's business office, 44567 Pinetree Drive, in the Ann Arbor and Sheldon roads area.

Birchler, who also managed the district's finance, transportation, maintenance, food service and construction operations, will be replaced on an interim basis for the next three months by Dan White, a former Plymouth-Canton finance employee. White recently retired from Bloomfield Hills Schools as assistant superintendent of business services.

"It's time for me to move on and look at something different to do," said Birchler. "The job has been very demanding."

"Financially the district is in great shape. Discovery Middle School will open on time and within budget, and the district is in a financial position to open the new elementary and high schools. I feel good about that."

engineers from businesses and universities to get a hands-on look at the world of technology.

Students from Canton High School were paired with engineers from MascoTech in Canton, an automotive supplier. The challenge?

"FIRST gave us a box of parts and told us to go to it, build a robot that could pick up balls and dump them into another container," said Tucci. "We looked at the parts and tried to come up with ideas."

Students and engineers tested the limits of their own imaginations, using robots they designed and constructed for a technological battle with other teams from around the state.

"The kids did quite well. We're pleased with ourselves, considering we're beginners," said Tom Brindley, vice president of product engineering at MascoTech. "Part of being on the team was having good grades and attendance at school. We ended up with a good group of kids."

"It took us six weeks to put our robot together," said Tucci. "We would have liked more time because we squeaked by in putting it together for competition."

"It took us nearly three weeks to design it, then we had to order some special parts. And the last week we built it," he said. "We had problem after problem after problem. It worked, but then something went wrong with the drive train. Eventually we got it fixed. Our first round was shaky, but then we were fine after that."

"Time pressure is the biggest thing," added Brindley. "Developing a machine is a rather big task. Doing it in six weeks is a challenge."

Not only did the robots have to pick up balls and drive them to another location for dropping off, the team got extra points if the robot could, in effect, do a chin up on a bar.

"I drove the robot with the joystick control," said Tucci. "I operated the conveyor system with grabbers to get the balls into the conveyor system and then to the goal."

Tucci, a senior, is taking the Automation Robotics class at the high school.

"I'm thinking of doing something with robotics in the future," said Tucci. "I learned a bit more about robotics than I already knew."

"Some of the robots did things you couldn't put in practical applications," Tucci said. "But, when you went to MascoTech to work on it, you could see some of the things they're doing and some of what you're doing. They were pretty much the same."

MascoTech spent tens of thousands of dollars to sponsor the Canton High School team. Brindley believes that he and the others at the automotive supplier helped spread the message to students that engineers aren't always dry and dull.

"I think we definitely inspired several of the kids with a high level of interest and enthusiasm," said Brindley. "The kids were very interested in engineering and technology."

"I think we showed them it's okay to be a nerd," he said with a laugh.

The national competition, which will be attended by approximately 45 students and five engineers from MascoTech, will be held April 6-8 at Disney World's EPCOT Center in Orlando, Fla.

No surprises as Dems cast ballots in statewide caucus

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER
STAFF WRITER
tschneider@oe.homedomain.net

About four dozen people, mostly party faithful, showed up Saturday to cast their ballots at the 13th Congressional District Democratic caucus site in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Dennis Galbraith of Canton voted for Vice President Al Gore, as did most of those attending the closed presidential nominating session. "I like his stand on the issues, particularly health care and education," Galbraith said before depositing his yellow declaration into a labeled cardboard box at the front of the small auditorium.

Mary Montgomery of Northville said she was supporting Bill Bradley, the former New Jersey senator who officially withdrew from the race Thursday.

Bradley hasn't released the delegates he's won so far and Michigan caucus-goers were allowed to write in any candidate, although Gore and Bradley were the only printed names on the ballot.

Montgomery said she was determined to vote Saturday even though her candidate won't be the Democratic nominee. "I'm proud of my voting record. I haven't missed many elections," she said.

"I like to get out and talk with people; that's why I don't vote absentee."

Locally, Gore pulled 40 votes and Bradley 7. Saturday's count didn't include absentee voters from the district, who mailed their ballots directly to the state Democratic Party.

Statewide caucus results showed Gore winning by 12,450 to 3,100 votes.

Becky Tavarozzi of Canton, president of the Plymouth-Canton-Northville Democratic Club and chairwoman of Saturday's local caucus, said she was pleased with the turnout.

"It's more than I expected," she said. "Considering the results from Super Tuesday, I thought perhaps people wouldn't bother (to turn out)."

Still, Saturday's caucuses pale when compared to the Feb. 22 open primary, which was dominated by Republican presidential candidates and drew 1.3 million voters statewide, including 23,169 in the five caucus communities (Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships and the cities of Plymouth and Northville).

Michigan Attorney General Jennifer Granholm arrived minutes ahead of the 11 a.m. registration cutoff time to cast her ballot for Gore. "The suspense (over who would win) isn't killing me," she quipped.

"I see the caucus as a community thing, a good chance to get out and talk to people about the issues," said Granholm, a Northville resident and the state's highest ranking Democrat holding elected office.

Jennifer Granholm
—Attorney general

Earl Harrington, a retired Central Middle School teacher and Gore supporter, said the caucus was "a democratic way to vote."

"Anyone coming here can support the candidate of their choice. We have three boxes — one for Gore, one for Bradley and one marked 'others,'" Harrington said. "I don't feel it (the closed caucus) is really a deterrent."

The declaration form filled in by participants includes spaces for name, address, Social Security number and candidate preference. It also asked participants to declare that they were of voting age.

The voting took place at 11 a.m. and was followed by brief comments, including a plea from Paul Stevenson, co-chair of the Justice Caucus, a group whose declared mission is to "help the fight to restore fairness to the Michigan Supreme Court."

A flier distributed at the session urged voters to defeat incumbent judges Cliff Taylor, Robert Young and Stephen Markman, all appointed by Gov. John Engler, at the polls in November.

The state elects Supreme Court judges on a non-partisan ballot, although most judges either appointed or elected in recent years have been Republicans, Stevenson said.

There were no speeches from representatives for presidential candidates.

Other Democrats on the November ballot — including U.S. Rep. Lyn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor, and U.S. Senate candidate Debbie Stabenow — had representatives distributing bumper stickers and materials at Saturday's caucus.

Most participants left the auditorium by 11:15 a.m.

to talk to Wayne County Public Services officials about options for the volume of motorists who travel that route.

Township officials said then that they hadn't been asked for their input. After re-evaluating all options for the construction of the Sheldon Road grade separation project, Wayne County officials again came up with their original recommendation — full closure of Sheldon Road to traffic with a posted detour.

Trustee Chuck Curmi vehemently opposed the idea of closing Sheldon Road when the issue was discussed in November. At Tuesday's township board study session, he volunteered to be part of the negotiating team that hopes to meet next week.

He had suggested finding out if the Ford Motor Company lot was available and mentioned the use of shuttle busses.

"How about switching the direction, north in the morning, south in the evening?" Curmi asked.

Treasurer Ron Edwards mentioned the impact on emergency personnel who need that thoroughfare.

"It is the county's position that the road closure is the most cost- and time-efficient of the alternatives," Maillard said.

"This decision is based on the potential costs and time delays to the project of obtaining the property necessary to construct a bypass roadway and the shortened construction duration. Though the county is prepared to share in the costs of the bypass road and maintaining traffic, it will not share in the additional costs of redesign, required property acquisitions, or in the construction of a trestle bridge. These costs would have to be borne in their entirety by the city and township."

Cost of maintaining limited through traffic with the bypass road alternative is estimated at $400,000 and could extend the project to 24 months, county officials said. Limited through traffic with a temporary railroad trestle would cost $1.9 million and take 26 months.

Trustee K.C. Mueller expressed surprise that the tenants of the REDICO building weren't told specifically of the plans. She suggested trying to work out a monetary compromise that is amenable to the tenants, the management company, and the owner.

Work could begin by the end of this year if all parties agree.

CSX train traffic will be unperturbed. County officials had said that they would build a temporary bridge for the railroad to go through. Until this week, though, CSX officials in Jacksonville, Fla., had not responded to the county's correspondence, said John Less, assistant county planning engineer.

The extremely hard soil will necessitate a special wall design, Maillard said. City of Plymouth assistant city manager Paul Sincok also mentioned the Detroit Water and Sewerage water transmission line that exists in the construction area.

Bob Jeanotte, a Plymouth Township car dealer and other Sheldon-area businesses are against closing Sheldon Road and will be watching plans closely, said Salem Samaan, Jeanotte's attorney.

Wayne County Commissioner Lyn Bankes, who was present at the study session, said she just came to listen. "I think meeting with the owners is a good plan," Bankes said after the meeting.

Suspect arraigned in threat

BY SUE BUCK
STAFF WRITER

A Garden City man faces a preliminary hearing Friday before 35th District Judge Ronald Lowe on one felony count of explosives with intent to frighten in connection with a Feb. 16 bomb threat incident at Tower Automotive.

Ronald Bolton, 27, stood mute and a plea of not guilty was entered for him at his arraignment Tuesday. Lowe released Bolton on a $10,000 personal recognizance bond, police said.

If convicted, Bolton faces five years in jail and/or a $3,000 fine.

The incident proved to be a false alarm, but the company's employees were evacuated to another part of the large building on Plymouth Oaks Boulevard for safekeeping at the start of the business day. Plymouth Township police called for the bomb squad.

A Tower Automotive employee discovered batteries taped together with wires that were taped to the leg of an outside picnic table, apparently as a joke, according to information entered into the police log.

Police records indicated the man said the device wasn't intended to hurt anyone, and he then forgot to remove the device.

The device was destroyed by the bomb squad.

Auto damage

A Plymouth man told police that a passenger got out of a car shortly after midnight March 11 and began kicking the passenger side of his 1994 Ford Probe in the parking lot of New York Deli on Ann Arbor Road.

The man said he was driving his girlfriend home in the area of Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon when a red Jeep Cherokee Sport began riding close to his bumper, a police report said.

He told police that the two men started "flipping him off" and began chasing him on east-bound Ann Arbor Road, east of Sheldon, and then pulled out in front of him. The Plymouth man said he put his car in reverse and backed into the New York Deli parking lot where the damage to his car took place, the report said.

Paint ball damage

Three homeowners reported damage caused by paint balls last week.

An Elmhurst resident reported March 12 that someone hit the white asbestos siding on one side of his house with paint balls.

A Trillium Lane resident said that someone shot his garage door with orange paint balls March 12.

A man said someone hit with paint-ball pellets the driver's side of his 1998 Mazda sometime between 9:30 p.m. March 10 and 1 a.m. March 11. The car was parked at the corner of Judson and Corinne.

ing. Nearly 50 people attended focus groups during the day, with another 80 showing up at the Cultural Center to give their opinions in the evening. About half the crowd was from Plymouth Township, a community from which the city's recreation programs draw heavily.

"I like the senior golf activity, and I know a lot of other seniors in the township like it too," said Charlotte Goffield of Plymouth Township.

It was no surprise to Assistant City Manager Paul Sincok that many township residents were at the session.

"The city recreation program has a service area that includes Plymouth Township," said Sincok. "Clearly, the message was the city and township need to work together on recreational issues. That was the message I heard."

Plymouth attorney and township resident, Cam Miller, agrees with Sincok.

"Our library is a jewel that was built in cooperation with two communities," said Miller. "It's important that a committee that looks at any millage increase also needs to look at a master plan so people know what will be done with the money."

As for what the community would like to see in a master plan, the ideas haven't changed much over time.

"A lot of discussion centered around additional facilities at the Cultural Center, be it the ice, lockerrooms or fitness center," said Jennifer Frey, senior project planner for Langworthy, Strader and LeBlanc of Royal Oak. "Many want to expand the ice because of the number of participants in the programs, and the trend for women's facilities as well."

"There was a lot of discussion about additional fields for soccer and baseball," added Frey. "And a lot of seniors talked about what they like about their programs."

Frey said her company "will take a look at facilities already in place in Plymouth and combine that with recommendations from citizens to identify priorities. We want to have a plan for the next five years so there's a clear vision of what the city hopes to accomplish and how it needs to do it, through funding and partnerships."

Frey said a master plan should be available for review by the city commission, and a formal public hearing, sometime in July.

What people are saying

"We're running out of space for the baseball, football and soccer teams. There's just not enough room or adequate facilities."

Clara Hill
Plymouth

"Because the Parks and Recreation Department has access to grants the Downtown Development Authority might not otherwise, it may be a good partnership. There is a lot of talk about partnering on projects for downtown, like public restrooms, Kellogg Park fountain, universal signage for all parks."

Melanie Purcell
Director, Downtown Development Authority

"I think we're real short on recreational opportunities here. We've been in a cut mode too long, and at some point you get what you pay for. I would like for us to get a plan, get some funding to go along with that, and actually keep the plan. The township holds the key to this whole thing, because of space and money. We're limited in the city in both."

Lee Harrison
Plymouth

"Recreation is not just for kids. It's for everyone, and that's how we can make it a community recreation plan. We can always come up with space, and money flows to good ideas ... from taxes, donations or grants from the government."

Scott Lorenz

"I'd like to see another sheet of ice for the Cultural Center, and an outdoor ice facility for just skating or pickup games."

KAFIR LILY

Anyone wanting to enjoy a striking-looking flowering houseplant at home would do well to select a Kafir lily. This native of South Africa is a rhizome that develops heads of 8 to 10 pretty, orange, bell-shaped flowers, which emerge from thick stalks surrounded by glossy leaves. In its sub-tropical home, the Kafir lily grows among rocks and crevices in damp and shaded conditions. It can reach upwards of 1-1/2 feet in height, and will flower regularly in early spring as long as certain rules are obeyed. It needs space, as well as winter rest. And, it does not like to be repotted unless it is root-bound. The plant also benefits from a spell outdoors during the summer months.

Houseplants are attractive, easy to maintain, and are natural air filters. What more could one ask for in an addition to your home decor? Whether you want to decorate, say "Thank You" or "Get Well Soon," say it with a plant or flowers from HEIDE'S FLOWERS & GIFTS, 995 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth (453-5140). Since 1899, HEIDE'S FLOWERS & GIFTS has been dedicated to providing quality and service to our community.

HINT: With proper care, the Kafir lily can be expected to live for many years.

Colthurst drops out

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER
tbruscato@oe.hometown.com

The field of candidates for the 20th District House of Representatives race has decreased by one with the announcement by Eric Colthurst that he's no longer a candidate.

In a letter to his constituents, Colthurst said he's run into "a gray area of the law which essentially precludes my candidacy. Any time during the campaign or even after the election, a court could declare me ineligible."

The gray area centers around Colthurst's part-time job as a magistrate for 35th District Court in Plymouth. A 1963 state of Michigan constitutional provision states that a judge cannot run for a non-judicial elective office for at least one year after he or she is no longer a judge.

"Even though the plain language of the article states 'judge' and not 'magistrate,' a later Michigan court rule defines 'judge' as including a 'magistrate,'" explained Colthurst in his letter to supporters. "I cannot ask you to spend your time, money and loyalty to such a situation."

Colthurst, of Northville, said he decided in February 1999 to run for the House seat after reading the state constitution, which showed no conflict.

However, after hearing some rumblings about his running he contacted the State Bar of Michigan last month for an ethical ruling, which said a judge must resign before becoming a candidate. Colthurst said he thought his candidacy was still on line until he read the Michigan court rule which states a magistrate, a non-elected official, faces the same qualifications as a judge, who is elected by the community.

"I didn't think it was a problem, but it's become more apparent to me that it is a problem," said Colthurst. "It could become enough of an issue to detract from the real issues of the campaign. Another candidate could invalidate my candidacy."

Colthurst said he's raised $22,000 for his campaign, and all the money will be returned to contributors.

Colthurst doesn't believe the constitution meant to include magistrates as judges, and would like to see the rule changed.

"I'll decide at a later date if I will challenge the ruling," said Colthurst. "I think it needs to be cleared up for future candidates."

POLICE BEAT

Plymouth police are investigating the armed robbery of the Total gas station on Mill Street last Saturday night.

Lt. Wayne Carroll said a white male, wearing a bandanna over his face and a pair of gloves, walked into the gas station about 11:15 p.m. and implied to the cashier that he had a gun.

A police dog was called in to search for the suspect. Carroll said he is investigating several leads.

Bill would protect privacy of genetic testing

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

Health insurers won't be able to view genetic information about prospective policyholders before deciding whether to sign them up, under a bill approved by the Michigan House and Senate and now awaiting final approval by the governor.

"We don't want people to avoid getting the medical tests they need out of fear that the DNA information could be used against them later. They should not be afraid to have the genetic tests they need done so that they can start getting the treatment they need, if there is a treatment that would be helpful to them," Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, explained.

Fear that genetic tests conducted to identify future health problems might later be used as grounds for denial of health care coverage had Michigan residents concerned, according to the Governor's Commission on Genetic Privacy. When the commission, created in 1997, reported back to the legislature last year that the fear could cause residents to begin avoiding getting genetic tests, it also recommended the pending legislation.

The commission also heard from researchers who said that fears DNA information might fall into the hands of health insurance companies was already having a "chilling effect" on state residents signing up to participate in genetic research projects.

The four bill package, sponsored chiefly by Sen. John Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, would prohibit Blue Cross Blue Shield, health insurance companies and health maintenance organizations from reviewing genetic information prior to issuing policies and from selecting customers based on genetic information.

Federal legislation has already been enacted barring the use of genetic information for group health care providers, but the law does not apply to insurance companies when customers are seeking insurance individually. President Clinton has called for the extension of the rule to all health insurance companies. But Schwarz's package would take care of the issue here in Michigan.

Weeding out prospective policyholders based on a predisposition to certain genetic diseases would defy the purpose of health insurance, says Schwarz.

"That's what insurance is about — shared risk," he said.

Law, who shepherded the package through the state House, agrees. Insurance premiums might be lower for some but prohibitively expensive for those who have DNA markers for some genetic diseases, whether they actually develop the malady or not.

The bills have seen little opposition. Blue Cross supports the package, as does the Michigan State Medical Society.

Rep. Gerald Law

They received strong support in the Legislature. The main bill, Senate Bill 591, passed in a 37-0 vote in the Senate and a 106-0 vote in the House.

Some think the bills don't go far enough. The Michigan Jewish Conference has argued the rules should be extended to bar insurance companies from considering all aspects of family medical history. The American Civil Liberties Union argues genetic information contained in patient's medical records could still fall into the hands of the insurance companies.

Other pieces of the package also address the storage and disposal of genetic samples. When genetic tests are taken in a criminal investigation, in paternity cases, or in blood testing of newborns, the law currently is not clear how or for how long the samples will be retained. The bills give the Department of Community Health orders to create rules regarding how long such records are to be retained and when they will be destroyed.

While the bills address health insurance, they do not prohibit life insurance companies from considering DNA information.

"That's a whole 'nother issue," Law said. "Life insurance companies do look at a number of factors that affect how long you will live. They look at medical history and whether or not you smoke. That's different. Medical insurance is seen as a necessity. Life insurance is not seen as the same thing."

State Rep. Gerald Law

Legislators approve accelerating income tax reduction

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@hometown.net

Michigan will cut its income tax revenue by $175 million this year as soon as the governor signs legislation already passed by the House and Senate.

A quick signature is expected, since Gov. John Engler initially proposed the tax cutting measure in his State of the State address earlier this year.

Lawmakers have approved House Bill 5389, accelerating the state's income tax rate reduction by one year, cutting it from 4.3 percent to 4.2 percent retroactive to Jan. 1. On a taxable income of $40,000 that works out to a tax reduction of $40 a year.

Last year, lawmakers approved a reduction in the state income tax incrementally reducing the income tax rate from 4.4 percent to 3.9 percent over a number of years. The bill would speed the reduction up one year.

Republicans say the bill is needed to return to taxpayers some of the state's budget surplus, the result of good economic times.

Democrats, like Rep. Ruth Jamnick, D-Ypsilanti, and David Woodward, D-Madison Heights, said the money should be going to health care and child care proposals.

Representatives approved the legislation in a 70-39 vote in February. Senators followed up last week with a 36-1 approval before sending the package off to the governor for final approval. Sen. Alma Wheeler Smith, D-South Lyon, was the only dissenter in the upper chamber.

The bill is only one of a number pending to trim tax loads.

Also under consideration are: ■ House Bill 5390, which creates a uniform $600 income tax exemption for children through age 18. The current exemption is $600 for each child age 1 to 6, and $300 for each child age 7 to 12.

■ House Bills 5391 and 5392, which would increase the personal exemption for senior citizens and people with disabilities from $900 to $1,800, and extending the increases to dependents.

■ House Bill 5393, which increases the Homestead Property Tax Credit for people with disabilities.

■ House Bill 4032, which increases the Homestead Property Tax Credit by lowering the threshold to 3 percent for senior citizens, allowing a more substantial refund. It allows seniors to receive dollar-for-dollar refunds on anything above 3 percent of their income going to property taxes up to $1,200.

■ House Bill 5394, to increase the investment tax credits for small businesses with adjusted gross receipts of $5 million or less. The bill is designed to mitigate the temporary tax burden felt by some small businesses as a result of the recently enacted phase-out of the Single Business Tax.

Symposium will focus on quality

The Angileri Quality Institute and Madonna University will host Symposium 2000, "Mistake-proofing," on Tuesday, April 11.

Automotive expert John McElroy, editorial director of Blue Sky Productions, will be the keynote luncheon speaker. The morning workshop on "Mistake-proofing" will be conducted by John L. Lindland of Eastern Michigan University, a consultant and seminar leader in the automotive and military industries.

Designed for Tier II and Tier III suppliers to the automotive industry, the Symposium will be held from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Kresge Hall, at Madonna University in Livonia. The cost is $95 for the entire day or $25 for the luncheon and keynote only.

McElroy has covered the automotive industry for both radio and television stations. He has appeared on ABC's "World News Tonight" with Peter Jennings, CBS News with Dan Rather, NBC Nightly News with Tom Brokaw, and reports daily on WWJ 950 AM in Detroit.

During the event, a $2,000 "Angileri Quality Award" will be presented to a Madonna University business student who has contributed significantly to quality improvements in the automotive industry or related fields. Since 1997, three students have received this award.

The Symposium is sponsored by the Angileri Quality Institute and the Madonna University School of Business.

Reservations will be accepted through Tuesday, April 4. For more information, call the School of Business at (734)432-5354 or fax (734)432-5364.

The Angileri Quality Institute was established by Frank E. and Bessie Angileri of Livonia and is operated by the Madonna University School of Business. The Institute explores and solves problems related to quality issues, especially among small and medium companies, in the automotive field. The prime objective is to foster quality awareness throughout the automotive industry and its supplier base, and train personnel in cost effective programs to improve organizational performance including quality improvement.

Ho-hum, Gore wins state; caucus gets thumbs down

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@hometownnews.net

Presidential candidate Al Gore fared well with Democratic voters in Michigan Saturday.

But the party's use of caucuses, rather than a primary election, did not.

"It kind of defies openness," said Southfield caucus site manager Paul Condino, who is also a member of the Southfield City Council. Democrats settled on a caucus system after state Republicans decided to use an "open primary" to determine their choice for a presidential nominee. The Democratic National Committee won't consider results from an "open primary," only primaries in which voters are asked to declare their party affiliation, on the grounds that it should be party members who decide the nominee.

But Republicans in Michigan may have learned a lesson, due to the crossover voting seen Feb. 22, Condino said.

"Hopefully, this will bring Republicans back to the table so we can find a way to do it (hold primary elections) on the same day," he said.

Former Gov. James Blanchard, on hand at the party's Southfield site in the Ramada Inn to cast his first vote in a caucus, also said he dislikes the system. He said he had instituted the primary election in which voters were asked to declare party preference, but that system was used only in one election before it was dumped by current Gov. John Engler.

That system increased participation but eliminated crossover.

"Engler may now agree with it," Blanchard said.

Participation was lower than expected Saturday when the party held its caucus run-off between Gore and former New Jersey Sen. Bill Bradley. But then, Bradley had announced his withdrawal from the race just two days before the voting was scheduled to occur. That made the caucus a "non-event," even to many who still attended.

Out of the total 19,160 votes cast in the caucus, some 15,478 were submitted ahead of time as absentee ballots by mail, according to the figures released by the party. And that means they were cast before Bradley announced his decision.

Gore collected 15,853 of them. Bradley tallied just 3,117.

Gore won every congressional district in the state. Nonetheless, the tightest race was in the 8th Congressional District, which includes Livingston, Ingham and northwestern Oakland counties. There, Bradley received 520 votes compared to Gore's 1,289.

In the 9th District, in northern Oakland, Bradley won just 99

"I'd prefer to see a primary, but a closed primary. I have no problem declaring party preference. It would be at regular polling places. As it is, I had to rearrange my work schedule. I did that before the race was decided, so I could be here. So this is a big disappointment."

votes compared to Gore's 583. In the 12th, in southeast Oakland, it was Gore, 1,003, Bradley, 278. And in the 13th district in western Wayne, Gore tallied 1,128 to Bradley's 435.

In the 11th Congressional District, in southwest Oakland, Gore recorded 1,254 to Bradley's 379.

Only about 50 Democrats gathered in the Ramada Saturday morning.

Among them was Maxine Hillman of Southfield, a self-described "political junkie." She said she would much prefer an open primary, just as the Republicans used in nominating their candidate here in Michigan.

Southfield's Roger Hane likewise was unhappy with the process.

"It's a big inconvenience," he said. "I'd prefer to see a primary, but a closed primary. I have no problem declaring party preference. It would be at regular polling places. As it is, I had to rearrange my work schedule. I did that before the race was decided, so I could be here. So this is a big disappointment. Still, it is nice to hob-knob with other Democrats."

State Sen. Gary Peter, D-Bloomfield, spoke on behalf of Gore before the balloting Saturday. He said Gore would keep the economy moving forward, and he noted that most voters nationwide, when polled, give the current administration the credit for the economy.

"But what do we do with this prosperity?" Peters asked. "That's what this election is about. We've eliminated the deficit and we are running surpluses. So what do we do with this prosperity? Al Gore has some very sound plans for what to do with it, while George Bush would adopt what I believe is a very risky plan to give tax breaks to the most wealthy."

Tops on Gore's list is improving the quality of health care, including the enactment of a strong patients' bill of rights. Improvements in education, including a commitment to increased preschooling for youngsters, and financial security.

Southfield's Frederick Strickland spoke on behalf of Bradley, urging voters. "Don't be afraid to vote for Bill Bradley." That is the only way the former New Jersey senator's message of helping the 14 million who are still living in poverty, providing universal access to health care, enacting gun control laws and promoting racial unity will be moved forward.

"There is still time to coalesce behind Al Gore," he said.

County co-hosts meeting to promote census return

The Wayne County Commission, hoping to avoid a repeat of the estimated 25-30 percent undercount of 10 urban and suburban communities in the 1990 census, is co-hosting a Census Call to Action Conference on Friday, March 18.

The countywide, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. program for city and community leaders at Cobo Center in Detroit aims to increase participation in the population survey conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau. Screening for census jobs also will be held then.

"We will put every effort forward" to assure the best participation for the most accurate count, said Commissioner Chris Cavanaugh, D-Grosse Pointe.

While most of the attention has focused on the City of Detroit's possibly falling below the one-million mark, Cavanaugh pointed out the count is just as critical to the other nine under-counted communities - including Redford Township.

Noting the county loses an estimated $3,000 per year for 10 years for every person missed in the census, Cavanaugh said "The rest of the county is impacted just as strenuously" as is Detroit.

Redford's census in 1990 - over 54,000 - was said by local officials to be low. Current estimates now put it at under 50,000.

Other suburbs under-counted include Dearborn, Inkster, Romulus, Ecorse, Taylor, River Rouge, Hamtramck and Highland Park.

Joining community leaders in the various seminars and workshops during Saturday's conference, which Detroit is co-hosting, will be U.S. census officials.

For additional information, call the Census 2000 office at (313) 567-2000.

Husk says complaints warrant Friend of Court audit

BY RICHARD PEARL
STAFF WRITER
rpearl@oe.homecomm.net

A Wayne County commissioner said Tuesday that, despite being told the day before that changes are coming in Friend of the Court operations, she still wants an audit.

"It (FOC operations) is a very important item," said Kathleen Husk, R-Redford Township, following a meeting Monday to discuss Friend of the Court operations with FOC officials.

The telephone in her office "may not be ringing off the hook" with complaints from constituents about problems with the agency, she said. "But whenever it's brought up, people chime in" with their own experiences.

Friend of the Court, part of Wayne County's Circuit Court system, handles divorce matters relating to child support and parental rights.

Kathleen Husk

Husk said she's heard of child-support payments made but never received by the custodial parent, of errors in payment records and of long waits on the telephone for service.

People have complained to her about having to leave work to make copies of their canceled checks and then take them to the FOC office. "What a pain!" she remarked.

Another problem, she said, is that FOC referees handling the same case, but at different times, apparently don't confer with each other and thus make conflicting decisions.

She was pleased by Monday's meeting and the information she received about planned satellite FOC offices, new record-keeping programs and other things.

"I want to see what's going to happen," Husk said. "I want to see things get improved."

'Majority good'

Her own inquiries have shown her, she said, that "the majority of people are good people" when it comes to meeting their court-ordered obligations.

"That's what makes it so frustrating," she said. "They're not deadbeats, but their names" wind up among those in arrears on support payments.

Husk met with a group headed by Alexander Luvall, the county's top court administrator, which included Elena Kerasiotis, acting FOC director; C. Jane Varner, Family Division administrator; state Rep. Gloria Schermesser; Robert Morris, Wayne County lobbyist and Virginia McCoy, county courts director of special projects.

The commissioner said she was told, among other things, that two satellite Friend of the Court offices would open in western Wayne County by the end of the year; that an FOC Web site offering legal forms is planned; that supervisors would be made available to handle problems clerks can't resolve; and that existing records are to be scanned into a computer system.

Two years

"That makes sense to me," she said of the latter, even though it will take two years to complete. "It (record-keeping) should be more accurate."

Husk said she also was told that a new automated telephone system running round the clock has been installed to help speed the handling of the 384 calls per day the agency averages.

She said an audit could show, for example, how long it takes FOC personnel to handle each call.

Blocking an operations audit by the county is court officials' claim the county, which provides a little over 25 percent of the FOC's $150 million annual budget, can only audit its finances.

Wayne County Auditor Brendan Dunleavy reportedly is meeting this week with Luvall on the issue.

Ben Washburn, commission counsel, said the court argues that, since the FOC gets $70 million in federal funding, "it's not reasonable for the county to audit something it's not funding."

"But the reason we want" to do the audit "is the federal government appears to be withdrawing support in the near future" and the county may be providing more financial support, he said.

"If that occurs, the county may want assurances as to what they are funding is reasonable," Washburn said.

"What we're talking about on the one hand is recognizing the independence of the judiciary, but on the other hand everybody recognizing we have to collaborate," he said.

Husk's approach is similar. "I think they (the FOC) understand we want to help and I hope they will let us in to do a full audit," she said.

Redford father complains about Friend of Court procedures

BY RICHARD PEARL
STAFF WRITER
rpearl@oe.homecomm.net

Todd Kokko knows well the problems people have with the Friend of the Court system.

The Redford Township resident's divorce is under jurisdiction of the Oakland County FOC, "but it's no better up there than in Wayne," he said.

In his case, he said, he kept getting notices of being $158 in arrears on child support payments to his ex-wife, who lives in Walled Lake.

He knew he wasn't behind, but when he got no response to his calls and letters, he requested an audit — and found out from the FOC figures themselves that "they owed me $650."

Incidentally, he said, although state law requires the audit be done within 30 days, "it took well over eight or nine months."

When he filed grievances with the FOC, it didn't respond, he said. So, in June 1998, he appealed three of them to the county's chief judge — who also didn't respond.

Kokko enlisted the aid of then-state senator Robert Geake. The chief judge responded with a two-sentence letter saying "he'd get to them (grievances) when he had time," Kokko said.

"To this date, I still haven't heard," he said.

Father of a 12-year-old son, Kokko, who works as an engineer, said he's had to fight to stay involved in the boy's life — first with both his ex-wife and "the system," but now mainly the system.

He told of how one time even the police wouldn't get involved. His ex had denied him his visitation with his son — a felony in Michigan — but the desk officer wouldn't file a report until Kokko demanded the officer be arrested for dereliction of duty.

Not surprisingly, he's involved in father's rights groups and volunteers as a consultant: "I do counseling to help people along."

He's also purchased the right to use "friend of the court" as a Web site for dispersing information — it's still under construction, he said — and he has used the Freedom of Information Act to compile statistics on Michigan custody awards since 1991.

That showed him that "in about 80-85 percent of the cases, the courts awarded women custody" of the children, with men getting them in only about 7 percent, he said.

"What we truly, honestly believe," he said, "is that the active involvement of both parents" in child-rearing "is critical" whether or not the parents stay together, but that with the current system, "90 percent of the fathers are wiped out of their kids' lives."

The battles men have to fight to stay involved produce "negativism," he said. "You hit so many walls, you finally ask yourself, 'Why am I killing myself here? You get beat up and hit on every turn.'"

He doesn't advocate throwing an ex-spouse in jail for denying visitation rights, but he feels

"It's that important for fathers to be active in (their) child's life" that "if a custodial parent has to be punished, maybe people will learn that child support isn't the only thing" that's important.

As for himself, Kokko said he and his former wife generally have worked things out since that incident. For one thing, each parent supports the other in disciplinary matters.

And, he says, he couldn't be more proud of how his son is growing up.

"He got in trouble once for spitting out of a school bus window, but if that's the worst he does, I feel fortunate," Kokko said.

Timing of holiday lucky for St. Paddy's Day revelers

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER
hneedham@oe.homecomm.net

St. Patrick's Day falling on a Friday has proven to be a stroke of Irish luck for businesses in Plymouth and Canton. Two new area businesses - Jack Dunleavy's Grill, 340 N. Main in Plymouth, and Lynch's costume supply store, 7399 Lilley at Warren in Canton - plan to do a good deal of St. Patrick's Day business.

At Jack Dunleavy's Grill, the focus Friday will be on tradition - Irish beer, food and live entertainment.

The restaurant opened in Plymouth six months ago but has existed at locations in Detroit and Farmington. They are not affiliated with Dunleavy's on Grand River in Farmington. The restaurant is celebrating its 70th St. Patrick's Day this year.

"On St. Patrick's Day, I think everybody can relate to the Irish because it is a happy, festive time," said owner Jack Dunleavy, the son of Irish parents who were born in Boholo, a city in County Mayo.

"Everybody likes to feel a little Irish on St. Patrick's Day."

Providing entertainment throughout the day will be the Guinness Pipe Band and the Budweiser Bagpipers. Singer Peter Quinn, formerly a member of the band the Murphymen, will perform at 7 p.m.

Guinness stout, Caffrey's Irish Ale and two house beers - Dunleavy's red and Irish ales - will flow from the bar taps. Harp lager, also an Irish brew, will be served in bottles.

Green domestic beers will also be served on draft.

As for Irish grub, corned beef and cabbage, Irish stew and fish and chips will be among the selections to choose from.

"What we drink is happy and what we eat is happy," Dunleavy said.

Cardinal Adam Maida of the Archdiocese of Detroit announced recently that on St. Patrick's Day, those observing Lent can still have their corned beef and cabbage.

"...I will offer - for those who would like to take it for that day - a dispensation so that Catholics can, in good faith, celebrate the traditions of our Irish heritage and be thankful to the Lord for all the blessings that come to us because of that," Maida said in a WJR radio interview last week.

Dunleavy said such proclamations are typical when St. Patrick's Day falls on a Friday.

"I think God's a little Irish anyway," he said jokingly.

Those looking for something festively green to wear might want to stop at Lynch's, which opened eight months ago in Canton.

Lynch's sells St. Patrick's Day items including green hats, green masquerade masks, green wigs, green makeup and hair-spray and for the more theatrical, green leprechaun costumes with top hats. Lynch's also has stores in Dearborn and Warren.

"It's a reason to dress up," store manager Pam Ryan said of the holiday, which is a religious and bank holiday in Ireland.

Ryan said she expects last-minute St. Patrick's shoppers, including bars and restaurants, will create a rush of business up until Friday. Many pubs and taverns hand out free goodies like green plastic derby hats to customers on St. Patrick's Day.

With Easter roughly six weeks away, many have planned ahead and either purchased or rented Easter bunny suits, Ryan said.

In addition to St. Patrick's Day and Halloween supplies, Lynch's also sells and rents costumes, dance shoes and attire, and skating and gymnastics apparel.

When one counts school plays, dance recitals, theme weddings and even school book reports, costuming is a year-round business, Ryan said.

Lynch's sales associate Mave-na Ferris said she gets a kick out of watching people transform from reserved wallflowers to mighty pirates, evil witches or sprightly leprechauns when they put on a costume.

"It's fun," Ferris said. "I watch people come in here and when they start putting a costume on, their whole personality changes."

FBI looking for help in break-ins

The FBI is offering a reward of up to $10,000 for information leading to the arrest and prosecution of the person or people responsible for a string of break-ins of automated teller machines.

More than 20 Standard Federal Bank teller machines, some at bank branches but most outside Clark gas stations, have been forced open since December in communities throughout southern Michigan, said special agent

Marciann Grzadzinski, FBI spokeswoman.

Most of the break-ins have taken place in the Detroit area, but some have been as far away as Holland and Bay City.

"They're using torches. They're using sledgehammers. They're using anything to just annihilate these machines," Grzadzinski said.

Locally, the break-ins have occurred in Farmington Hills, Wayne, Troy, Waterford, Commerce Township and Belleville, among other communities, Grzadzinski said.

The FBI is asking anyone with information to call special agent William O'Leary or detective Randy Newlin at the Oakland County FBI office, (248) 858-0692. Callers do not have to leave their names.

City announces compost start

The city of Plymouth Solid Waste Division has announced the start-up date of the spring compost collection.

Beginning the week of April 3, crews from Mister Rubbish will begin special collections of compostable materials. Collections will occur on the resident's regular trash day, but will be separate from the regular trash and recyclable collection. City residents should have their compostable materials, such as grass clippings, at the curb in the large brown "kraft" paper bags by 6 a.m. on their regular trash days.

"The early spring and nice weather has had some residents out raking their yards and doing spring clean-up early this year," said Scott Cabauatan, special projects coordinator. "Residents are advised to hold back their compost bags until the start of the regular compost pick-up during the week of April 3. Waiting for the regular compost pick-up will keep this material out of the landfills."

Each year the city of Plymouth offers residents a special compost collection, generally from mid-April through late October, to collect bagged leaves and grass clippings. Compost collection paper bags in the city do not require the city's solid waste bag tag that's used for regular trash collection.

Residents with questions related to compost collection can contact the city's Solid Waste and Recycling Hotline at (734) 455-1392.

Program helps teachers sharpen math skills

BY RICHARD PEARL
STAFF WRITER
rpearl@oe.homecomm.net

Some 120 non-tenured teachers in grades 2-5 from across Wayne County will seek this spring to sharpen their mathematics and science teaching skills via a training program created under the auspices of the South Redford School District.

Managing Math and Science, designed by veteran school district instructor Syndee Malek for those with up to three years' teaching experience, will run 3-8 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, March 28 to June 8, at eight county sites.

It is one of only seven proposals funded out of 78 submitted to Operation Achievement, a Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency (Wayne RESA) program.

A total of $2 million in funding was provided county school districts and RESA staff.

"We feel the initiatives we've selected will have a significant impact on the children of Wayne County" in terms of "dramatically improving student achievement," said Mike Flanagan, Wayne RESA superintendent.

The chosen proposals met "stringent criteria, including demonstrated impact on student achievement, capacity-building, links to the Michigan Curriculum Framework and maximizing the use of technology."

'We feel the initiatives we've selected will have a significant impact on the children of Wayne County' in terms of 'dramatically improving student achievement.'

Mike Flanagan
Wayne RESA Superintendent

A grant of $184,000 was awarded the proposal by Malek, a Livonia resident who's taught 13 years in South Redford classrooms and has also been a math and science consultant to school districts nationwide for 10 of those years.

The funding will, among other things, provide materials her teachers will learn with and then utilize in their classrooms, she said.

The program will help teachers learn to both "manage the materials and the kids at the same time," Malek said. "It will make the learning process move smoothly and help teachers make the most effective use of time they have available."

"It's a really good professional development experience," she said.

Ultimately, Malek said, the program will help youngsters "understand how to use the tools in the classroom" such as microscopes, balances and weights "in real life."

Flanagan said preference was given "to those proposals that had the capacity to reach the largest potential audience" — such as ones like Malek's which use teleconferencing and video re-broadcasts on the county's cable television station.

"We wanted applicants to really think outside the box and find ways to ensure that everyone benefits from their idea," he said.

Malek said all of her teachers will meet in study groups punctuated by a series of four teleconferences on the cable system. Study groups will be offered at South Redford's Jefferson Elementary School as well as in Northville, the Westwood district, Van Buren, Gibraltar, Hamtramck and at two Detroit schools.

The teacher said her project is the outgrowth of one she did last year "on a much smaller scale," with only 17 teachers involved and no television.

The six other funded proposals and their leaders are Early Literacy Resources and Professional Development, grades K-3, led by Trenton Public Schools; How to Develop Online Courses, high school, by Wayne RESA; MEAP Science Game and Economics for the Middle School, by Riverview Community Schools; Middle School Science in the City, middle schools, by Detroit Public Schools; The New Teacher Academy and Professional Development for Science and Social Studies (two courses), K-5, Grosse Pointe and Northville Public Schools; and RESA's Online Learning Academy, all grades.

Justin Ravitz challenges racial commitment

BY TRACEY BIRKENHAUER
STAFF WRITER

If you had been raised a different color, would your life be vastly different?

Justin Ravitz asked about 50 school administrators, students, dignitaries and community members to ponder that question March 9 during "Civil Rights: Then & Now," an interactive talk sponsored by the Farmington/Farmington Hills Multicultural/Multiracial Community Council.

The Southfield attorney and former Detroit Recorder's Court judge asked attendees to question their dedication to America's civil rights struggle.

"The problem of the 21st century is the racial divide," he proclaimed. "And at the heart of all discrimination lies the same cancer."

He blamed people in power, including police officers and officials ranging from Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson to Gov. John Engler, for enjoying the benefits of a racist society. He said Detroit cops play the role of an occupational army.

Ravitz said one of his clients was caught Driving While Black in Redford in April of 1999. The police said he had a knife, Ravitz said, although the attorney said he couldn't see it on the police videotape. His client received 17 bullet wounds in his body and walks with a limp from that contact, Ravitz said.

Ravitz said he sued and won. The officers kept their jobs. Ravitz said one of the officers was later fired for raping prostitutes.

"Only we can eradicate this by standing arm in arm and not allowing them to divide and conquer," he said. "It's in my self-interest to live in a self-respecting world where we understand commonality and we're committed to doing all we can."

Ravitz said our civil rights struggle started in 1492, when an arrogant guy stumbled across this country and claimed he discovered it, even though other people were already here.

"We've made progress," he said. "But we're not even close to achieving racial harmony."

With his personal stories of tragedies and successes, Ravitz stirred emotions and memories, bringing some tears.

Many shared personal stories. Growing up in Winston-Salem, N.C., Lasenia Jones remembers the segregated 1950s well.

She stood and shared her story with the group. "There was nowhere to play, swim or go to the bathroom," she said.

Her parents taught the black girl who would become an elementary school principal how to walk if she spotted a police officer — quickly. She was always to walk in a group, because "in certain areas of the state, things were likely to happen."

At 52, the respected Wooddale principal still refuses to drink from a porcelain drinking fountain.

"They were reserved for us," she said. "We used to refuse to drink from them at all. My family took a cooler in the car. We had everything in the trunk."

Gloria Vanderlugt approached Jones after the talk. The family service coordinator for Farmington Public Schools had a racially charged upbringing, although she is white.

Vanderlugt lived in a predominantly black area of Chicago. She can remember being the only white kid walking home from school to the projects.

"People would throw bricks and call me names," she said. "Even the police would stop me and ask what I was doing there."

"I know what you mean," Jones said, shaking her head. "I had to intervene for friends who were white, or just fair-skinned."

The multicultural/multiracial council's co-chairman said the event was a success.

"I think the purpose was to create awareness," said Jim Hall. "There's a reason people find themselves in the positions they're in. The group in power bears some responsibility. I'm not playing a victim role here. But they can use their power to elevate people out of that position."

Ravitz called for Farmington to become a model community.

"Lord knows, we need some good modeling, eh?"

YOUR DOG'S KNEES

A common orthopedic problem for dogs is a tear in the anterior cruciate ligament (ACL), which is found in the hind leg's knee. Large dogs are susceptible to this stress-induced injury during physical exercise. When the ACL is damaged, the dog becomes lame in the hind leg. If left untreated, the dog may suffer painful arthritis and scar tissue and be more likely to tear its other ACL. A lateral suture is commonly used to replace the damaged ligament. The dog recovers for several weeks and eventually regains mobility, though a small limp may remain. A newer procedure called TPLO (tibial plateau leveling operation) realigns the knee and removes part of the tibia so that the ACL becomes unnecessary.

If your dog shows signs of limping for more than a day or two, please contact PARKWAY VETERINARY CLINIC. Our reputation for expert, compassionate veterinary care is well-deserved - please don't hesitate to ask questions of our knowledgeable staff. Visit either of our two locations at 41395 Wilcox Rd. in Plymouth, tel. 734-453-2577, or 5750 Lilley Rd. in Canton, tel. 734-981-4400. Both locations are open six days a week for your convenience.

P.S. Keeping your dog in good shape with regular exercise may reduce the risk of ACL injuries.

Compassionate veterinarian will head state group

BY TRACEY BIRKENHAUER
STAFF WRITER

A kind touch, caring voice and skilled hands have proven successful elements for veterinary doctor David Carron.

For 21 years, he's treated countless sick, scared and frisky pets. He's also counseled the owners. In 1998, he purchased Plaza Veterinary Hospital in Farmington from his former partner, John Richardson, who is now semi-retired.

Carron's compassionate demeanor and head for business will undoubtedly help him with his latest undertaking. On Jan. 28, Carron, 47, was named president of the Michigan Veterinary Medical Association, a 1,700-member organization based in the Lansing area. The presidency carries a one-year term.

Founded in 1833, the MVMA primarily focuses on member education, services, public information and state regulations.

"Essentially, it's like our union," Carron said.

The president runs the organization and heads the 25-member board of directors.

"I'm convinced he'll be a good president," said Peter Prescott, MVMA executive director. "He gets along well with people and he represents the profession well."

After more than 20 years of membership, Carron finally agreed it was his turn to head the group. He ran unchallenged.

"I scared away the competition," Carron joked from behind his cluttered desk.

He said although it's one of the most important aspects of the MVMA, education can be difficult to manage because there are so many types of veterinary practices, from institutional to regulatory. Some veterinary doctors treat only horses or cows. Others don't treat animals at all.

"Ophthalmologists all do basically the same thing," Carron said. "We don't."

The second most essential service the MVMA provides is monitoring state legislation that impacts veterinarians. The group employs a lobbyist to promote its interests.

The MVMA currently is supporting House Bill 4903, which aims to amend the Public Health Code. It concerns animals abandoned at veterinary offices. The bill passed the state House and Senate and was sent to Gov. John Engler for approval early this month.

The law would redefine abandonment and allow veterinarians to dispose of abandoned animals after 10 days, not the current 25, if veterinarians meet certain legal requirements. Frequently, disposal doesn't mean death, it means the animal is sent to a shelter, unless the animal is ill.

Helping colleagues

"Twenty-five days aren't so bad if it's a cute little kitty that's been left, but if it's a mean rottweiler that wants to eat your head or a very sick animal, 25 days are an eternity," Prescott said. "It's a minor thing, but it's important to veterinarians. It doesn't happen very often, but when it does, it's a big problem. There isn't a veterinarian out there who won't have to deal with it at least once."

With so many issues affecting veterinarians' bottom lines, Carron wants to help his fellow doctors run their practices better. Many new or struggling veterinarians could use the help.

"These are the things they don't really teach in schools," Carron said. "There are so many other things you have to learn about becoming a veterinary doctor, the business aspect sometimes gets ignored."

Carron learned about the business end of the profession from his former boss and partner, John Richardson. John is also a former MVMA president. In an ironic switch, the elder Richardson now works for Carron.

"It's been a super relationship," said Richardson, 67. "We are a nice complement to each other. I come on like gangbusters and he's quiet and unassuming. We attracted a great clientele."

Richardson works one day a week and fills in for his boss when he needs time off.

"I'd say I groomed him well," Richardson said. When Carron went to work for Richardson, he'd been out of college for two years and knew little about running a profitable business.

"He's doing a better job of it today," Richardson said. "They just don't teach you a lot of practice management in college. They teach you how to be a good doctor, but in today's world, management is one of the most important things you can learn. Schools are doing a better job of it now."

A 1977 Michigan State University graduate, Carron and his wife, Marlene, moved to the Farmington area in 1979. They have two children and several pets.

Katie is a pre-veterinary freshman at MSU and Kevin is a student at Farmington High School. They have two dogs, four cats, a parrot, a gecko and a fish tank filled with assorted denizens of the deep.

Growing up with a dog and a cat in Ann Arbor, Carron always knew he would become a veterinarian. He loved pets and his psychiatrist father proved an excellent role model.

"For me, becoming a veterinary doctor was a natural marriage of my interests," Carron said. "I never had any doubts."

Carron has developed many meaningful relationships with local pet owners.

Anne Breneman could compliment her cat doctor for hours. Carron has successfully treated maybe 100 cats for the Backdoor Friends business owner.

"He's wonderful," she said. "You don't feel rushed with him. He spends more time with my cats than my family doctor spends with me."

Tough task

Breneman has referred countless customers to him and she thinks the way he treats her clients reflects positively on her.

"He's good!" she said. "He's seen a lot of my animals through a lot of sicknesses and he's always been terrific. He's just a really good doctor."

Breneman can remember calling Carron at midnight with an emergency.

"My mom's cat was dying and he got out of bed to come to my house and put her down," Breneman said. "I thought that was really sweet."

It may be an important part of his job, but Carron never gets used to euthanizing pets.

"It's not an easy thing we do," he said. "But we can perform that service and put an end to suffering for sick animals."

Just as Carron shares in the excitement of a newborn puppy, he also shares sorrow with people who have to let their pets go. He's cried with grieving pet owners. He offers clients grief counseling through the Southeast Michigan Veterinary Association.

"Once you decide that's your pet, you're instantly bonded," Carron said. "That's your baby. And it's hard to let go."

Carron's empathy and professionalism are what keep clients coming back.

"We treat people as we would like to be treated," Carron said. "They're friends, hopefully. And the pets are our family, too. That's what makes this practice work."

Foundation grants A little help can go a long way

Five hundred bucks. It's not much money for most people these days. Maybe enough to make a car payment with a few dollars left to fill the tank. Or you could buy a good quality suit — men's or women's — but it's not likely to carry a fancy, designer label.

There's one place, though, where $500 still makes a significant impact on a personal budget. The college campus. For young people facing tuition, books and living expenses, that kind of money makes a world of difference. It might mean more time to study and a little less sweeping floors and washing dishes in the dorm cafeteria. It might mean other income can be used for an occasional Saturday night on the town.

We're reminded of this because the Canton Community Foundation has another round of scholarship applications available for the asking.

The foundation has been giving out grants ranging from $250 to $5,000 — with most in the $500 to $1,000 range — since the early 1990s. Last year, the program was expanded to students living in Plymouth as well as Canton and some $20,000 was distributed to 25 traditional and non-traditional students. All told, the foundation has given out more than $100,000 in scholarships to more than 160 individuals. The money is donated by local companies, the colleges and universities themselves, civic organizations and individuals. So you see, those small scholarship checks add up quickly.

Canton resident Melody Jolly is a perfect example. Jolly received a $500 scholarship in 1999 to continue her study of nursing at Schoolcraft College. She is 31 years old and a single parent. "It helped me pay for my classes and for my books," she said. "It was a great help."

That brings up another point. Plymouth and Canton are considered upscale communities by most standards. But that doesn't mean every family can or does send their kids off to college with bulging pockets. Or that young adults who put off college for work or other reasons following high school graduation have it easy when they do decide to enroll.

So it's good that the Canton Community Foundation is there for them.

This year's grants will be awarded in mid-May. Applicants must be Plymouth or Canton residents and meet several other requirements, including:

- Acceptance at a post high school educational institution;

- A cumulative grade point average of 2.5 or better;

- A 500-word essay on why they are deserving of the scholarship

Applications can be picked up at either the Plymouth or Canton libraries, high school counseling offices and the Canton Community Foundation office at the corner of Michigan Avenue and Sheldon roads. Call the foundation at (734) 398-5000 for more information.

Inaction renders gun talk hollow

If you thought the shooting of 6-year-old Kayla Rolland in Mt. Morris Township would get the discussion of gun control flowing, look no further than the Michigan Legislature for proof you were wrong.

In the wake of the first-grade shooting, House Democrats tried to bring measures they'd proposed in November up for discussion. They were quickly shot down by Republicans, with House Speaker Charles Perricone (R-Kalamazoo) accusing Democrats of "manipulating" the process.

Apparently the speaker doesn't feel that stopping the discussion because Republicans are fearful their anti-gun control stance will be used against them at election time is manipulative.

While nearly every lawmaker who could find a microphone decried the tragic events in Mt. Morris Township, many of them disappear when someone calls for tangible action.

Children are killing children, and still no substantive discussion on gun control takes place. As the Mt. Morris case moved into the finger-pointing stage, each side of the gun debate got busy marshaling its troops. Gun control lobbyists are frantically shouting, "See! It was only a matter of time until something like this happened," while gun rights activists are equally frenetic with their assertions that this crime would have happened with or without gun laws.

The sad truth is, given the circumstances in which the 6-year-old shooter was forced to live, the latter is probably closer to the truth than the former. Living among people who traded drugs and guns like children trade baseball cards made a loving, stable life nearly impossible for this young boy.

But that doesn't mean gun control lobbyists are completely wrong. In fact, incidents like these — happening with ever-increasing frequency — bring home the need for more stringent control in a way most events can't. Our children are dying; how much more important can we make the issue to people?

Among the measures being bandied about are child safety locks, a ban on imported high-capacity ammo clips and outlawing gun ownership by young people. The proposals made by Michigan Democrats include banning guns from public places — churches, schools, sports arenas and bars.

President Clinton wants background checks for people who buy guns at gun shows. It's the pivotal issue between Clinton and the Republicans.

We don't believe any of those measures are unreasonable. Of course, opponents will argue that all you're doing is taking rights away from the responsible gun owners and making things easier for the criminal element. That may be, but you've got to start somewhere.

In the wake of the first-grade shooting, gun rights supporters and gun control activists seemed to agree on one thing. Whatever controls are placed on the ownership of weapons will be useless without responsible actions by those entrusted with their possession and care.

The more irresponsibly gun owners act, the more stringent the controls need to be. Hopefully, the message is getting through. Three dealers — Dick's Sporting Goods, Gander Mountain and Sports Authority — have agreed to provide trigger locks for guns sold at all their metro Detroit stores starting March 15.

Of course, it took a $400 million lawsuit against nearly two dozen gunmakers and 10 dealers, after an undercover sting operation revealed illegal sales to minors and felons. But at least there's some measure of safety, no matter how small, that came out of the case.

We're all for rational, impassioned discourse. But without a real effort toward improving safety, all the talk rings hollow. It's time to get something done, before we have to bury another child.

Supporting Potter

We are writing in response to the article in the February 24 issue of the Observer titled, "Magic Words: Harry Potter books attract readers, debate."

In this article, Stephanie Angelyn Caosla uses a quote from Linda Garrett stating that "a number of the (Plymouth-Canton) media specialists stated (at a dinner this fall) that they would not purchase the Harry Potter series for their libraries because they couldn't bare (sic) to face the furor that was bound to erupt."

This is simply not true. Every one of the elementary school media centers has all three books of Harry Potter series available for students to check out. We have loved this series from the time the first book was published and have been strong proponents in encouraging children to read the series.

We are surprised that the Observer would include such a derogatory quote without first checking its validity. In addition, a related article in the paper belies the statement when it discusses in depth the popularity and the staff support of the Harry Potter series at Field Elementary School in Canton.

As media specialists, we are strong supporters of children becoming lifelong readers. We believe that the Harry Potter series is a wonderful and exciting group of books that will help achieve this goal. We are delighted that the Observer printed several articles on children's books and hope this trend continues. However, please correct the false statement that the Plymouth-Canton media specialists do not support the Harry Potter series.

Apology offered

Iwould like to issue a blanket apology to the media specialists of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for my inadvertently offensive remark that appeared in the article re: Harry Potter on Feb. 24 which, taken out of context, did not convey my intent.

I was trying to express that having suffered through book challenges myself, I can empathize with succumbing to community pressure. This one sentence from a lengthy letter totally missed the points I intended to make which were: 1) Every parent has the right/obligation to monitor/censor what their own child reads; 2) Parents do not have the right to censor what other people's children read; 3) Those who would consider challenging a book's inclusion in a school library, please read it first.

As a group, the media specialists from the Plymouth-Canton School District are to be commended for exemplifying the ideals set forth by the American Library Association and the Library Bill of Rights. Their primary concern has always been to encourage students to love reading, as well as teaching them to become "information literate" members of society, often under circumstances that are not conducive to this mission.

Linda Garrett

Vote will preserve site

Hearfelt thanks to the Canton Township Planning Commission for adhering to the high standards set forth in the Master Land Use Plan, and denying the Special Land Use approval for the proposed charter school at Ridge and Warren. It took courage and strength and fortitude!

Melissa McLaughlin's final statement, in particular, put the whole issue in objective terms and gave the reasons for denial. Outstanding Job! You all have supported and helped to preserve this area for current and future generations, and a quality of life enjoyed by many citizens (not only from Canton) who jog, walk and stroll these roads daily.

Lastly, thanks to the hundreds of friends and neighbors who came to two long evenings of public hearings on the subject. Your presence demonstrated to all your desire to retain the present character of the area, and how greatly we all treasure it!

POINTS OF VIEW

1st-grade shooting should make you want to hug your kids more often

I've tried to hug 3-year-old Robert and 19-month-old Andrew more often lately, because I can.

As events around the country have unfolded lately, not every parent has the same opportunity.

Mike and Jennifer Rose of Van Buren Township would love to be able to wrap their arms around 16-month-old Michael II, give him his bath, read him a bedtime story.

Unfortunately, Livonia resident Carol Lee Derrick was in too big a hurry and couldn't be bothered to stop at a red light last November. According to at least one witness, she sped up to get through an intersection and broadsided the Ford escort being driven by Michael's grandmother. Three days later, Michael was dead.

Two weeks ago, a judge sentenced Derrick to two years probation, during which she can't drive, and put her on a tether for three months. At the end of the probation, Derrick gets to go on with her life.

At the end of the probation, Mike and Jennifer get to go on visiting Michael's grave.

Derrick's fate was determined by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Carole Youngblood, who determined that, because of a clean driving record and lack of any previous criminal behavior, Derrick shouldn't have to do jail time for taking the life of a 16-month-old baby.

Based on a point system determined by the state Department of Corrections, Youngblood's sentencing options ranged from no time in jail to nine months behind bars. She chose the former, obviously much to the chagrin of the grieving parents.

"I'll never see my son get on a school bus for the first time," 22-year-old Jennifer Rose said. "The things I've experienced have almost killed me. He was my world."

The argument over whether Derrick deserved jail time will rage on, and the basic question will be raised every time there's an accident that kills a child. So, too, will the argument over who is responsible when a child kills a child.

BRAD KADRACH

Veronica McQueen probably needs extra fingers to point the blame in the recent death of her 6-year-old daughter, Kayla Rolland, in the elementary school shooting in Mt. Morris Township. The shooter, a fellow 6-year-old student at Buell Elementary, allegedly took umbrage at how Kayla treated him in a schoolyard beef and returned the next day with a .32 caliber handgun, pointed it and squeezed the trigger.

Who is responsible? The 6-year-old, whose living conditions were such that drugs and weapons were commonplace? His parents? The father was in jail, the mother evicted from her home. The uncle with whom the boy was living? The 19-year-old who shared the residence prosecutors called a "flop house?"

Try "all of the above." But what do you do about it? Prosecutors have taken aim at the 19-year-old, charging him with involuntary manslaughter because they believe he brought the gun into the house in the first place. Charge him, charge the parents, charge the uncle.

Maybe we should charge society as a whole. It's a society where some hide behind the constitutional right to keep and bear arms, refusing to budge from their stance even when the result is a 6-year-old shooting another 6-year-old.

I heard one moron on the radio last week who said he keeps not one, but three guns in his bedroom, loaded and unlocked. He says his children are safe, though, because he tells them not to play with the guns. Like children have never disobeyed a parent.

This is a society that succors politicians who, in an election year, talk tough about guns, then don't have the guts to do anything about them once they've been elected.

Maybe we return to the tired refrain condemning television and movies for their violent content. After all, the father of the 6-year-old who shot Kayla Rolland said his son liked to watch violent movies.

Jonesboro, Littleton, Mt. Morris, Canton. The boundaries for these deaths are ever-expanding, spreading like a cancer throughout society. If they haven't reached you yet, give them time. They will.

Meanwhile, hug your children. A lot. While you still can.

Caucus turnout a turn-off
Democrats need to come up with a better idea

Holy Toledo (or some other expression not appropriate for a family newspaper)! What's this?

As I guided my car into the jammed parking lot of the Plymouth Cultural Center Saturday morning my mind was spinning. Voter apathy doesn't rule, after all. Negative campaigns must be working in reverse in Michigan, bringing people back to the polls instead of discouraging them. Just look at all these people who have come to participate in the 13th Congressional District Democratic Caucus.

My mind raced furtively ahead as I walked from my car — a lot further than I had anticipated — to the caucus entrance. Don't these people know this is a closed caucus, not an open primary? Does this anxious mob of voters — waiting to make their collective voice heard — realize they'll have to spend some time here, listen to speeches, "sign in" as Democrats, leave their name, address and Social Security number before they can make a mark on the democratic process?

Don't they read the papers? Didn't they see that just this week — after 15 lopsided primary losses on Super Tuesday — that Bill Bradley dropped out of the presidential race, leaving Al Gore the only viable candidate seeking his party's nomination?

They do and they did.

It turns out that hundreds of people were at the cultural center Saturday to watch the 1999/2000 Michigan High School Team Figure Skating Finals.

Down the hall, where the caucus was holding sway, about four dozen Democrats sauntered into the auditorium to declare their presidential choice. That's pretty sad.

Canton resident Becky Tavarozzi, president of the Plymouth-Canton-Northville Democratic Club, said she was pleased with the turnout. That's even sadder.

While these communities are heavily Republican and usually vote that way, there are a good number of Democrats who make their homes here. Just look at the numbers from a month ago.

More than 23,000 people from the five communities included at Saturday's caucus site voted in the Feb. 22 presidential primary. Many were Democrats and independent voters who might support a Democratic candidate.

Lyndon LaRouche, for crying out loud, pulled 108 votes, or more than twice the number of folks who showed up to cast ballots for Gore, Bradley and "other" on Saturday. Yes, that Lyndon LaRouche. The perennial maverick who once ran for the Democratic nomination while in prison.

So who's to blame here? Well, Gore and Bradley, for two. Both pulled their names off the primary ballot, opting instead for the insider-dominated caucuses. Also to blame, the state Democratic party, which apparently has no problem criticizing the "business interests" that dominate the Republican side while conveniently kow-towing to its own set of special interest groups.

Many voters I talked to Saturday said they supported the process. Some expressed reservations. In a candid moment, retired teacher Earl Harrington said that while he didn't personally view the caucus negatively it really didn't matter. "We're just following what comes down from the leadership," he said, shrugging his shoulders.

Dennis Galbraith of Canton said he would have preferred to vote in a closed primary on the same day as Republicans. "I don't want to vote in the Republican primary and I'm sure they don't want us voting in theirs," he said. "More people would participate, I'm sure," he added.

And what about all those people I didn't talk to, couldn't talk to. The ones who didn't show up Saturday. It's those voters the Democrats ought to be concerned about. They will determine the fate of Democratic House and Senate candidates — as well as the state Legislature — in November.

Let's hope the party leaders have something better in mind than Saturday's caucus. It was the political equivalent of being in an old-fashioned, smoke-filled room — without the smoke.

Money, lobby limit flow of spirits

A friend of mine likes to make his martinis with imported Beefeater gin.

When he buys Beefeater at his local wine and spirits retailer — or any other wine spirits retailer in Michigan, for that matter — he pays $16.79 a fifth. So when he flies on business to Madison, Wis., where the market for booze is open to competition, he buys a couple of bottles at $14.49 each and tucks them into his carry-on. He's violating Michigan law, of course, but who's gonna catch him.

Another friend of mine is passionate about fine wine. One of his favorites is Screaming Eagle, a cabernet sauvignon made in California that has achieved cult status among connoisseurs. He can't get it in Michigan because wine wholesalers don't stock it and retailers who might want to offer it are forbidden by state law to buy wine directly from the wineries.

So he orders his Screaming Eagle wine on the Net from California. It's shipped directly to him in Michigan ... in a plain brown wrapper, of course, because that's against Michigan law, too.

How come there's no price competition to buy booze in Michigan? Simple. State law gives the Liquor Control Commission the authority to regulate the sale of distilled spirits. In practice, that means the Commission sets the uniform price for virtually every bottle of booze sold in Michigan. And because there is no market competition, prices in Michigan are far above those in Wisconsin or Illinois.

And my friend who gets his Screaming Eagle off the Net is violating the same state law that says that the only place Michigan retailers may get their wine is from Michigan wholesalers. And if wholesalers don't want to carry cult wines because demand is slim, that's just too bad for consumers.

How could such an absurd situation develop?

History, in part. Continued avarice by the State of Michigan in part. And entrenched and powerful lobbies in part.

My father used to tell me stories about Prohibition. He and his friends used to drive to the banks of the Detroit River down by Trenton to meet a rumrunner, who smuggled wine and booze across the border from Canada. So when Prohibition ended in 1933 and each state was able to choose whether to become a "control" or "license" state in the sale and distribution of alcohol, Michigan chose control.

Unlike some other states, Michigan's version of control did not involve monopoly state-owned and run retail liquor stores. But the Liquor Control Commission (LCC) orders and buys spirits from suppliers and sells them to retail liquor stores, while private wholesalers supply retailers with beer and wine. This is the celebrated (and arcane) "three tier" system of alcohol regulation in Michigan, in which no maker of wine, beer or spirits may sell directly to retailers or the public.

Make no mistake. The State of Michigan, through the LCC, does very well out of this controlled, anti-competitive system. Net income to the state from the purchase and wholesaling of all spirits and the establishment of uniform prices was $105 million for the fiscal year just past.

Although no numbers are available, the wholesalers who by law are the only sources for beer and wine distribution are also very profitable. To maintain a monopoly achieved by state law requires vigilant lobbying. And, surprise, one of the strongest lobbies in Lansing is the Michigan Beer and Wine Wholesalers Association, whose notorious "Red Room" is the site for many of the fund-raisers that infest the legislature with special interest money.

History. Avarice. Powerful lobbyists. Ho hum. Situation normal. The state makes lots of money off a regulated non-competitive market, while the beer and wine wholesaler lobby is too powerful to let the legislature ever take away its monopoly. And the ordinary consumer is left out in the cold.

As Jacqueline Stewart, the former L. Brooks Patterson staffer who is now the chair of the LCC, told me: "If Michigan hadn't been a state bordering on Canada with a history of smuggling during Prohibition and if there wasn't so much profit in it for the state with such a strong lobby supporting it, I very much doubt if a confirmed free market governor like John Engler would have tolerated the situation."

It's sad, but that's political reality in today's world.

Teens and seniors get together

It was hard to tell the seniors from the seniors last weekend at the first "Senior Prom" hosted by the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church Youth Group of Livonia.

Senior high school students from the communities of Livonia, Westland, Plymouth, Canton and Garden City danced among and with senior citizens from the same cities who also worship at Holy Trinity.

According to Laurie Pecchia, senior high activity director at the church, the event featured a candlelight spaghetti dinner, dancing and mixer games.

"Everyone had a great time," said Pecchia. "We played get-to-know-each-other games and music that all the generations liked, from swing to the hokey-pokey and locomotion. It was 'The Locomotion' that really got everyone going."

Pecchia said the prom was organized and hosted entirely by the senior high school students who also served as waitstaff during dinner.

"We hope to do this again," added Pecchia. "It was so wonderful to see all the generations getting together and having a good time. That's what it was all about."

Counting on Big Brother

Lucky us. We were the "one in six housing units" chosen to receive the "long" census form in the mail on Monday. It was a dubious honor.

According to the small type on the front of Form D-2, "The Census Bureau estimates that, for the average household, this form will take about 38 minutes to complete, including the time for reviewing the instructions and answers."

I don't know how the bureau came up with that figure. Why not "about 40 minutes" or "about 35"? But 38? Maybe I should take them up on the next part of the statement:

"Comments about the estimate should be directed to the Associate Director for Finance and Administration, Attn: Paperwork Reduction Project 0607-0856," etc.

Right. I'm gonna write a letter to the "Paperwork Reduction Project" telling them that it took us 39 minutes instead of 38 to fill out the 120-plus questions on the 40-page form. I wonder how many copies I should send and to whom?

If all of this seems to have nothing to do with the census, it doesn't. And that's the point.

The most hyped, most advertised, most promoted census count in history turns out to be just another bureaucratic government document, asking questions that seem to have little to do with an official government "head count." Example:

Question 17: "Because of a physical, mental, or emotional condition lasting 6 months or more, does this person have any difficulty in doing any of the following activities:

a. Learning, remembering, or concentrating?

b. Dressing, bathing, or getting around inside the home?

c. (Answer if this person is 16 YEARS OLD OR OVER.) Going outside the home alone to shop or visit a doctor's office?

d. (Answer if this person is 16 YEARS OLD OR OVER.) Working at a job or business?

That's just one of many, many questions covering such areas as household income, plumbing facilities, what time you left for work last week and how long it took you to get there. What does any of this have to do with counting heads? And why is it the government's business?

The cover letter accompanying the form promises that "your privacy is protected by law (Title 13 United States Code), which also requires that you answer these questions."

That's not much comfort if it's the government that you don't want knowing every detail of your life in the first place.

I don't mean to bad mouth the census people. They have a job to do and the census (at least the head count) is the whole basis for apportioning representation in Congress.

But a major concern (so we in the media are told by the census workers) is that too many people don't fill out the forms because they don't trust what the information will be used for. Often they just don't trust government period.

Well, look at some more questions: "LAST WEEK did this person do ANY work for either pay or profit?" "Has this person been looking for work during the last 4 weeks?" followed by "LAST WEEK could this person have started a job if offered one ...?" and then "When did this person last work, even for a few days?"

What does that have to do with counting heads? Or what about this series:

"What is this person's ancestry or ethnic origin?" "Does this person speak a language other than English at home?" And if so, "How well does this person speak English?"

If the Census Bureau doesn't understand why many people refuse to fill out their forms, let them take another look at many of their questions.

Is this really a legitimate attempt to collect demographic data? Or does Big Brother just want to know?

Students loaf around Canton Bread Company

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA
STAFF WRITER
scasola@oe.homecomm.net

When Jerry Sprague agreed to entertain his wife's second grade class by giving them a tour of his store, Canton Bread Company, he didn't realize just how interested those students would be.

Somewhere between the kids "rising" enthusiasm, their "knead" to learn and the sweet, billowing smell of fresh-baked bread, Sprague happened upon a wonderful new idea — hosting tours for school children.

Open just over one year, more than 4,000 children have passed through the doors, washed their hands and listened intently to the story and magic which is baked right into Canton Bread Company bread. From the 50-pound bags of flour to the canisters of peanut butter, chocolate chips, dried cherries and honey, it's easy to see all the ingredients that make their baked goods the talk of Canton and beyond.

What started as a favor for his wife has exploded into a regular part of doing business. "I used to go sing songs to her kids (at school)," said Sprague, also a well-known local musician and founder of Jerry Step-by-step: Jerry Sprague explains that it all starts with the wheat plant.

Sprague and the Remainders. "I just threw (a song) in at the end (of the tour) for her class. But then it stayed."

Now all tours end with a rousing sing-a-long. It's become second-nature. "I can't imagine not doing this," said Sprague, smiling.

Paige Bauer, an 8-year-old student at Randolph Elementary School in Livonia, was one of a large group of kids who toured the Canton shop on March 2. Paige said she liked learning how to make bread and singing "the unicorn song" afterward. She certainly wasn't the only one.

Kim Marlowe, Paige's third grade teacher, was pleased to bring her class to Canton Bread Company for the morning. "It's fantastic," she said. "We had a great time. Enjoyed it immensely. We were here to learn about simple machines. The mixer is a simple machine."

Sprague tailors his tours to the age groups which pass through his store. "This is 45 minutes of just fun," he said.

And the little critics agreed it was a tasty trip. "I think it tastes good, cause the honey tastes sweet," said Dominic Garrick, 8.

His classmates, like Jacob Yono, were happy to go home with a special souvenir to share. Every student receives a loaf of honey white bread to take home. "Only for the kids, they put the smiley faces," said Jacob. "I think I'll tell my parents I got to see how the bread is made."

Marlowe attributed those smiles to their host. "Mr. Sprague was just a super person." She "highly recommends" the tour for other classes.

Bread man

But Joseph Olds is the man and the mind behind the delectable breads, scones, bagels and muffins at Canton Bread Company, and he enjoys the tours as much as the kids do. "You meet all these different people. That's my old grade school," he pointed out about Livonia's Randolph Elementary.

Olds, a Redford resident, books all of the tours. But that's not all he does. His day begins at 4 a.m. when he starts baking the day's bread. He opens the doors every morning by 7 a.m. with fresh bagels and muffins ready for purchase. By noon, he's finished with clean-up and can fully concentrate on customers.

tomers. Olds' love for baking and his friendly personality show in all he bakes.

"We don't keep bread for more than 24 hours," he said. No day-olds available here. Olds uses all natural ingredients — like salt, honey and yeast — to make the baked goods. No preservatives are added.

What isn't sold each day is donated to places like the Salvation Army and local U.A.W. The bread is good for 7 to 10 days after purchase, but should not be refrigerated.

"I personally don't have any bread at home," said Olds, who's surrounded by it daily. He orders the ingredients, and creates and experiments new varieties of breads. "I have a lot of input," said Olds, a culinary arts graduate of Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

PARENTING ISSUE

Teachers team up to present parenting skills

Plymouth teacher Rick McCoy and a Saline middle school administrator, Nic Cooper, will be making two presentations about their parenting book in March.

The book, "How to Keep Being a Parent When Your Child is No Longer a Child," was published in November.

The two authors have also announced a partnership with the P-C Educational Excellence Foundation, and will donate $2 for each book sold to parents or teachers in the Plymouth-Canton School District.

Future bread makers rise to the occasion

The Canton Bread Company captured the communities attention with its delicious baked goods — like asiago pesto and cherry walnut. Now, there's something else cooking. The shop is teaching youngsters from Plymouth, Canton, Livonia, Westland and other nearby school districts all that goes in to baking breads.

On March 2, a class of about 25 third graders from Livonia's Randolph Elementary sat cross-legged on the hard wood floors belting out tunes with owner Jerry Sprague.

The group had just completed their personal tour of the kitchen, and were now singing in unison and making animal motions with their arms at the appropriate times.

Saying thank you

Perhaps this group will follow in the tradition of the many others — who've sent the thank-you notes and letters that decorate the walls of the Canton Bread Company.

Some sent chef's hats stamped with colorful handprints and signatures, others, like Madison Elementary School in Westland wrote: "It was really knead."

Here's what some of the Randolph Elementary students said they learned from their field trip:

Jennifer Urso, 8, announced that she liked playing with the bread dough.

"Then we got to eat bread, honey white."

Steve Balbak, 8, also like learning how to knead the dough. His favorite kind of bread is "just white bread."

Hannah Heedum, 9, recalled learning how the bread is baked in a large, moving oven. She's baked at home with her mother before, but this was a whole new experience. "My mom usually makes desserts like fudge brownies and chocolate chip cookies."

Joe Mifsud, 9, said he now understands what yeast does and why it's an important ingredient in bread — it makes the bread rise.

Bailey Hryczyk, 8, said she too learned something new. "I learned that salt and honey were in bread. We've got a bread maker at home."

Fun, fun, fun: Marcus Plant, 8, (from left) Amanda Nadell, 8, Mariah Peabody, 8, and John Tabor, 9, knead dough while listening to Sprague explain the baking process.

with drugs, eating disorders and depression.

The book targets areas that came out of parenting workshops the two writers have held for the past 15 years.

Parent concerns often include school performance, friends and their child's emerging sexuality.

The text of the book is augmented by appendices that offer help in specific ways for specific problems. Much of the main text is supported by worksheets that help parents learn and then apply useful tools and techniques.

McCoy is a teacher in the PCEP Journey program at Salem High. His experience includes being a child care worker, a crisis teacher at a child psychiatric facility and a substance abuse counselor.

Cooper is currently an assistant middle school principal and a past director of a student assistance program. He has also been a counselor and a probation officer.

Both authors have 25 years of experience, both have masters degrees in the field, both are certified social workers and both "Parenting Adolescents" chapters include "The Nature of Adolescence," "The Nature of Parenting," "Tools for Healthy Relations-

OTHER

Supervisor Yack wanted to remind everyone that there is a regular board meeting on March 14, 2000, which will include the Charter School issue.

Supervisor Yack also wanted to let everyone know about a project called Relay for Life which is a walk for cancer and challenged any Canton residents who wants to take part to do so. They may call 397-5380 and get an application from Deborah.

Lastly, Supervisor Yack wants to get the public involved in an issue regarding Senator Bullard's Motor Carrier Bill which is proposing that the current revenue from motor carrier fines be re-routed from current places and give all fine dollars to the court and library. Supervisor Yack believes that they are trying to discourage the enforcement of the fines for America's heaviest trucks.

He gave some statistics that include the fact that 58% of all violations written are written against cars, not trucks, and of those that are given to trucks, only 10% are for weight violations. This proposal would take taxpayer money away from the township. Supervisor Yack is joined in his objections to this proposal by the Livonia Mayor, the area Police and several area Judges. He invited the public to e-mail Senator Bullard and express your opinion against this proposal.

ADJOURN

Motion by Bennett, supported by Burdziak, to adjourn at 9:00 P.M. Motion carried unanimously.

The above is a synopsis of actions taken at the Regular Board meeting held on Mar. 7, 2000. The full text of the approved minutes will be available following the next regular meeting of the Board on Mar. 14, 2000.

Zonta fashion gala to benefit First Step shelter, programs for women

FUND-RAISER

Zonta International is a worldwide service organization whose mission is to improve the status of women.

The Farmington/Novi area chapter carries out this mission by supporting First Step - Western Wayne County Project on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault.

Zonta does this by sponsoring the annual gala, "First Step Stepping Out in Style" benefit from 6-9 p.m. Sunday, March 26.

Entering the sixth year of fund-raising, the event will be hosted by Parisian, located in Laurel Park Place - Livonia.

"It is a fun-filled evening starting with a strolling supper. You can stop and listen to our great entertainment, have a caricature done, stop by the cosmetic counter for a makeover, see informal modeling throughout the store and then have a full runway fashion show," said Beverly McAllister, event chairperson and former Zonta president. "All this for $25 plus you get 15 percent off all of your purchases even if they are already on sale."

Zonta Club has members from Plymouth, Northville, Livonia, Wayne, Farmington, Farmington Hills and Novi. All of these areas are serviced by First Step.

According to McAllister some of the local restaurants who will be serving up the night's gourmet fare include Real Seafood Grill of Laurel Park, Michigan Star Clipper Dinner Train, Jeff Zak Catering of Plymouth, Putter's Restaurant & Corner Pub in New Hudson and the Macaroni Grill of Livonia.

Cash prizes, lunch and dinner gift certificates, hotel stays and more will be given away to guests who participate and take advantage of "after hours" shopping at Parisian.

Entertainment will be provided by caricaturist Chuck Borshanian; Silver Sounds (D.J. service); the Motor City Mix - Sweet Adeline's quartet; and singer/guitarist Ryan Winkler.

Domestic violence is one of the most confusing and shattering situations that a person and their children can face. Help Zonta demonstrate a commitment to building a non-violent world. All proceeds will be used to support and enhance services and programs offered by First Step. For ticket information call (734) 453-0822 or (313) 538-8043.

Contemporary format church celebrates second anniversary

For a church that doesn't have an overwhelming number of members Canton Friendship Church appears to be thriving as it approaches its second anniversary. On any given Sunday, you're likely to find a couple hundred worshippers gathered together at their rented, temporary quarters in the Walnut Room of Canton's Summit on the Park. Average attendance was right around 180 for calendar year 1999.

Affiliated with the United Methodist Church, Canton Friendship is an experiment of sorts. It was established to serve those who either had no church or who were slowly drifting away from their faith. The plan was to package the ministry in a format familiar and attractive to today's "unchurched" adult.

The worship experience, according to members, is best characterized as having a friendly, casual atmosphere, with multimedia presentations, and upbeat music. Messages emphasize the practical application of biblical lessons to everyday living.

While the church definitely wants to attract any and all worshippers looking for a more contemporary atmosphere, there is an abundance of young families with children.

With the financial support of a fund raising campaign among Michigan's United Methodists, the church's ongoing marketing plan utilizes time-tested Medi-son Avenue techniques to solicit interest. The coordinated effort includes phone calls to area families, typically those with no church affiliation. Colorful brochures are then mailed to all prospects that respond favorably. A typical title is: "The Top Five Reasons People Don't Go to Church Anymore."

The response has been outstanding according to the Reverend Mike Norton, senior pastor. "We find that over 60 percent of our attendees say that they had no involvement with a church before coming to Canton Friendship," said Norton. "And, we've continued to have sizable, enthusiastic congregations ever since, with new people visiting every week."

What makes the service so popular? "Short sermons," quipped Norton. "We keep it simple and practical, tending to talk about personal and family issues."

Some of the more appealing facets of the church, according to members, include the worshippers ability to take their pre-church coffees into the services; Canton Friendship utilizes a five-piece band to keep things lively and words to hymns and songs are project on a seven-by-ten foot screen. Also the dress code emphasizes comfort.

"Our whole family truly enjoys the Canton Friendship Church," said regular attendee Robin LeClerc. The children's ministry, Promiseland, uses a lot of hands-on curriculum that really gets kids involved in learning. Even our boys like the church right away.

New perspective

"My husband and I strongly agree that it's not a place where you just feel like you're being preached to, but rather one where you can truly learn and interact. And, even if you're new, you don't feel alone. You can be yourself."

In agreement with LeClerc are Tony and Stacy Garczynski. "It's the perfect place for families to grow in their relationships with the Lord and learn about God. Through the friendships we've made and the support we've received, it has truly enhanced our family life. Our kids have made many friends in church and a lot to share and talk about during the week."

Susan Lesti says you don't have to be a single woman to enjoy the family atmosphere. "I attended church all my life out of obligation and fear. I didn't look forward to going and paid little attention to sermons that were not applicable to my life. I was just going through the motions. Now it's totally different. Pastor Norton is just like everyone else. I like the music and sermons, and can apply them to my life. I'm no longer intimidated by religion and I'm developing a relationship with Christ."

All-MIAC honors

Three members of the Plymouth Christian Academy basketball teams were singled out for honors by the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

Dave Carty, a 6-foot-1 senior guard, and Mike Huntsman, a 6-4 senior center, were both all-MIAC first-team selections. Deric Isensee, a 6-3 senior forward, was named to the second team.

In addition, Carty and Auburn Hills Oakland Christian's Jimmy Mehlberg were named co-Most Valuable Players.

PCA tied Allen Park Inter-City Baptist for first in the MIAC, each with an 8-2 record. The Eagles are riding a 17-game winning streak and will play in the Class D regional finals Friday at Hillsdale.

Amy Sonnanstine, a junior at Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio, turned in a solid performance at the North Coast Athletic Conference Indoor Track Championships, held at Denison University.

A 1997 Plymouth Canton graduate, Sonnanstine placed fifth in the pole vault, clearing 8-feet, 10-inches and was part of the distance medley relay team that finished eighth. Wittenberg placed fifth overall.

PCA's going back to final

Speed kills.
It did Tuesday night in the Class D basketball regional tournament at Hillsdale College. And Plymouth Christian Academy was the team that had it.

The Eagles superior speed allowed them to wear down and eventually wear out Reading by a 72-61 margin. The win was their 17th-straight and earned them a return trip to Friday's regional final against the winner of Wednesday's game between Adrian Lenawee Christian and Morrice.

PCA is 19-4. Reading bows out at 17-6.

"As good as we played Thursday (in beating Jackson Christian), we played bad tonight," said PCA coach Doug Taylor. "But we always get the job done. Tonight, we made the big plays when we needed to."

Rocks slide to Pershing in regional

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER
domeara@oe.homecomm.net

A strong first half allowed Plymouth Salem's basketball team to retain a measure of pride despite a 16-point loss Tuesday in a Class A boys regional game.

The Rocks can take comfort in knowing they forced heavily-favored Detroit Pershing to play the second half to beat them.

Pershing was only up four points at halftime but distanced itself from Salem in the third quarter and eventually won 84-68 at Southfield-Lathrup.

The Doughboys (20-2) increased their defensive pressure in the second half, caused Salem to make more turnovers and scored a bunch of points in transition.

"We picked them up full court and went to a zone press and a half-court trap," Pershing coach Arnold Nevels said. "We thought, if we picked them up deeper and kept the game in the back court more, we could disrupt their offense."

After Salem's Matt McCaffrey scored the first basket of the third quarter to put the Rocks within two, 41-39, the Doughboys went on a 16-2 run that decided the issue.

Pershing guard Michael Bailey scored half of his team-high 24 points in that period and forward Jacob Shaw seven of his 16.

The Doughboys, who led 66-49 going into the fourth quarter, scored nearly all of their second-half points on layups or dunks by 6-foot-9 Arthur Johnson and 6-10 Darris Manciel, both of whom blocked a good many shots, too.

"We can't make some of the mistakes we did and miss open shots and expect to stay close to a team like," Salem coach Bob Brodie said, "because once you get down it's real difficult."

"It was like a time bomb waiting to happen. You

Whalers' streak 2nd-longest in OHL

Seventeen — a number with a special meaning for the Plymouth Whalers.

That's how many they've won in a row. The most recent in that string was Sunday's 3-2 victory over the Owen Sound Platers at Plymouth's Compuware Arena, with a crowd of 2,335 in attendance.

What they witnessed was something considered completely improbable just a couple weeks earlier: a changing of the guard, if you will.

For the first time since early in the season, the Ottawa 67s did not have the Ontario Hockey League's best record. That honor belonged to the Whalers, who are currently 43-17-4, with 91 points in 64 games. Ottawa is 43-20-3 for 90 points in 66 games.

The 17-straight wins extends the team record for most wins in a row (the former mark of 12 belonged to the Detroit Junior Wings, set in '95) and brings the Whalers closer to the OHL record of 25, established by the Oshawa Generals. The Whalers current string is second longest in OHL history.

In the win over Owen Sound, Plymouth overcame a 2-1 deficit after the first period with a pair of second-period goals by Eric Gooldy, both assisted by Stephen Weiss and Jared Newman. Justin Williams' 35th goal of the season in the opening period (from Damian Surma and Jamie Lalonde) had tied the game at 1-all.

Rob Zepp stopped 17 of 19 shots in earning the victory in goal for the Whalers. Corey Roberts turned away 37 of 40 Whaler shots for the Platers (19-39-6).

Temperance Bedford sidelines Salem in quarters

Diggin' it: Liz Gizicki saves this one for Plymouth Salem, but the Rocks couldn't quite match up with a powerful Temperance Bedford team.

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

With the Van Gogh exhibit still in town, Plymouth Salem's volleyball team tried to come up with another masterpiece.

Unfortunately for the Rocks, their Class A state tournament run ended Tuesday night at Eastern Michigan University's new Convocation Center.

Temperance Bedford eliminated Salem for the second straight year in the quarterfinals with a 15-2, 16-14 triumph.

Bedford, 73-11 overall, moves on to Friday's state semifinal in Kalamazoo, while Salem ends its year at 44-12-1.

"We felt with the kind of talent we had coming in this year we'd have to build around character, heart and playing together as a team," Salem coach Tom Teeters said. "That took us a long way. They got a lot more out of themselves and they did really well. They surprised the coaching staff with what they accomplished. I'm proud of the girls because most of them were starters for the first time."

VOLLEYBALL

Salem, which lost Feb. 12 to Kicking Mules in the Bedford Invitational finals, 15-3, 15-9, appeared to be overwhelmed in the opening game.

Bedford breezed to a 15-2 win as Nicole Salisbury and Valerie Lyczkowski, a pair of 5-foot-10 seniors, combined for four blocks and six kills.

Teeters then changed his serving strategy. The soft drinks over the net which proved to be so successful in Saturday's regional conquest of Livonia Franklin were quickly abandoned to start the second game.

"We tried the deep, cannon-ball serves and it took them out of their game a little bit," the Salem coach said. "We saw in the first game that they were playing close. It's not an option we usually do in practice and we've rarely used it against other teams."

"But it's an option."

Salem began to get into the groove, building leads of 6-3 and 10-5 in Game No. 2.

"When they had a four or five-point lead I think our kids began to think what might happen," Bedford coach Jodi Manore said. "I think we got a little overconfident and they (Salem) picked up their game. They began find holes and we were not aggressive."

WRESTLING

Thompson finishes 2nd at state meet

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisk@oe.homecomm.net

What Ron Thompson accomplished in four years was, in a word, amazing.

Indeed, if one listens to Plymouth Salem co-coach Greg Wochuk, it's rather surprising he was a member of the Rocks' varsity wrestling team as a senior.

"He was by far the worst wrestler we had as a freshman," said Wochuk. Longtime Salem coach Ron Krueger wouldn't go that far, but he agreed Thompson wasn't anywhere near the top of the talent list his first year.

But one of Thompson's premier attributes is determination. That, combined with his ability to learn and adapt quickly, helped take him to the Division I individual championship match at 119 pounds.

Unfortunately, Thompson couldn't quite clear his final obstacle at Saturday's tournament, held at Joe Louis Arena. Dan Jilg of Novi kept his season record against Thompson perfect, beating Thompson 4-2. It was the fifth time Jilg has topped Thompson this year.

"Right now, Ronnie has a mental block against Jilg," said Krueger. "But he'll keep working and keep working and keep working until he beats Jilg."

"Ronnie does a lot of unorthodox things other wrestlers don't do. He'd definitely be on my all-time list, and you know why? He's an over-achiever."

Thompson advanced by beating Cody Nicholson of Grandville 10-4 in the first round. Chris Trombley of New Baltimore Anchor Bay 7-5 in overtime in the quarterfinals; and Ben Sutton of Lansing Eastern 4-3 in the semifinals.

His win over Trombley, who was unbeaten at the time, was, according to Krueger, "the best match in the whole tournament." But with Thompson, doing the

Rocks' relay scores at state

It was, well, okay.

Certainly many of the Plymouth Salem state meet qualifiers had hoped for a bit more at last weekend's championships at Eastern Michigan University. Still, many turned in season-best times.

The Rocks scored points with their 200-yard freestyle relay, which placed 10th in 1:28.75. Relay members were Dan Jones, Aaron Shelton, Mark Witthoff and Mike Johnson.

Salem's 400 free relay was disqualified, and its 200 medley relay narrowly missed qualifying for Saturday's finals, placing 13th in 1:40.54. Team members were Eric Lynn, Jason Rebarchik, Ben Dzialo and Mike Johnson.

Johnson also just missed qualifying for the finals in the 50 free, placing 13th in 22.40.

Lynn finished 16th in the 200 individual medley (1:59.67) and was 17th in the 100 backstroke (55.67).

Dzialo placed 24th in the 100 butterfly (54.85), and Brian Mertens was 20th in the 500 free (4:59.92).

For Canton, Brad Nilson took 20th in the 100 backstroke (56.07), and the Chiefs' 200 medley relay team of Nilson, Eddie Lindow, Aaron Reeder and Matt Wisniewski finished 20th (1:41.6).

Canton's 200 free relay team of Reeder, Matt Wisniewski, Trey Gercak and Steve Rice placed 30th (1:33.33).

Birmingham Brother Rice successfully defended its state title, scoring 167 points to edge Ann Arbor Pioneer (162). Rochester Adams was third (111).

Best among Observerland teams was Livonia Stevenson, which tied Battle Creek Lakeview for 15th with 28 points. Joe Bublitz, a junior, led the Spartans by finishing third in the 200 individual medley and fifth in the 100 butterfly.

North Farmington finished 17th with 26 points, while Salem ended up 32nd with six. Redford Catholic Central scored one point; Canton did not score.

Salem tips Canton, 62-58

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisk@ee.homescomm.net

It's never easy. Not when Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem tangle — particularly with an extension of the Class A state basketball tournament up for grabs.

Saturday's district final at Novi was another chapter in a long and storied history of such meetings. In the end, Salem converted shots when it had to, just often enough to edge Canton, 62-58.

The biggest lead either team had in the contest was six points until the game's last couple of minutes. A slight surge to start the fourth quarter was enough to put Salem ahead of Canton to stay.

The win was Salem's 13th of the season against nine losses. Canton finishes with an 11-11 record.

"I can't explain it," said a disappointed Dan Young, Canton's coach. "I thought their size really hurt us, especially late."

"Losing (Jason) Waidmann was huge. He's improved so much, I'm so proud of him."

Waidmann, Canton's 6-foot-5 senior center, drew his fifth foul while trying to pull down a breakaway pass with 3:17 left and the Chiefs trailing 49-46. He got his fourth personal with 6:09 left in the quarter and Young had sat him down, hoping to save him for the stretch run.

But Canton, which led after each period —

DISTRICT FINAL

15-14 after one, 29-26 at the half and 44-43 entering the fourth — had little offense without Waidmann's presence inside, which had helped open things up for teammate Kenny Nether to score 33 points against Northville in the district semifinal.

The Chiefs were shooting well through three quarters, converting 16-of-31 (51.6 percent) from the floor. But they couldn't prolong it; in the fourth period, they missed their first 11 shots.

By the time Dan McLean connected on a jumper to score Canton's first basket of the quarter, only 42 seconds remained and the Chiefs still trailed by six. They got to within four twice after that, but no closer.

"He's a load," Salem coach Bob Brodie said of Waidmann. "You get a guy like that off the floor and it certainly helps you."

Salem, on the other hand, used its deeper bench to great benefit in a game in which both teams were shooting free throws in the double bonus with three minutes remaining.

Indeed, free throws ended up saving Salem. After attempting just two in the first half (and making one), the Rocks stepped to the line 28 times in the second half, converting 21 (75 percent). In the fourth quarter, they were 13-of-16 (81.3 percent).

"We're horrible in practice," was Brodie's reply when questioned about his team's free throw accuracy.

But the mounting free throw totals could be attributed to Salem's improved interior play in the second half.

"We changed our defense and I think we forced some bad shots," said Brodie. "We weren't doing a good enough job doubling down (on Waidmann and Nether) in the first half. In the second half, we started doing that a bit better."

Waidmann and Nether combined to score 52 points in the district semifinal against Northville; against Salem, they had 27.

Fortunately, Dan McLean helped fill the void somewhat, shredding the Rocks for 17 points. Nether finished with 18 and Waidmann had nine points and 12 boards.

But the rest of the Canton team combined for just 14 points. Salem got a great inside game from Matt McCaffrey; he totaled 21 points and grabbed 16 rebounds. Ryan Nimmerguth added 11 points, Andy Koceloski scored nine and Ryan Cook finished with eight.

"It just hurts a lot," said Canton's Young. "We were so close for so long. I thought we could do it."

"We fought the whole way. I feel bad for them."

In a game like this, there was nothing to feel bad about.

just hope you can defuse it by making some of those puppy shots.

"If you don't, then you're taking threes and, if you don't make them, they're going to be slamming at the other end, which is what happened."

After missing its first three shots of the second half, Pershing made its next seven in a row and, during a stretch that extended in the fourth quarter, 18 of 26. The Doughboys' lead was 80-57 at that point.

Johnson and guard Karl Duckett contributed 14 points apiece to the Pershing effort, and Manciel added 10. The Doughboys made 36 of 76 shots overall for 47 percent.

McCaffrey, a 6-foot-7 senior, scored a game-high 26 points for the Rocks. Senior Andy Koceloski tossed in nine, senior Ryan Nimmerguth and junior Jeff Haar eight apiece.

Salem (13-10) matched Pershing point for point in the first half. The Rocks advanced the ball with authority against light pressure and got the ball in the low post to McCaffrey, who had 17 points in the first half, including eight of 10 free throws in the second quarter.

"We were playing more their way (in the first half)," Nevells said. "We were trying to double, and they were getting the ball to the open man."

"In the second half, we turned up the defense and took away their second shots. They ran those back cuts, and we took them out of that. Turning up the defense was the most important thing."

Salem made 12 of 31 shots in the second half and shot .375 for the game (24-of-64). The Rocks made seven of 19 threes, including three by Koceloski, and the Doughboys six of 27.

McCaffrey was 12-of-17 at the line and Salem 13-of-19 as a team. Pershing sank six of seven free throws.

"We ran the high-low game and got the ball inside in the first half," Brodie said. "We didn't have that in the second half."

"We were taking the 10-foot jumper instead of taking it to the basket. Their big guys had something to do with that, however."

With the season now ended, Brodie expressed great pride in the 1999-00 Rocks.

"I told the kids I'm more proud of them than any team because of the adversity they came through," he said. "We lost a lot of close games, but they never quit and kept coming back."

"We won three championships (holiday tournament, division and district) and played for four. You can't ask more out of a high school team."

Madonna ends trip with a win

Despite getting only seven hits, the surging Madonna University baseball team defeated West Liberty State (W.V.) 7-2 at Merritt Island, Fla., Saturday.

The Crusaders, 5-0-1 in their last six games, were led by starter Eric Williamson's six-hit pitching performance.

Madonna got three runs in the second inning and another two in the third on solo home runs by Jason Brooks and Bob Hamp. Roy Rabe belted a two-run shot in the fourth-inning.

Madonna ran its overall record to 11-3-1. The Crusaders next action is a double-header against Concordia College March 25.

impossible has become standard operating procedure.

"He came from nothing to everything," said Woohuk. "And he's as strong in his academics as he is in wrestling."

Added Krueger, "When we get a kid who makes strides the way Ronnie did in two years, it has to be phenomenal."

Rob Ash was Salem's second qualifier. Wrestling at 125, Ash got off to a rough start by getting pinned by Chase Metcalf of Davison in 1:42. He followed that, however, with wrestleback wins over Jeff Gehringer of Howell, 13-9 in the first round and Jason Fuller of Holland West Ottawa, 7-1 in the second.

In the wrestleback quarterfinals, however, Ash was pinned by Ethan Smith of Traverse City Central in :48, then lost to Brian Sullivan of Birmingham Brother Rice, 9-4, to finish eighth.

"He got caught twice and it cost him," said Krueger of Ash's performance. Still, as Woohuk noted, "I think he got more out of (the tournament) than we thought he would."

wrestlers did all season long.

Salem volleyball from page C1

"Plus, Tom (Teeters) was pulling out all the stops. They're a good team, and a well-coached team."

The Rocks then led 14-12 on a kill by senior Amanda Suder and appeared to be primed to even the match in games at 1-1.

But two missed serves and a net violation stopped the Rocks' momentum.

"We had our best servers up there and you can't ask for anything else," Teeters said. "You can do the safe thing or be aggressive. You have to take those chances. You want to be risky in that situation because you're not going to beat this team (Bedford) with wimpy swings or dumping the second ball."

Bedford rallied with four straight points to close out the match capped 6-2 junior Melissa Mohrbach's game-winning block.

Salisbury led Bedford with 12 kills and two blocks, while Lyczkowski added six kills and three blocks.

"They're bigger on the left side and they have the advantage there and also in the middle," Teeters said. "But I thought we matched with them in serve reception and defense."

Suder capped an outstanding senior season with 10 kills, including eight in the second game. She also had seven digs.

"Suder is a good, all-around player, but we felt one one player shouldn't be able to beat us," Bedford coach Jodi Manore said.

"We talked about her jump serve. We told our girls it was going to hit the chest and drop straight to the knee."

Denise Philips, a 6-foot senior, added seven kills for Salem, while Senior Michelle Ginther had a team-high 11 digs. Junior setter Jillian Dombrowski contributed 16 assists.

"It's tough when you're expected to win," said Manore, whose team has been ranked in the top three all season long. "But at this point anybody can win."

With a few more breaks at the end of the second game, Salem may have been in position for another masterpiece.

Rocks rule region

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

There was happiness on one end of Joy Road, sadness on the other end.

Plymouth Salem proved the fourth time could be a charm, repeating as Class A regional volleyball champions Saturday at Saline with a 15-8, 15-12 victory over Western Lakes Activities Association nemesis Livonia Franklin.

The Patriots, who beat Salem three times during the regular season, bow out at 45-8-2 overall and regional runner-up to the Rocks for the second straight year.

Meanwhile, Salem, 44-11-1 overall, advances to the state quarterfinals, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Eastern Michigan University's new Convocation Center. The opponent will be the Temperance Bedford regional champion.

Salem did in the Patriots with soft serves just over the net, stellar digging and well-placed tips.

Senior Amanda Suder led the Salem hitting attack with 12 kills, 21 digs and five ace serves. Denise Philips added eight kills, while setter Jill Dombrowski had 25 assist-to-kills.

Franklin's senior hitting tandem of Tera Morrill (eight kills) and Andrea Kmet (nine kills) were often neutralized by the off-speed shots and the serving of Suder and Kelly Jaskot.

"We were trying to pull their hitters up to the net and get their weaker passers involved," Teeters said of his strategy to beat the Patriots. "Tera is not only their best hitter, but she's also one of their best passers. We also decided to put Amanda (Suder) against their setter Lyndsay (Sopko) because it was a better matchup. We didn't block

Volleyball

Tera, instead we had Amanda digging against her.

"We knew the matchup was not 'Suds' versus Tera because we knew Lyndsay liked to get Tera the ball."

Jaskot got on a roll in the first game, serving at one point eight straight points. She also had a five-point run in the second game to help overcome an 8-1 deficit.

"The frustrating aspect of their game plan is that we had prepared for it," Franklin second-year coach Mary Helen Diegel said. "We were aware of it as far as the different tactics, as well as their offenses and defenses."

"They could not be more prepared, but in tense situations like this you have to play with experience and from motor memory."

"Salem had an 'on' day and we just didn't execute."

In the morning semifinals, the Rocks had a difficult time disposing of a scrappy Adrian team for the second time this season, 13-15, 15-9, 16-14 (capped by two Jaskot ace serves at 14-all).

The Maples, who lost to Salem in three games at the Bedford Tourney, were led by 5-foot-11 junior Catherine Deveau.

Suder, however, countered with 18 kills and nine aces for Salem. The 6-foot Philips and Dombrowski contributed 14 and eight kills, respectively. Sarah Jensen also provided some soft rolls in the middle.

"We ran out of subs and we had to have Jill hit and Jaskot to set," Teeters said.

Adrian coach Mike Watkins, whose team bowed out at 44-18-4 overall, was happy with his team's play, but disappointed with the outcome.

"Maybe after we won the first game we woke them up because they (Salem) didn't make as many mistakes," Watkins said. "We changed our defense to cover the short tips. We figured if you tip on us, you can beat us. We just couldn't stay with what we wanted to do."

"We also faced a lot of jump serves, which we don't see a lot of it. Sometimes you panic when you see something different."

While Salem was taking 1 hour and 40 minutes to oust Adrian, Franklin was having an easy time with Ypsilanti-Lincoln, a team with a 9-24-7 record.

The 5-11 Morrill had nine kills and six aces, while 6-2 Kerstin Marshall, a junior, added six kills as the Patriots prevailed 15-4, 15-5.

"We knew they hit the ball well, but we didn't expect them to be that efficient running their offense," Lincoln coach Michael Armstrong said. "We really haven't been a strong blocking team and we ask a lot of our defense to dig against their hard hitters."

"Their setter is very good. They have a lot of options. She (Sopko) did a good job of spreading her passes around."

The regional final marked the final appearances for six Franklin seniors including Morrill, Sopko, Kmet, Rachel Bramlett, Alexis Bowman and Monica Little. The six helped Franklin to 82 wins in two years, including two district and two Western Division titles.

"This group of seniors exuded confidence, intelligence and court sense unparalleled for most senior classes," Diegel said. "They have led the team in friendships, played with intensity and have exhibited a touch of class in anything they do."

"And we got a lot of baskets in transition. I think that was the difference."

It was at that. Even though the Eagles had a far better shooting percentage than Reading in the opening half — PCA hit 14-of-26 from the floor (53.8 percent) to the Rangers' 12-of-32 (37.5 percent) — they had just a four-point lead, 32-28.

But there were a couple of factors that were working in the Eagles' favor. First, they were outrebounding Reading, but just as important, they had the Rangers' inside threat, 6-foot-4 senior Derek Garcia, in foul trouble.

Garcia drew his third foul in the closing seconds of the first half and, although he never fouled out, his presence inside diminished.

"Our rebounding was important," said Taylor of his team's 41-rebound effort, a season-high. "I thought we outrebounded them."

PCA continued to hold the lead through the third quarter, but Reading refused to let the gap reach double figures, always mounting a comeback.

A seven-point run in the late stages of the quarter allowed the Rangers to narrow the gap to 43-41; Mike Huntsman's basket increased PCA's lead to 45-41 entering the fourth.

But Reading never got its shooting on track, and eventually that ruined the Rangers. Because when they missed, the Eagles were off and running.

Which is what they do best. In the final quarter, even when Reading managed to get a basket, PCA quickly answered.

The result was an up-tempo game that suited the Eagles and wore out the Rangers. After Reading got back-to-back baskets from Chris Rosenberry and Garcia, narrowing the gap to 50-47 with 5:53 left, PCA answered with two hoops by Stephen Young in a 30-second span.

At this point, trying to trade baskets with the Eagles wouldn't help Reading. Young's two baskets started PCA on an 11-4 spurt that pushed its advantage to 61-51 with 3:33 left.

A three-pointer by Derric Isensee gave the Eagles that double-digit lead, their first of the game. Indeed, they never did cool off; in the fourth quarter, PCA hit 11-of-16 shots (68.8 percent), bringing their game total to 31-of-54 (57.4 percent). Also, they nailed 5-of-9 three-pointers (55 percent).

By comparison, Reading was 7-of-22 from the floor in the fourth quarter (31.8 percent) and 25-of-71 for the game (35.2 percent).

"Did they ever miss a shot?" asked Rangers' coach Mitch Hubbard. "Whenever we did cut it, they answered."

"They're tough. And they're a little deeper than I thought."

Offensive balance did favor PCA. Dave Carty led with 20 points, including two triples. Huntsman finished with 19 points and nine rebounds, Isensee had 16 points and 11 boards, and A.J. Sherrill contributed nine points, seven assists and three steals.

For Reading, Rosenberry and Garcia switched roles at half-time. Garcia, after being limited to four first-half points, erupted for 19 in the second half for a game-high 23.

Rosenberry accounted for 16 of the Rangers' 28 first-half points, but he got just four more in the last two quarters to finish with 20. Jon Pridgeon added 10 points.

Although Taylor wasn't about to commit to a favorite in Wednesday's regional semifinal, the tag seemed to fit Lenawee Christian — the team that eliminated PCA in last year's regional final.

The Eagles got a bit of revenge by beating the Cougars for the first time ever, 76-60 on Feb. 1 at PCA. Earlier this season, Lenawee handed PCA a 15-point defeat on its court.

This time, if these two rivals do meet again, the site will be neutral. And the battle will be intense.

Shamrocks collect 2nd-straight state title

BY PAUL BEAUDRY
STAFF WRITER
pbaudry@ccs.homedomain.net

Until Saturday, only two high schools in state history had ever won back-to-back Division I hockey titles.

Redford Catholic Central made it three.

The No. 1 Shamrocks powered their way past Alpena, 5-2, before an estimated 4,100 fans at Flint's IMA Arena to finish their 1999-2000 season the same way they ended it the year before - with a state championship.

By doing so, the Shamrocks joined Trenton (1979-80) and Ann Arbor Pioneer (1984-85) as the only Division I teams to win back-to-back championships.

"I don't know if it was expected by anyone else, but it was expected by the coaching staff and players," said CC coach Gordie St. John, whose team won its fourth title in seven years. "On June 1, we made the goal up. We started off-ice training on June 1 and we didn't stop until today."

The Shamrocks (26-2) hit their goal by doing things pretty much the same way they had all season - playing physical, using strong defense and taking advantage of opportunities.

"They're almost a college team out there," Alpena coach Chris Limback said after his team ended its season at 19-7-2. "I was looking for a line to drop off, but I didn't see any drop-off. I think they could beat some Division III college teams. I'm proud of (our) boys for making it a game."

It didn't start out that way. CC outshot Alpena 13-2 in the first period and didn't allow a shot on goal until 2:07 left. Despite the advantage, CC led just 2-0 through the first 15 minutes thanks to some outstanding play by Wildcats' goalie Eric Pernie, who wound up with 26 saves on the night.

Brian Williams opened the scoring with 4:24 gone in the game after one-timing a pass from Jared Ross for the first of three power-play goals for the Shamrocks. Brandon Kaleniecki made it 2-0 at the 9:41 mark, lofting a wrist shot past Pernie just as the Shamrocks killed off a penalty. Kaleniecki picked up the puck just inside the blue-line and beat Pernie on the glove side, with assists going to Dave Moss and Ryan Yost.

"It was rough for me," said CC goalie Ben Dunne after making 13 saves in the game. "The hardest thing on a goalie is not facing any shots. You want to get into the flow and into the game."

Dunne got into the game in the second period - whether he wanted to or not. In a complete turnaround, Alpena dominated play in the second period, although it didn't show up on the scoreboard. The Wildcats outshot CC, 10-3, and managed to get on the board with 2:26 gone as Adam Carpenter stood at the edge of the crease and slid the puck past a diving Dunne to cut the lead to 2-1.

"I wish I knew what happened," said St. John. "We just plain lost momentum. They came out charged up and we were back on our heels a bit."

But as quickly as they lost momentum in the second, the Shamrocks got it back in the third. With CC on a power play and the play in Alpena's end, Williams got the puck and started to shoot, but an Alpena defenseman slid in front to block the shot. Williams pulled the puck back as the defender slid past, reloaded and fired past Pernie for a 3-1 lead.

"We knew we had to get more of a lead," said Williams. "I wanted to one-time the puck, but saw him starting to slide. I faked the shot, went round him and went low on the opposite side."

The Shamrocks made it 4-1 at the 7:24 mark when Joe Mpreau knocked home a rebound off of Brett John's shot, but Alpena pulled within 4-2 exactly two minutes later when Karl Skiba fired past Dunne.

However, any momentum the Wildcats might have earned by the goal was snuffed out 27 seconds later. With Yost off for roughing, Moss took advantage of a loose puck at center ice, skated in and shot past Pernie.

"They were still on the power play, but I think that broke their back," Moss said. "I just beat the guy to the puck, used their defenseman as a screen and shot it."

Headset placed against one ear, James Hartman sat in the middle of the theater cueing lights and music for Abe Burrows' comedy "Cactus Flower." It was the first sound run-through for the production opening Friday, March 24, in the Liberal Arts Theatre at Schoolcraft College. Songs by The Byrds and Lovin' Spoonful transport the audience back to the 1960s when the story takes place.

Hartman, a professor and chairman of the college's theater department, directs the show about a dentist caught in a series of lies he told to a girlfriend with whom he's fallen in love.

"Abe Burrows has written so many funny lines," said

Hartman. "It's a great situation comedy that we might find today on TV. Some of the older audience will find it nostalgic because of the time period and the music and dances, like the swim and the pony."

The Lovin' Spoonfuls' "Hot Town, Summer in the City" sets the mood for the darkened scene which opens the first act. Igor (Christopher Curd of Canton) rescues Toni Simmons (Jerri Doll, a Livonia Stevenson graduate) who has just tried to commit suicide because her boyfriend Dr. Julian Winston is married, or so she thinks.

"The most difficult part has been the sound and lighting changes," said Hartman. "There's so many of them and it takes so long to record and mark all the sound."

Dressed in an all-white uniform, Brenda Lane is the picture of everything cold and sterile. Lane, a Northville resident, plays Stephanie Dickenson, the nurse who blossoms like a cactus flower when she steps out of her starched uniform. This is Lane's fifth play at Schoolcraft College. She also had roles in "All My Sons" and "A View From the Bridge." A full-time mom with two sons, Lane majored in theater at the University of Wisconsin.

Plymouth Symphony showcases accordion artist

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

When Nan Washburn premiered "Cafes of Melbourne" a few years ago in California, she and composer Janika Vandervelde wanted to have Peter Soave as guest accordionist. On Saturday, March 18, they'll both get their wish as the Farmington musician joins the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra and conductor Washburn in a concert spotlighting "Scenes and Landscapes."

Washburn and Vandervelde will discuss "Cafes of Melbourne" during a pre-concert chat. Vandervelde wrote the piece after spending three months in Melbourne where she thought she'd discovered the equivalent of Paris in the 1920s with its artists and theater companies.

"The work depicts the coffee house culture in Australia," said Washburn. "There's a new-age feel to it. The second movement is all about the cool counter culture and has jazz. It's very unusual because people still think of the accordion as just playing polka music but accordianists can play many different timbres. In terms of folk music, accordion is popular in many cultures."

Soave grew up listening to Italian music played on the accordion. Born to Italian immigrants, he began playing the accordion at age 5 and by 16 was entering international competitions.

But Soave quickly learned the piano accordion's limitations. He noted that most of his competitors were playing the bayan, a chromatic button accordion developed in Russia for classical music. Soave had to relearn both keyboards, but in doing so gained 50 percent more range for his right hand and 300 percent for his left.

His repertoire expanded, Soave competed in Europe, winning first place in four major international competitions.

What: The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra is joined by guest artists Peter Soave and the choir, from Our Lady of Good Counsel Church for "Scenes and Landscapes"

When: 8 p.m. Saturday, March 18; 7 p.m. pre-concert chat with director Nan Washburn and composer Janika Vandervelde. Afterglow, hosted by Our Lady of Good Counsel Auxiliary, follows the concert.

Beth Gryniewicz could use some of the time management techniques Frank Gilbreth Sr. employs in Tinderbox Productions' "Cheaper by the Dozen." It's been a grueling week for the Canton resident and her 5 1/2-year-old daughter Elyse. The mother-daughter duo are rehearsing two productions for Tinderbox at Masonic Temple in Detroit.

The first, "Cheaper by the Dozen," opened March 11. Gryniewicz's 4 1/2-year old daughter Lindsey joins mom and Elyse on stage in Tinderbox's "The Little Princess" opening in April.

"It's crazy because we're rehearsing two productions at the same time," said Beth Gryniewicz. "The most difficult part for Elyse is all those late night rehearsals. Sometimes rehearsal doesn't end until 9:15 p.m. She brings her pajamas and puts them on before she leaves for home, but she's enjoying it. To her it's playing and going to play with her friends."

Based on a true story written by two of the children, "Cheaper by the Dozen" follows the Dozen" starred Clifton Webb and Myrna Loy.

Gryniewicz plays Mrs. Fitzgerald, the Gilbreths' housekeeper.

"She gets to do all the dishes and housekeeping for the 12 kids," said Gryniewicz. "Her character is very much like Alice of the Brady Bunch. My favorite line is, 'Lincoln freed the slaves - all but one.'"

Set in the 1920s pre-flapper era, "Cheaper by the Dozen" is a laugh-a-minute with dad, the efficiency expert, showing the kids the proper way to take a bath. Not fond of popular culture, Frank Sr. balks at his daughters wearing lipstick and rouge.

"It's funny and a wonderful family story," said Gryniwicz. "The three oldest girls are teenagers and boy crazy. They want to wear perfume and silk stockings. It's a good history lesson about how life and culture have changed."

Elyse may not have the premise for the play quite right but she's having a good time. One of the favorite sayings by Frank Sr. is that everything, candy or kids, comes cheaper by the dozen.

"It's a story about how it's cheaper to buy a dozen kids than to buy one or two kids," said Elyse.

This is Elyse's fourth time on the Masonic stage. She's been acting since age 4. Previous roles in "Tinderbox Productions' "Once Upon a Shoe," "Annie" and the "Ted Sullivan Variety Show" prepared the All Saints' kindergarten for a speaking part as one of the Gilbreth children.

Gryniwicz previously acted at Walled Lake Western High School and Michigan Technological University, where she had roles in "Cabaret" and "The Pajama Game."

In addition to playing the housekeeper, Gryniwicz is also cueing the sound just like she did at Walled Lake Western High School. After graduating from college, she went back to the high school to teach chemistry and coach the cheerleaders. She also worked with the drama department there cueing the sound.

Family affair

Father and daughter team Rich and Mara Bezerko of Farmington Hills also have small parts in the production. Rich is a little nervous because this is his first time on stage even though he watched daughter Elizabeth play the lead role in "Tinderbox's "Annie" earlier this year.

a perennial bachelor," said Lane. "His nurse is very devoted and dedicated but she's very unfeminine. He's a playboy that told his current girlfriend he's married. Julian asks his nurse to pose as his wife to say they're getting divorced. She's enjoying the role playing and makes things come to a climax in the play. The challenge is the character starts out as inhibited. At the end she's liberated. It's making that transition smoothly that's difficult."

"It's very funny but there are some real and tender moments. I like that shift because it draws people in on a lot of levels. People can relate to the characters."

Lying dentist

Brian Taylor, a Plymouth resident, is the lying dentist who's fallen in love.

"He's been seeing Toni Simmons for about a year because marriage scares him," said Taylor. "His girlfriend tries to kill herself and he just gets in deeper and deeper with his lies when she wants to meet the kids."

The most difficult aspect of the role for Taylor is playing an older man. Taylor is 26, Dr. Winston is in his 40s.

"I find it difficult to slow him down," said Taylor.

Taylor's first exposure to acting came when he took acting classes from Hartman. He'd wanted to audition for plays while a student at Plymouth

Village Players have fun fooling 'Sherlock Holmes'

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

SKOWALSKI@OE.HOMETOWN.NET

Tim Wittlinger has practiced law for 35 years and as a hobby

he's spent the last 33 of those acting in and directing plays with The Village Players of Birmingham.

He knows what you're thinking about the law and acting fields.

"They're one and the same," he said, joking, before giving his real opinion on the subject.

"In spite of the general opinion that a lot of acting is needed to practice law, it's a lot more technical profession than one might think," said Wittlinger, a partner with the Clark-Hill law firm. "There's a lot more to it than standing in front of a jury and trying to emotionally persuade them to your side."

But like a courtroom, the theater has a jury and it's seated in front of the stage. Wittlinger likes the challenge of entertaining a crowd and the next play he'll direct is "Sherlock Holmes," opening Friday at The Village Players theater in Birmingham.

Comedy

Unlike the Sherlock Holmes famous mystery novels, this one is more of a comedy, a "farce" and not a mystery, according to Wittlinger.

Holmes (played by Gregg Watkins) and Dr. Watson (Wayne Yashinsky) try to protect Alice Faulkner (Ashley Gaum), who has in her possession important documents.

Madge Larrabee (Diana McClain) and James Larrabee (Christopher Crossen) are interested in the expensive documents and they lure Professor Moriarty (Tom D'Agostino) to their team.

Sidney Prince (Stephen Leonard) is the go-between and one of the play's funniest characters, trying to arrange the heist.

"He's a 'bumbling criminal,' a real comic," Wittlinger said.

Holmes' humor comes across more subtly, but Wittlinger hopes, just as entertaining. For instance there's the time Holmes announces he hears a knock at the door before the actual knock.

"I hope it's a funny part — if not I've made a mistake," he said. "It accentuates his observational abilities that we've all read about."

The cast also includes Gary Temple of Plymouth in the role of Parsons.

Wittlinger said he likes directing and acting the same because he gets different rewards from each.

"I certainly don't do it for the money," he said. "It's not a pay proposition. I get enjoyment and a sense of accomplishment when acting because you're building a character. As director, you get to interpret the show in the way it should be artistically created."

Family twist

The play has a family twist. Ashley Gaum, who plays Alice, and Lorne Gaum, who plays Billy, a teenage errand runner, are the children of co-producer Stephanie Yashinsky.

Stephanie Yashinsky is married to Wayne Yashinsky, who plays Dr. Watson.

"There's nothing better for the family than theater," co-producer Maureen Cook of Bloomfield Hills said. "It's a unique experience for them. It's a fabulous cast and we've got a lot of new, young members which is exciting."

There also is a family connection to acting in Wittlinger's family, though not for this play.

His 25-year-old son David, who lives in Colorado, acts on the side. Ironically, he played a lawyer in his most recent play. Wife Diane and daughter Kristine are more content to watch.

"I gave him some tips (on how to play a lawyer)," the elder Wittlinger said, laughing. "I'm not sure he took them."

Reinventing a music legend simply an American tradition

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER

fprovenzano@oe.homedcomm.net

Since Elvis impersonators franchised the legend of The King, popular tastes have been hardly satiated by radio stations dedicated to classic songs from the definitive era of rock and roll and country.

Untimely deaths may have ended the flesh-and-blood presence of music superstars, but that hasn't meant a halt to their careers. Shows dedicated to Elvis, The Beatles and Buddy Holly demonstrate that the careers of the departed not only live on, they flourish.

In the tradition aptly called appreciation by reinvention, "Always...Patsy Cline" offers an experience beyond listening to a jukebox or greatest hits CD of country music's first cross-over artist with hits such as "Crazy," "Sweet Dreams," "Walkin' After Midnight," and "I Fall to Pieces."

The tribute to legendary country singer Patsy Cline at the intimate Century Theatre succeeds in evoking her physical presence. It's also a reminder that imitation might offer a warm fuzzy, but it's not the real thing.

In what amounts to a tale of unflinching adoration told by a fan (Louise Seger), "Always...Patsy Cline" takes no risks in giving contemporary audiences what is arguably most important — Cline's music.

There's plenty of chances to clap along with the honky-tonk beat pounded out by a cracker-jack on-stage band. And there's the hokey, down-home sensibility delivered over-the-top from a script dripping in sentimentality.

Between performances of 27 songs, Cline's die-hard fan talks about their chance meeting and friendship from 1961, two years before the singer was killed in a plane crash. Seger shows a knack for physical comedy and an impressive ability to improvise to the remarks from the audience.

The recitation of a letter written by Cline to her adoring fan captures the down-home realism of the country star. She is a mother who misses her kids when she's on the road, and a wife with ambivalent feelings for her husband.

Even in her letter, Cline's voice is pure and filled with a melodic anguish.

Before Hank Williams and Cline, country music was yodeling and the streaming melodies of bluegrass. Williams helped to re-craft country songs. And few can compare to Cline's indelible voice, touched with a haunting sense of longing and sexiness.

Long before Shania exposed her navel and Dolly showed that her bountiful bosom matched her prodigious talent, Cline's smooth delivery was leading country music in a new direction.

In the medley that opens the second act, Cline impersonator Jessica Welch hits the mark. She balances the distinctive style of Cline with her own winsome interpretation in nailing "Crazy." And then, in a tender moment, Welch offers a glimpse at her own talent in delivering the emotionally wrought of the lullaby, "Through the Eyes of a Child."

"Always...Patsy Cline" is a feel-good show. Tap your feet, clap your hands. And above all, appreciate the down-home honesty of the music.

If the King can live on, so can Patsy.

Reinvention: Jessica Welch evokes the stage presence of country music legend Patsy Cline.

EMU students to present 'Shakin' the Mess Outta Misery'

Eastern Michigan University continues its winter season with Shay Youngblood's "Shakin' the Mess Outta Misery," a coming of age story and 1999 nominee for the NAACP Theatre Award, weekends through March 25 in the Sponberg Theatre on campus in Ypsilanti. The play is a drama that combines storytelling, music and dance to reveal lessons of mystery, faith and healing.

Set in a small 1960s Southern community, "Shakin' the Mess Outta Misery" is a memory play that reflects the courage of Daughter, a young African American woman returning to her childhood where she encounters the spirits of the women who raised her. Now grown, Daughter reflects on her past and the "Big Mamas" who taught her the traditions and rituals of their ancestors leading her first to the river and then beyond into womanhood.

Daughter's preparation to go to the river is symbolic of her journey into womanhood and is rooted in the Nigerian tradition of the Yoruba ritual. In Yoruba religion, the traditional belief includes the worship of many gods. Yemonja, one of the African goddesses, was "said to be the daughter of the sea into whose waters she empties."

She is the mother of many Yoruba gods, as well as mother of the waters and the ultimate manifestation of female power. On the day that Daughter must go to the river she learns the truth about her life and earns the knowledge that the "Big Mamas" had prepared her for life and had bestowed her with many gifts to pass on.

"Shakin' the Mess Outta Misery" runs 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, March 17-18, Thursday-Friday, March 23-25, and 2:30 p.m. Sunday, March 19 in the Spon-berg Theatre on EMU's Ypsilanti campus. Tickets are $8 for Thursday performances, $13 Friday-Saturday, and $11 Sunday. There is a $2 discount for tickets purchased more than 20 minutes in advance. Call (734) 487-1221 for information.

'Ghost Dog' delivers atmosphere, lacks direction

BY MARY McDONOUGH
STAFF WRITER

mmcdonough@oe.homecomm.net

Talk is cheap and viewers don't get a lot from "Ghost Dog," the samurai warrior-assassin-car thief in the movie by the same name.

Instead we get music videos, which serve as glimpses into the life and samurai philosophy of this hired gun, as he inhabits the streets anonymously, like a shadow or an idea, stealing a car here and shooting a Mafiaoso there.

Instead of being revealing, the glimpses are like those from inside a passing car at night; we witness them, but they quickly disappear, too subtle and too quick to draw us in.

"Ghost Dog: The Way of the Samurai," from independent film maker Jim Jarmusch, juxtaposes the moral codes of the Mafia and the samurai warrior.

Ghost Dog, played by Forest Whitaker, best known for his role as the British soldier/hostage in "The Crying Game," is an assassin who lives in a homemade shack on top of a roof and sleeps with several dozen pigeons fluttering about him.

In addition to effortlessly stealing BMWs and Cadillacs with a computerized device, he works for Louie, a small-time mobster, to whom he has pledged his eternal loyalty after Louie rescued him from being beaten in an alley years ago. Ghost Dog receives his assignments from Louie by carrier pigeon and this time the assignment is to whack Handsome Frank, a "made" man.

When Ghost Dog shows up to do the job, Louie, the daughter of the family's head, who also happens to be Frank's lover, is present and witnesses the hit. The detached young woman hardly blinks an eye, instead giving Ghost Dog a copy of "Rashomon," a paperback that becomes a symbol of the passing on of samurai values.

Upon hearing his daughter was present, Louie's father informs Louie that Ghost Dog must go. Louie explains that he is no ordinary assassin and that he presented himself to Louie four years after the alley attack but the family is undeterred. It's Ghost Dog or Louie.

After Louie informs him of this, noting that they'll probably both be killed anyway, Ghost Dog takes matters into his own hands, killing most of the family, including Louie's father, while she watches cartoon animals clobber each other to sound effects, from the other room.

Besides bumping into the occasional kindred spirit, like Louie, Ghost Dog finds camaraderie in a French-African immigrant who speaks no English and sells ice cream from a truck in the park. Although the two men cannot communicate verbally, they possess an intuitive understanding which has them saying the same things, in different languages, simultaneously.

One of the few times Ghost Dog shows any emotion whatsoever is when he sees a handgun tucked into the belt of the wide-eyed ice cream vendor, which he confiscates.

In the end, the struggle between the family and the samurai comes down to a western-style confrontation between Louie and Ghost Dog and between each man and his respective code of honor.

What's missing from this film is context. There's no sense of time or place. And more importantly, there's no real sense of Samurai way: Forest Whitaker is Ghost Dog, a contract killer who lives by the 18th century warrior text "Hagakure: The Book of the Samurai."

why Ghost Dog has chosen to embrace the rigid ideals of the samurai code and isolate himself from society.

There are hints, however.

Ghost Dog nods in acknowledgment to his counterparts, gang members and rappers in the park, but he does not consort with them. There is little doubt left in viewer's minds that racism was a significant factor leading up to Ghost Dog's choice of violent occupations. Whitaker gives a memorable performance, appearing humbled and haunted by the grisly occupation he has been forced to perform.

What this film delivers in atmosphere, it lacks in direction. We need to know more about what happened or didn't happen in Ghost Dog's life that brought him here.

Or we need to know more about how the samurai philosophy fills the gaping holes of society with bravery, loyalty and discipline. Without either, we're somewhat bored in a film that is soulful but slow, moody but detached from its audience.

Branded aims to make its mark on metro Detroit

Somewhere between the crazed Korn and Limp Bizkit fans and teeny-bopper sensations The Backstreet Boys and N'Sync lies a middle ground. In Western Wayne County that middle ground is marked by the music of Branded.

Bringing in their new-style punk and a bundle of ballads sure to make young girls swoon, the band officially relocated from its native Lake City to the Detroit area last year. Still getting used to the new digs, three brothers Jason (vocals) and Shane Bergeron (guitar), Robert Bark (drums) and their friend Bill Chesney (bass) have dropped their horn section to return to the rock-infested roots. Together since 1997, the musicians have grown together and finally released their debut, "Jump Start" on Goldtooth Records.

Branded will kick off the CD's debut on-so-appropriately when they open for Howling Diablos, St. Patrick's Day at Redford's Bullfrog Bar and Grill. While the band wouldn't say what they had in store for audiences, words like "choreographed" and "adrenaline" were tossed about during a recent interview.

Jason Bergeron, lead vocalist and Canton resident, said the band's strength lies in the close ties the musicians have with each other and their manager, Dave Perrine. "We're really, really tight right now," he said. Bergeron joined the band when he returned from the Navy. The moniker was derived from the brand of his initials the singer made on his left arm.

He said working with family and friends only amplifies the musical benefits. "When we write music, we're always on the same wavelength... I couldn't have another guitar player."

Perrine's devotion to the band is just as strong. A Schoolcraft College graduate, he began promoting them while still in college. Perrine hasn't looked back since. "I believe in their music so much, I won't stop until they are successful."

Branded's music appeals to a younger audience, mostly teenagers. That means that the response at Pharo's Golden Cup in Westland has been overwhelming. The band only wishes more venues catered to a younger crowd.

If the Backstreet Boys can do it, why not Branded?

The band - whose members mostly reside in Westland - has nudged near local success, winning four battle of the bands contests to date and snagging the opening spot for Alice Cooper at the 1998 Michigan State Fair. Bergeron recalled the wild response Branded received at a middle school benefit: "Fourteen and 15-year old girls were screaming. Everyone was coming up and asking for an autograph."

Having achieved notoriety in Lake City, Branded hopes to replicate and surpass that success here. The band is counting on songs like "When I'm Away," "Locked Out" and "Junkie" to help them gain such recognition.

Check out Branded opening for Howling Diablos, 10 p.m. Friday, March 17, The Bullfrog Bar and Grill, Redford. (313) 533-4477. Buy "Jump Start" at all Desirable Disc and Dearborn Music locations, Rock of Ages in Garden City, Repeat the Beat in Plymouth and Record Collectors in Livonia.

Branded: Bill Chesney, Shane Bergeron, Robert Bark and Jay Bergeron are ready to rock this St. Patrick's Day. Check out branded.ontheweb.nu.

Third Eye Blind's feeling 'Blue' on tour

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA
STAFF WRITER
scasola@oe.homecomm.net

Arion Salazar speaks in a deep tone, with the sounds of Japanese music filling in the telephone line Thursday afternoon, March 2. He calls me "grasshopper" and says he's in his hotel room in Las Vegas. But before he can pull off any more of the interview in that pseudo-throaty tone, Salazar laughs and admits he's stumbled upon music on some strange cable station. One-fourth of California's best-known Bay Area alternative band, Third Eye

Blind, he's in great spirits, just beginning to tour in support of 3EB's sophomore Elektra Records release, "Blue."

Observer & Eccentric: How's the tour going?

Arion Salazar: "The tour is going well. Last night was the first night. It's great. The Muffs are opening for us for the first two shows. They are one of my favorite bands. That has added to the excitement. They have just been my favorite for years."

O&E: To what do you attribute Third Eye Blind's success?

Arion Salazar: "I'd like to think we write good songs. I think we're a great rock and roll band. I'm kind of close to it, too close to it. I don't know. The music we make is something we can be proud of. I think most of the time when an artist puts out something real, it translates."

O&E: Being such radio darlings, how did you approach recording the new album, "Blue."

Arion Salazar: "We put time constraints on ourselves. We jammed through it. We didn't want to labor over it. It has a fresh, raw feel. The other thing we did differently, (there were) no boundaries as far as instrumentation. We used different instruments like sitars, keyboards, strings, a boy's choir. We wanted to go off and use as many different textures as we had the opportunity to. It was the most fun I've had in the studio."

O&E: Do you have a favorite track on the album?

Arion Salazar: "I really like '10 Days Late' (it's bound to be the next single off of "Blue" and Salazar co-wrote it). It has a theremin (a wood and metal high-pitched instrument) on it. These songs really are fresh to us. I think lots of songs come across as meant to play live."

O&E: What's the significance of the title, other than the fact that it's my favorite color?

Arion Salazar: "It's my favorite color, too. We had a stupid name for it, 'Guardians of the Universe.' If you look at the cover, it's like we're superheroes. When we were making the tunes, for a minute (we were going to name it after) a defensive chess move. It was so stupid... It's a bit too brainiac. Why don't we just call it 'Blue?' It's neutral."

O&E: The title suggests something sad, or moody, but the album isn't that way at all.

Arion Salazar: "We're usually not what we seem. The sound we have is usually one way on the surface. In that way, I think (it) refers to the band."

O&E: What can Third Eye Blind fans expect this time around when they catch you at Detroit's State Theatre?

Arion Salazar: "To get rocked... We have a 60-foot inflatable ant-eater."

O&E: You're kidding about the ant-eater, right?

Arion Salazar: "Yeah. We're super-excited to come to Detroit." Third Eye Blind performs with guests Tonic, 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 24, State Theatre, Detroit.

Eat corned beef and enjoy St. Patrick's Day

BY KEELY WYGONIK AND RENEE SKOGLUND
STAFF WRITERS
kwygonik@oe.homecomm.net

Friday is St. Patrick's Day, and local pubs are getting ready for one of the busiest days of the year. This year, St. Patrick's Day falls on a Friday during Lent. But, if you're Catholic, don't worry. Faith and beggars, thanks to a little spiritual intervention, you get to enjoy your corned beef without guilt.

"I'm a realist," said Cardinal Adam Maida during an Ash Wednesday radio interview with Paul W. Smith on WJR. "As we reflect on the Irish tradition in Church... it is really a time for celebration. I will offer - for those who would like to take it for that day - a dispensation so that Catholics can, in good faith, celebrate the traditions of our Irish heritage and be thankful to the Lord for all the blessings that come to us because of that."
