District maps elementary boundaries

■ It took them the better part of a year, but planners in the Plymouth-Canton school district came up with a plan to redraw elementary boundaries to accommodate the newest building.

BY TONY BRUSCATO

tbruscato@oe.hometown.com

With the opening of Dodson Elementary scheduled for August, Plymouth-Canton school officials are proposing new elementary school boundaries for the 2001-2002 school year.

The changes, which need approval by the Board of Education, will reassign 757 of the 7,700 elementary students in the district, or just under 10 percent. The reconfiguration means Dodson will have a first-year enrollment of approximately 553 students.

"A survey we did indicates the most important thing the community wanted was to keep the neighborhoods together," said Verna Anible, executive director/educational services. "That was the same result as when we were redistricting the middle schools last year, so it wasn't a surprise."

According to the report by the Housing and Facilities Committee, residents were more concerned about keeping neighborhoods and elementary school populations together than having children remain in their current schools.

Other considerations high on the list of committee members included maximizing the number of walkers, maintaining the current middle school boundaries, avoiding long bus rides and considering special education needs.

Plymouth-Canton uses a software program called PolyPlot to find the exact number of students in a particular neighborhood and match them up with the capacity of each of the 15 elementary schools.

"It's really a game of dominoes," said Anible. "Once you take a group of kids out of one building, and move them into another building, you have

You may not hit a home run every time up but at least you can put your ball in the middle of the fairway.

It's a mixed sports metaphor for sure, but one that accurately represents the publishing philosophy of Brian Lewis, whose Chelsea-based Sleeping Bear Press has garnered an impressive record of sales and accolades in just six years.

Lewis will be the featured speaker Thursday, April 5, for the 15th annual Author Luncheon hosted by the Friends of the Canton, Plymouth, Northville and Novi libraries. The event is sponsored by the Observer Newspapers and Hometown Newspapers, both part of the HomeTown Communications Network.

Lewis' unsuccessful efforts to find a publisher for a 62-year-old golf manuscript, The Spirit of St. Andrews, inspired creation of Sleeping Bear in 1995. Since then, the small, Main Street office has expanded to house 34 employees. It has published a variety of mostly regional titles - from children's books to a coffee table memoir by Bo Schembechler to a first novel (The Greatest Player that Never Lived by Mike Veron). All have had sales ranging from good to phenomenal and have been praised for the quality of materials and workmanship. A children's Christmas story, The Legend of Sleeping Bear, has sold well in excess of 100,000 copies.

Clearance rate rises as township crime slips

BY SUE BUCK
STAFF WRITER
sbuck@oe.hometown.com

Plymouth Township police officers are working smarter.

That's the feeling of township police chief Larry Carey after watching the clearance rate for both serious and lesser crimes increase in 2000.

Police cleared 609 or 35 percent of the total 1,745 crimes reported in 2000. They cleared 432 or 24 percent of the total 1,774 crimes in 1999.

"That was one of my goals, that the clearance rate go up because that's the time you are actually solving," Carey said. "When you judge performance, it's not so much raw numbers like counting tickets or arrests. Our violations went down, yet our accidents didn't grow too much."

He put the figures into perspective.

"Nationwide crime went down," Carey said. Locally, both crime and the crime rate went down.

The U.S. Census and SEMCOG estimate Plymouth Township's 2001 population at 27,677 with an estimated 11,117 households. Based on these figures, the 2000 crime rate again decreased, to 321 index crimes per 10,000 population, Carey said. Index crime per 10,000 population decreased in 1999 to a rate of 339, he said.

The Michigan Incident-based Crime Reporting System defines Part I or index crimes as murder, rape, robbery, assault, burglary, larceny, vehicle theft and arson. These are the most serious crimes.

Part II or non-index crimes are fraud, malicious destruction of property, narcotics, weapons, abuse, stolen property, etc.

In 2000, the township had 891 index

Board approves concept for fields

BY SUE BUCK

sbuck@oe.hometown.com

Plymouth Township is expected to pursue state grant funding for the development of soccer fields at M-14 and Haggerty Road.

Development of the soccer fields is expected to cost about $1.3 million. With the additional options of a soccer-area restroom, and a swimming pool and bathhouse option, the projected cost could swell to $2.7 million, officials said.

"We have had contact with a couple of neighbors in that area," said Plymouth Township Supervisor Steve Mann.

Jim Anulewicz, Plymouth Township director of public services, has also discussed the makeup of the plans with the heads of Plymouth-area soccer groups as well as a soccer expert from the YMCA.

The Plymouth Township board accepted the project concept and budget at Tuesday's meeting and authorized grant funding application, further refining of the concept and preparation of detailed plans.

The board is working toward an April 1 grant application deadline to expedite the project.

"We didn't just depend on ourselves for the location and the types of soccer fields," Anulewicz said. "This is to bring this to the board for exposure

Better late than never: city sets 2001 goals

BY TONY BRUSCATO

After nearly a year-and-a-half of talking about setting goals, Plymouth city commissioners have finally identified six goals they hope to accomplish before the end of the year.

Commissioners Monday night, with the help of a facilitator, recognized nearly 50 areas where they wanted to see improvements in the city. After nearly four hours of discussions, they narrowed their immediate goals down to six areas.

At the top of the list were finding a city manager and a police chief. The city manager's position has been vacant for nine months, while the police chief's position has been otiose since the latter part of October.

While those two goals were obvious, it took some discussion by commissioners before coming up with a consensus on the remaining four. When the smoke cleared, the four agreed upon by commissioners included:

- Recreation for all age groups.
- Public restroom for downtown.
- Capital improvements/Develop financial plans.
- Long term parking plans for downtown and Old Village.

On the topic of recreation, commissioners focused on the current master plan and future needs.

"As a result of that master plan, we want to seek grant dollars as a funding device," said Commissioner Bill Graham. "And, we need to look at the potential rezoning of Central Middle School property ... to get some portion of this property dedicated to park-type use. In the event the school tries to sell it, we're prepared."

"We should look at the expanding Cultural Center opportunities, other than what's currently in the ($635,000 state) recreation grant (to make improvements)," added Graham. "Concerning a youth commission, we've got to look at what other communities have done and see how it works."

Commissioners also want to investigate constructing downtown bathroom facilities. More immediate plans will provide for two Port-a-johns in the downtown area from May through September to accommodate Kellogg Park crowds.

"While that is taking place, we need to define where a permanent restroom should be located and what it will look like," said Graham.

Capital improvements mainly centered on road, water and sewer construction.

"We want to instruct the administration to develop a construction plan for the 2001 construction season, and propose a street paving philosophy," said Mayor Pro-Tem Colleen Pobur.

'As a result of that master plan, we want to seek grant dollars as a funding device.'

Financial plans center on the obligations of the city as it pertains to its employees.

"We want to develop a bargaining strategy so that over time all our union and non-represented employees are consistent with how we deal with them in terms of pay and benefits," explained Commissioner Sean FitzGerald.

Commissioners also agreed to review the existing parking plans for downtown and Old Village and address any concerns.

After the goal-setting session, commissioners appeared pleased they finally, after more than a year of talking about it, set goals for the future of the city, some of which they hope to have completed by the end of the year.

"I think they're excellent goals," said Commissioner Michele Potter. "Having been on the commission for the past 15 months, I see how slowly we sometimes move. I'm hoping with this goal-setting session we'll carry forth the energy and get them done in 8-10 months."

"They are all things that are important to the community," added Pobur.

"I'll expect we'll finish off several of the goals," said FitzGerald. "It will just add to the betterment of the community."

crimes compared to the 907 in 1999, a decrease of 1.8 percent. Total index and non-index crimes decreased from 1,774 incidents in 1999 to 1,745 in 2000, resulting in a decrease of 1.6 percent.

Total vehicle crashes, including private property crashes, increased by 86 to 1,177 in 2000. State reportable crashes were up 1.4 percent, while tickets decreased from 10,498 in 1999 to 8,252 in 2000, a 21.4 percent decrease.

There were 3.2 percent more arrests in 2000, 549 adult arrests in 2000 compared to 416 arrests in 1999. The 51 juvenile arrests in 2000 increased from 38 juvenile arrests in 1999.

The major accomplishment in 2000 was the installation of new technology, Carey said. That included live scan fingerprinting, automated booking and mug shots, mobile data terminals, computer-aided dispatch, community watch, and digital radio communication.

The installation of the digital photo system and a computerized ink-less fingerprinting system allowed computerization of the entire prisoner booking process.

State and federal grant money was used for these items which helped police officers spend considerably less time on administrative tasks and more time in the community, Carey said.

Vast amounts of information between the patrol officer and 70 other police agencies in southeast Michigan can be exchanged with the new mobile computers which were installed in the patrol cars.

The police department began operating through the Oakland County Court and Law Enforcement Management and Information System, known as CLEMIS, Dec. 27.

The investigations section kept track of crime in other communities to determine a connection with crimes in Plymouth Township.

At the end of the year, Northville Township, Livonia and Ann Arbor police departments helped the Plymouth Township Police Department separately close several investigations. These included the malicious destruction of property incident at Hilltop Golf Course involving more than $5,000 in damages; four larceny investigations where the suspect took money and credit cards from Bally's Health and Fitness; four construction site breaking and entering/larceny investigations, and four home invasions.

The police department also received a first place honor during the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police Traffic Safety Awards presented at the summer conference.

There were 43 narcotic arrests last year compared to 17 in 1999; Total estimated assets seized was $23,865 in 2000 compared to $14,877 in 1999.

The absence of a large commercial area like a shopping mall benefits Plymouth Township, Carey said.

"We don't have a community which lends itself to crime, to tell the truth," Carey said.

Workers laying fiber optic cable

BY TONY BRUSCATO

Three years ago, it cost nearly a million dollars to reconstruct

Main Street, making it a smooth pathway through downtown Plymouth.

However, road work on the south end will now make Main Street look more like a patchwork quilt, with some residents fearing the smooth ride from one end of the city to the other will turn into a bumpy travel experience.

"What we have is a subcontractor for Ameritech putting fiber optic cable under the street," said Acting City Manager Paul Sincok. "As hard as we try to meet with all the utility companies and have everything in place before we pave a road, unfortunately there are circumstances that arise. Technologies change, systems deteriorate and needs vary."

In fact, Sincok said even the city has had to tear up Main Street for a water main break at Linden. That portion of the road will be repaired in the spring.

"We're working closely with the cable contractor to make certain the road is repaired properly," said Sincok. "We have standard engineering details related to road patches and how it's put back together. We'll have 10 inches of stone, several inches of concrete and several inches of asphalt. It's going to come back in relatively the same condition it was in."

Sincok said while it may not look as nice, Main Street should be as smooth as ever when repairs are completed.

Flowers

KEEPING IT SIMPLE
If you enjoy the simple things in life, your vision is shared by growing numbers of flower arrangers who have grown a bit weary of fussy, overdone arrangements. One of the newest trends in flower arranging involves a Zen approach. A contemporary Zen centerpiece is a very pristine affair that, for example, may make simple use of wheat grass in a metal box vase, followed by the addition of orchids or bamboo. The Zen approach also calls for simple arrangements that feature so-called architectural flowers, such as calla lilies, that invite visual inspection of the wondrous ways of nature. In this respect, the bunching of a few flowers can be as overwhelming as a large multi-floral bouquet.
The elegance of a sparse arrangement can be as breathtaking as an intricate floral arrangement. For more tips on the wonderful world of flowers, call HEIDE'S FLOWERS & GIFTS, located at 995 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth. We are celebrating over 100 years in business, and 25 years in our current location. To place your order by phone, call 453-5140. SPOTLIGHT ON YOUR PET
Veterinary Notes

THE BELOVED BEAGLE
The small, sociable beagle makes a great pet for many types of households. Because of its size, it does well in the city. Its friendly disposition makes it an excellent choice for homes with children. A beagle will grow 13 to 15 inches tall and weigh 20 to 25 pounds. Beagles need regular exercise, plenty of play time, and human companionship. When these needs go unmet, it may bark excessively or become destructive. A daily walk or leashed run in the park is sufficient exercise. A beagle's dense, waterproof coat requires weekly brushing. Trim nails and check ears regularly for infection. Don't expect a beagle to act as watchdog—they love company too much to ward off an intruder.
At PARKWAY VETERINARY CLINIC, we provide comprehensive medical care for pets. Bring your pet here for routine check-ups, preventative healthcare, and emergency treatment with Dr. Kirchgatter, Dr. Bares, or one of our other veterinarians. Hiller's suspects bound over for trial after prelim exam

BY CAROL MARSHALL

CMARSHALL@OE.HOMECOMM.NET

Four witnesses testified about the early morning of Feb. 15 when they were bound with duct tape and threatened by the men police say intended to rob the store where the witnesses worked.

The three men accused of attempting to rob Hiller's Market on Haggerty were bound over Monday for trial, after their 35th District Court preliminary examinations.

"They pointed their guns at me and came running at me and told me to be quiet. Be quiet or die," said Robert Tucker, who was stocking shelves on the midnight shift when the defendants allegedly entered the store.

Jordan Kelly, Donyelle Williams and Larry Davis were arraigned Feb. 16 on four counts each of assault with intent to rob, each of which carries a maximum life sentence, for the Feb. 15 attempted robbery. The defendants were also charged with possession of a weapon in commission of a felony.

At Monday's preliminary exam, store employees testified they were each told by the suspects, who were dressed in dark clothing and dark hoods, they would be shot if they didn't cooperate, and each was bound with duct tape for a 15- to 20-minute period during the crime.

Each also said he heard the men communicating with each other over two-way radios.

Wayne County assistant prosecutor Raymond Maguire questioned police officers from Northville Township and Livonia about the on-site capture and arrest of each defendant.

Northville Township Officer David Roberts said after he secured two of the store's exits, two men ran out a back door. Williams stopped immediately and put his hands in the air, saying, "You got me. You got me. I ain't going to fight," Roberts testified. Kelly ran back into the store. Livonia Officer Ronald McPhee said he found Kelly hiding in a trash compactor.

Livonia Police Sgt. Gregory Perttunen said Davis was found lying down in his Jeep Cherokee in the parking lot at nearby Tanger Center. Upon searching the vehicle, he found wads of duct tape, a pair of binoculars, a Motorola two-way radio, a pistol and a box cutter.

According to Bias' testimony, Davis said the suspects drove around for a while, looking for something to eat. He said the three wound up in Hiller's because "a friend told me we should go look at it and see what you think."

Bias said Davis' wife has been cleared of any suspicion in the robbery and has been cooperative and passed a polygraph examination. Davis said his friends got out of the Jeep, and he fell asleep, Bias testified.

"Next thing I knew, a police officer was pounding on the window," Bias said Davis told him.

Williams gave Bias a verbal statement instead of a written statement. He told Bias the three rode together to the store, and Davis stayed in the vehicle, Bias testified. He said Williams admitted to taping the witnesses with duct tape, and that they intended to rob the store.

Bias said Williams had told him the men intended to rob the store but had not intended to do it that morning.

The defendants were bound over for trial and are being held in Wayne County Jail on $500,000 cash bond.

Township presses on with Miller Park

BY SUE BUCK
STAFF WRITER
sbuck@oe.homcomm.net

Plymouth Township will forge ahead to develop Miller Family Park by June.

Plans for the triangular, 3.5-acre parcel located on Ann Arbor Trail near Chestnut were approved last year.

The neighborhood park is expected to serve an area bounded by Ann Arbor Road, Haggerty Road, the Middle Rouge Parkway and I-275.

At Tuesday's township board meeting, trustees awarded the contract to Nationwide Fence and Supply Company of Chesterfield, the low-bidder, in the amount of $224,200.65.

About $207,000 of the project construction cost was obtained through a Clean Michigan Initiative grant.

"We have not previously worked with Nationwide Fence and Supply Company; however, verification of the references indicated successful projects and satisfied owners," said Kristen Miner of Dietrich, Bailey and Associates, the township's engineering firm.

Nationwide Fence and Supply has done field renovations for the cities of East Lansing, Mount Clemens and Muskegon.

Trustee Kay Arnold asked if the neighborhood residents would be involved at all as a way to take ownership of the park.

"At this point there is no community involvement," Miner said. "In the future, as far as watering or the upkeep of the structures, that's a possibility."

The company will do all the work.

"So all the neighbors who said they wanted to help, you aren't going to let them," Arnold said.

Jim Anulewicz, Plymouth Township director of public services, said the township will meet the deadline as directed. The neighbors were involved in providing input for design, he said.

"Involvement with the project doesn't mean you have to come out, dig a hole and put concrete in," Anulewicz said. "We will continue to involve them with communicating with them. I don't think they have to be involved with putting something in the ground to make a commitment. It will be up to us to ensure they are part of the process. Otherwise you are going to run into some liability issues."

The township should still encourage a service group or anybody who wants to donate money to pay for a slide, for example, said trustee Ron Griffith. Neighborhood residents could volunteer to pick up litter at the park after it is built, he said.

Anulewicz also suggested a service group could adopt the park to keep an eye on it and keep it up. "That buys into the local community," he said.

The land just west of I-275 was donated to the township more than two years ago. It was given on behalf of Peter and Adele Miller. Peter Miller was known for selling raspberries from a stand on Ann Arbor Trail at the future park site.

Adele Miller died in 1982. Peter Miller died in 1999.

Adele's sister Claire Hasske and the Millers' niece Gail Nutter, presented the land to the township.

to take someone out of that building and move them to another. There aren't a lot of empty classrooms out there.

"The task is to put them all together in a way that makes sense geographically, that meets the capacity and keeps the neighborhoods together," she added.

Anible points out that students who are walkers this year will also be walkers next year.

Along with the current number of students who attend Plymouth-Canton Schools, the committee had to project the number of students from current and future subdivision construction, mostly in Canton and Plymouth townships.

"In Canton, Central Park is already giving us some students, and will for the next two-three years," said Marcy Staley, a member of the committee. "Cherry Hill Village (future construction in Canton) is one of the biggest puzzles to deal with.

When they will start coming in, how fast they will come, and how will we keep them together as a neighborhood are questions we need to address. In the Plymouth area, we have growth at Country Club Village.

"Until we get ahead of the growth curve, we'll have to continue to make changes," said Staley.

Staley said if Dodson Elementary, located in a growth area of southwest Canton, enrolled students from a one-mile radius, "we would have had 1,000 students going to Dodson, so we had to make some decisions."

According to projections for the 2001-2002 school year, Tonda Elementary will have the highest elementary school enrollment with 600 students. Field, with 590 students, will be the second largest, followed by Isbister with 580 students.

Smith Elementary is projected to be the smallest with 421 pupils, followed by Fiegel with 456 students.

Anible said the redistricting proposal has been successful in not splitting up families and neighborhoods.

"We probably won't see major changes (in the future) like we have now," she said. "Certainly in a growing community there will be some minor changes. What we do think is that there's the possibility of building another school."

The last major elementary school redistricting occurred in 1976 when Field, Hulsing and Eriksson elementary schools were opened. Very few changes had to be made when Bentley and Tonda elementaries opened in 1994 in neighborhoods with steadily growing subdivisions.

Community input meetings are slated for East Middle School at 9 a.m. Saturday, March 10, and at 6 p.m. Thursday, March 15.

Grisham book, but we don't have to in order to be successful. The goal is to take the projects we do select and do a first-class job," Lewis said in a telephone interview this week.

Lewis said he relies on the intuition and talent of the Sleeping Bear staff in choosing titles and nurturing projects. Editor Heather Hughes was particularly instrumental in The Legend of Sleeping Bear, written by Kathyjo Wargin and illustrated by Gijbert van Frankenhuyzen. The story (and the publisher's name) come from the northern Michigan tale about a mother bear waiting for her cubs.

Other recent projects include The Awakening of a Surgeon by Plymouth's Dr. Dave Janda and Words and Wisdom of the Appliance Doctor by Observer & Eccentric columnist Joe Gagnon, part of a series of consumer guides in the works at Sleeping Bear, Lewis said.

The golf books, though, are Lewis' passion — along with the publishing business, which runs in the family. A listener is never sure which one Lewis is referring to when he speaks of the two. "I love the game. It's addictive."

lishing is a "very energetic, fast-moving business," in contrast to the more leisurely but no less demanding sport, does the difference become clear.

The most golf books are the novel, and non-fiction works about the exclusive Cypress Point Golf Course in Carmel, Calif. and The Fundamentals of Hogan, a book of never-before-published instructional photographs the legendary Ben Hogan used to prepare his 1957 book, Five Lessons.

Lewis, 40, grew up in Chelsea, west of Ann Arbor, and "graduated" into his late father's technical publishing business after earning a business degree from Grand Valley State University. Lewis Publishers was the second venture run by his dad, Edward Lewis. It was sold to Times-Mirror Corp. — the usual fate for successful, small publishers, according to Brian Lewis — in 1990.

Brian stayed on as president until the first golf tome pointed him in his current entrepreneurial direction.

His appearance on behalf of the friends groups will mark the first time a publisher, rather than author, delivers the keynote address. But it isn't for lack of trying, Lewis noted.

Canton approves bulk of site plan for school construction

cmarshall@ee.homedom.net

After a four-month battle between North Pointe subdivision residents and the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, the plans for the new Plymouth High School are all but put to bed.

The Canton Township Board of Trustees voted Tuesday to approve the school's site plan, with the exception of the junior varsity field track and practice athletic fields located north and south of the Beck Road entrance drive.

On Monday, township and school officials met with North Pointe residents to find middle ground before the vote.

"I think everybody's recognized a degree of reality and how it impacts the entire school district," said Canton Municipal Services Director Aaron Machnik. "They've reached a point where the school district is being very receptive to addressing their concerns."

Machnik told the board of trustees he expects a plan for the balance of the project to be presented for approval by the end of March.

The Canton Township Planning Commission in January denied approval for Plymouth High School and related facilities due to the incompatibility of the proposed junior varsity field and the adverse impacts from light and noise associated with the facility. Commissioners stated the field could be placed in another area on the site.

"Everything got off on a very bad foot," explained Melissa McLaughlin, who serves on both the planning commission and the board of trustees. "We kept standing our ground; we knew we could do better."

Representatives from the school district met on several occasions with North Pointe homeowners in an attempt to address their concerns. Among the first few rounds of concessions, the district moved the field 60 feet farther away from the residential property.

Last week, school administrators and project architect Dan Jerome presented a plan to the township board which included a 21-foot berm between the residential and school property.

The district also agreed to bring the bleachers down from 15 rows high to 10 rows, and reduce the height of the stadium lights from 70 feet to 60 feet.

At the Monday night meeting, North Pointe residents asked for some items — berm irrigation, fence placement, and assurance that varsity teams and marching bands would not use the field-to-be put in writing, said McLaughlin.

"If there are agreements in writing, future administrations, if they're decent and honorable, will do their best to honor those," McLaughlin said. "(Superintendent Kathleen) Booher has been very forthright in saying as long as she's there, those things will be honored."

with a sense of direction. Our time frame is extremely tight. It will take a month to prepare the data and get the application together."

Even if the township received the grant, construction is unlikely this year, Anulewicz said.

The primary focus of the proposed park will be the development of youth soccer fields for community use. Current plans include one soccer field sized for 11 year olds and older, one field for ages 7-10 years, and one field for ages 6 and under.

A paved parking area with a pedestrian drop-off area, a barrier-free accessible path around the site and a covered shelter area with landscaping are included.

Trustee Abe Munfakh voted against accepting the concept and budget and called the plans too intense with too many activities planned on the parcel. He said the board was moving too quickly and before it could get input from residents in the Lakepointe area at Five Mile and Haggerty.

"We are asking to approve a plan without going to the neighbors and talking to them yet," Munfakh said. "I know people in the Lakepointe area will be concerned. We should take some time and review it and have the public meeting before we approve a plan."

Swimming pools have to be approved by both the county and state health departments, he added. "It's not something you can take lightly," Munfakh said. "It costs a lot more than the numbers you are looking at. The numbers should be reviewed because they are a little on the light side."

He also mentioned an increase in traffic and liability in connection with a pool.

Township officials will hold a community meeting at St. Kenneth Church to discuss the project. No date has been set, but the meeting is expected later this month.

Some Lakepointe residents have expressed dismay at increased traffic they expect with the proposed 60-acre Plymouth Lakes Corporate Park located east of Haggerty and south of Five Mile Road.

Besides the Plymouth Lakes Corporate Park project, Burton-Katzman Development Co. wants to build an office park on 21 acres on Haggerty, north of Five Mile in Northville Township.

"We need to go after the grant now," said Treasurer Ron Edwards. "We've let grants go by here all too often. Other communities are picking up grants. This is a concept. Even if we put in soccer fields and parking, it's a start."

The grants are awarded in August, so if the township receives it this year, plans could move ahead for next year, Edwards said.

Trustee Chuck Curmi supported a one-month, checkpoint window to determine where the township stands with the grant. "This isn't rocket science," Curmi said. "We're not building major buildings. We're mostly moving earth."

Trustee Ron Griffith said he agreed with Munfakh that the public needs to be involved but if the township plans to apply for a grant it is on a time schedule. "This is a conceptual proposal at this time," he said. "The board will have a number of occasions to tweak this proposal."

All the board members ran in support of recreation during their campaigns, said Clerk Marilyn Massengill. "This is a good use of the property," Massengill said.

Trustee Kay Arnold asked if the pool could be constructed with a cover for year-round use.

Township offers weather class

BY SUE BUCK
STAFF WRITER
sbuck@oe.homecomm.net

When notified of a tornado warning, do you take cover? Chances are you don't and that concerns Chuck VanVleck, emergency program manager for Plymouth Township.

He hopes to enlighten people. The Plymouth Township Emergency Management Division hosts a Basic Severe Weather Spotters class at 10 a.m. Saturday. The class will be held in the Plymouth Township board room on Ann Arbor Road at Lilley.

The public is welcome to the free class. "Many times a tornado warning is used and nothing happens," VanVleck said. "People in our community get complacent. That's a very dangerous frame of mind."

Tornadoes can occur in any month of the year, although most occur during April through July, late in the afternoon or early evening, he said.

"Ninety percent of our severe weather comes out of the west-southwest," VanVleck said. "We are on the extreme western edge of Wayne County. This means that if severe weather is going to hit Wayne County, it will hit us first."

It's important to educate everyone in the family on what conditions are right to produce severe thunderstorms, according to VanVleck. "They should listen to the media and be aware of changing weather conditions," he said.

VanVleck offered explanations for some commonly used weather terms:

■ A severe thunderstorm watch means conditions are right to produce severe thunderstorms.

■ A severe thunderstorm warning means thunderstorms are likely to occur with the danger of lightning.

■ A tornado watch means weather conditions could produce a tornado. "Secure loose objects outside and determine where your family is in case you need to take shelter," VanVleck said.

■ A tornado warning means a tornado has been spotted or the National Weather Service radar has detected a possible presence. "You should take cover immediately," he said.

"The rule of thumb is to go to the lowest floor and get as many walls as you can between you and the outside. If you have a basement, take shelter there, under the stairway or heavy furniture. If you don't have a basement go to a small interior room such as a closet or bathroom."

The tornado warning sirens will sound with a steady tone for 3-5 minutes when there is a tornado warning issued for the area. "There is no 'all clear' signal," VanVleck said.

Warning sirens are tested at 1 p.m. the first Saturday of every month.

Call (734) 453-3840, Ext. 284 for more information. VanVleck can be reached at (734) 354-3223.

Madonna University's auction has Hispanic theme, April 20

Madonna University is expecting more than 500 bidders at its 13th annual auction, 5:30 p.m. Friday, April 20.

Car raffle tickets are $200 each and no more 750 will be sold. General tickets are $85 or Gold Inner Circle Reserved seats are $125 per person. All proceeds benefit the Madonna University Scholarship Fund and educational projects.

General chairs for the 2001 auction are Madonna University trustee Hector Ramirez, quality assurance manager, Ford Motor Co., and former president, Leticia de Livonia, and his wife, Rosa, who will help to develop the Hispanic theme this year by sponsoring a mariachi band, Especial de Mexico, to entertain guests during dinner.

A sampling of the items up for bid include a day on the set of the "Everybody Loves Raymond" show in Los Angeles with Northwest airfare and Marriott accommodations; a private fashion show and luncheon for 50 people at Neiman Marcus; collectors wine for the connoisseurs, including a rare 1981 bottle of Lafite Rothschild wine; a commemorative bat autographed by former President George Bush, signed during the inaugural; a fantasy dinner for six at Tribute Restaurant, prepared by world renowned chef Takashi Yagihashi at the private chef's table; a fine collection of jewelry; golf packages and more. State's power picture not rosy, supplies described as 'tight'

By MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

Michigan is not likely to repeat the problems seen in California, with electric shortages, skyrocketing prices and occasional rolling blackouts.

Nonetheless, Michigan's power supply is "tight," according to Gary Kitts, chief administrative officer for the Public Service Commission. It is likely to remain so for the next two years until new generation plants, some already under construction and others proposed, come on line.

John Stauffacher, vice president of the Dynegy company which is seeking to build a new power plant here, goes further. He told the state House Energy and Technology Committee last week that energy supplies in Michigan have been "nip and tuck" in previous years.

"We were lucky in Michigan in 1998," Stauffacher said. "There was a strike by the UAW during that summer and that may be why blackouts and brownouts did not occur, but it was very close."

The power situation has improved, Kitts said, but remains tight. Michigan should have 15 percent reserves over its peak energy demand. The state has that, he said, but only because it can purchase power from out of state. The in-state capacity is just enough to meet demand.

Kitts compared that to the situation in California, where rolling blackouts have occurred on three days this year. The state has also had 32 days of "stage three energy alerts," which occur when power reserves dip to 1.5 percent of demand.

The Michigan House Energy Committee is taking testimony about the California energy crisis, on how this state compares to it, in an ongoing series of hearings. It has invited a California public service commissioner to testify in a future session.

The good news, according to Kitts, is that in the wake of passage of last year's electric deregulation bill by the state Legislature, two new power plants are under construction and about a dozen more are being proposed in Michigan.

Michigan already has about twice as much electric generation capacity as the state of California, Kitts said. That state decided years ago that it preferred to import much of its electricity rather than put up new power plants. The latest estimate is that California imports 20 percent of its power, but Kitts said he believes the true figure is closer to 25 percent.

Committee members asked why the problem seemed to crop up so suddenly in California, and in the winter, when the peak season is in the summer. Kitts said California utilities, already operating with very old power plants, pretty much ran them into the ground last summer.

"The situation in California is worse than it appears," he said. "This is the off-season. You can usually get through the winter with no problem. The demand in winter is about 30,000 megawatts. The demand in summer is closer to 50,000 megawatts."

California also deregulated electric utilities, which was the beginning of the problem there, Kitts said. California lawmakers required utilities to sell many of their power plants and then buy power on the open market.

Michigan didn't do that, Kitts said.

"We did not want to take a step and find out later it didn't work and there was no way to undo it," Kitts said.

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the hometowns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

Redistricting done with care, goals in mind

It's the fourth "R" and the one that school districts fear most — redistricting. But a committee of Plymouth-Canton administrators, teachers and parents has spent the better part of a year putting together the massive proposal for elementary school boundary changes unveiled this week with the goal of making next fall's transition as smooth as possible. To our mind, they've succeeded.

We say this for a couple of reasons. First and foremost, we note that despite new boundaries for all 15 schools, projections call for reassignment of fewer than 10 percent of the district's 7,700 elementary students. Of those, only 113 students will be moving to a new school in what the district calls an "unrequested change." The overwhelming majority of reassignments were done to accommodate the opening of a new school (Dodson Elementary in Canton), to shorten bus rides and at the request of parents — all reasons that should enhance the overall quality of education in Plymouth-Canton.

A secondary goal of the redistricting effort — to continue the emphasis on neighborhood elementary schools where as many students as possible are within walking distance — also appears to have been met by the plan. That's no small trick in a still growing district the size of Plymouth-Canton. In fact, district officials maintain that every child who walked to his or her school this year, will be able to do so next year as well. Bentley school, for example, with a projected 2001-2002 enrollment of 576 students, has a walking population (kids who live less than a mile from school) of 437. At Smith, more than 200 of the 421 projected enrollment will be able to walk to school.

The public will have its say on how well the Housing and Facilities Committee did its job over the next few weeks. Here too, the Observer believes Plymouth-Canton officials have done their homework. In addition to posting the information in individual schools, on cable and the district Web site, school officials will host two community forums — March 10 and 15 — before the school board votes on the plan March 27. Whatever complaints parents have about the proposal, and there are bound to be some, there will be an opportunity to voice them. School officials assure us they will take additional parent input into consideration before adopting the recommendation.

We note that wasn't necessarily the case in previous boundary revisions, particularly when Bentley and Tonda opened several years ago. For whatever reason, many parents felt disenfranchised by poor communication and implementation in that effort.

Changing school boundaries is a "game of dominoes," Verna Anible, district executive director of educational services, said Tuesday. Thanks to the work done by the Housing and Facilities Committee, those pieces should still be standing at month's end.

S&P reports should be used well by educators

Local school officials are about to get a new and powerful tool to help them determine relative strengths and weaknesses in the operation of their districts.

Standard & Poor's, the well-respected Wall Street firm with a rich history of providing independent, unbiased analytical services, will unveil the first of five annual reports on Michigan's more than 500 public school districts.

The five-year, $10 million study will tie academic results to school finances and other factors that impact a district. The program was first announced in Gov. John Engler's State of the State address last year and is being financed by the state.

We welcome this new program, and urge local school officials to embrace it as well. If nothing else, the wealth of data generated by the reports should help local school boards and business managers track how school dollars are being spent, and how specific programs are faring in relation to the level of investment.

A Michigan advisory group representing the major education associations, members of the state education department, and union leadership was established to head-off criticism that S&P's School Evaluation Services (SES) was another attempt by the governor to criticize public education while pushing for vouchers and more charter schools. William Cox, managing director of Standard & Poor's, called such criticism "nonsense."

Nor is the study intended to rank school districts or be used to compare specific programs, Cox added.

"This is not another MEAP test, and to treat it as such would be a disservice to the program and the schools," Cox said last week. "And if the governor or anyone else tries to use it as such, we will be writing letters to the editor opposing the practice."

All of the data will be available on S&P's Web site, and school officials will be offered the chance to write a response to the study. Web links to each district's Web site also will be provided.

Despite the potential for controversy, Cox said he believes the vast majority of districts will be pleased with the results of the study. His biggest criticism was reserved for the state itself, for doing a less than stellar job of gathering and maintaining accurate school data.

Our communities are blessed with quality public schools, but all can stand improvement in some areas. Hopefully, local officials will accept the S&P reports and use them to map future strategy in providing the best possible education for all students.

Enough already

I guess the gist of your front page article re: Jerry Vorva's recall petition is "...if I don't like a City Commissioner, I'll exercise my rights and do a recall petition."

Whoopee! Some cities have their Jerry Springers, we have Jerry Vorva. When is enough enough? Move on.

Equal treatment?

Our congratulations and appreciation to Marcy Staley, et al for their letter supporting construction of the new high school and chastising the Canton Township board for holding up its construction.

We also would like to point out to those homeowners who are privileged to be adjacent to the high school complex that homeowners throughout the township have been forced to make concessions to allow progress because of our burgeoning population for years.

We live behind a shopping center from which business owners blast music into the early morning hours during the summer on their outdoor patio. Most recently, human waste was found floating in the creek behind our homes that was misrouted from a new restaurant which opened there. The township board didn't hold up water and sewer hookups for our benefit here when homeowners in our sub expressed concern about a strip mall going in back to back with our homes.

Folks who live in the subdivisions divided by Sheldon Center Road must put up with more and faster traffic through their neighborhood. The construction of the Morton Taylor thoroughfare cut through a woods and put the road right at the side of homes. The township board cited progress and heavy traffic caused by increased population that necessitated the disruption of these neighborhoods.

How about the homes which enjoyed quiet space behind Target — or better yet, the new Super K and Holiday Market on Lilley Road? Homeowners knew that property was designated commercial when they purchased their homes. The township didn't hold up construction because of their concerns.

What about the traffic congestion that must be caused by Discovery Middle School on Hanford Road? Did anyone care that that may disrupt the homes along Hanford? We doubt it.

Folks along Hannan Road are concerned that a new daycare being constructed in their single residence neighborhood will cause traffic congestion for all. The planning commission found in favor of the day care there.

This all comes down to say what Marcy Staley and her crew of school volunteers want us all to hear. Our schools are a point of pride for the entire township. Yes, the construction of the practice field behind the houses in the North Pointe subdivisions will make life a little more difficult for those living there. Unfortunately, progress and a skyrocketing population is at fault, not the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education or the students in our community.

Let's stop blaming each other and get on with it. We have all made sacrifices to live in Canton. We have all benefited from the sacrifice. You give a little and then you get a little. The board of education has made what we consider generous sacrifices in enhancing the berm, lowering the stands and lights and adding landscaping. We only wish we could get such generous community cooperation from our neighbors at the strip mall behind our sub.

Canton Township Board — get on board. This is a good thing.

And might we say a huge thank-you to Marcy Staley and all the other parents who give so generously of their time and energy to help the professional educators produce one of the best school systems in the state.

Critics are wrong

Once again the ability to carry a concealed weapon has come under attack. I have one question for anybody that opposes the lawful carry of a concealed weapon. Have you researched states that do allow it? Paranoia spawns from ignorance. The following are quotes from prior opponents of Right to Carry laws.

"I lobbied against the law in 1993 and 1995 because I thought it would lead to wholesale armed conflict. That hasn't happened. All the horror stories I thought would come to pass didn't happen. No bogeyman. I think it's worked out well, and that says good things about citizens who have permits. I'm a convert." — Glenn White, president of the Dallas Police Association, Dallas Morning News, 12/23/97.

"Some of the public safety concerns which we imagined or anticipated a couple of years ago, to our pleasant surprise, have been unfounded or mitigated." — Fairfax County VA Police Major Bill Brown, The Alexandria Journal, 7/9/97.

Michigan's new CCW law is the most restrictive of CCW laws. To make it illegal to carry a concealed weapon into a restaurant just because it has a liquor license is the equivalent of forbidding a person with a driver's license to go into the same restaurant. That assumes the individual will consume alcohol and drive their car.

If they do they're breaking the law, if they don't they're not. Simple isn't it? Food for thought: Man walks into a factory carrying an AK-47 and starts shooting. Man with CCW pulls out gun and shoots man with rifle. Lives saved.

Won't happen here though, will it?

Investigation needed

Thank you for the editorial in the Feb. 15 Observer regarding the "Fatal Chase."

My good friend and neighbor, who retired as a detective after serving 30 years in law enforcement, always referred to Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro as "that security guard." The message was clear. My friend, the detective, didn't think Mr. Santomauro was qualified to lead Canton's finest.

Mr. Harry Truman told us a long time ago where the buck stops, in this case, Mr. Santomauro.

With two in cuffs that was no justification for a high speed chase down Cherry Hill for the other two. It is inconceivable that Canton Police Department policy would dictate a high-speed chase on a congested two-lane road, Cherry Hill, for roofing shingles. Yet, Mr. Santomauro insists the Canton officers "followed department policy."

I would hope the good people of Canton would join me in calling for a thorough investigation of this tragedy. There are other alternatives/options to capturing fleeing thieves.

Piece of life missing

I recently read an article written in my Home Town Newspaper about a local woman who lost an antique holiday brooch, and my heart goes out to her.

It seems that my story is very similar to hers, and that's why I share her grief. Back on Jan. 5, I went shopping with my daughter at Laurel Park Mall to exchange a few Christmas gifts and that's when it happened — the day that has changed my life.

It was a very cold January day when we arrived at the mall, the parking lot was full, so we had to park very far from the door. And that's the last time I saw it. I zipped up my coat and put on my gloves, and made the mad dash for the door to the mall. When we reached the mall and went inside I unzipped my coat and took off my gloves, and that's when I lost something that simply can't be replaced.

You see, when I took off my gloves my diamond wedding band must have come off with them. My late husband gave the ring to me back in 1939, and it is the one thing that helps me cherish his memory. I didn't notice that the ring was missing until I went to put it on for church the next day. My daughter and I went back to the mall to retrace our steps and to check with the mall's lost and found.

Despite our efforts we came up empty handed. I have placed an ad in all the local lost and founds offering a reward, but no one has come forward. I know that someone at the mall that day has found this piece of my life. The ring may have some value to the person who has found it but it can't compare to the value that it has for me.

Make a difference

On Feb. 10, 2001, my dear friends lost their son to a high speed police chase. It could have been anyone — you, me, your neighbor, friend or relative, even your child. It was not 3 a.m. when traffic is low, but rather early on a busy weekend evening. The officers were chasing the truck that plowed into my friend's little boy because the driver had been stealing.

An 8-year-old boy lost his life over stolen goods.

His family will never see him graduate, play sports or have a family. If this makes you angry, sad or maybe hold your children a little closer, then please take the time to e-mail, write or phone your elected officials.

I understand the officers felt they were doing their job. I always support them and their efforts. However, I also believe high speed chases should only be used under extreme circumstances.

Does it make sense that a little boy dies and the general public was put at risk over a crime of theft?

A few moments of your time is all it takes. Make a phone call, send a letter or an e-mail. The next time it could be your child.

This education reform deal is just begging to be made Tongues — especially Democratic ones — are wagging about how newly elected President George W. Bush has hit the ground running in the first few weeks in office.

Consistent with his campaign, he made education reform a big theme, delivering an extensive message to the Congress, holding bipartisan meetings with senators and representatives, visiting classrooms and so forth.

For what it's worth, here are a few observations from a Michigan perspective on the President's plans.

Candidate Bush's views on education didn't play especially well last November. Bush lost Michigan to Al Gore by a substantial margin, seven out of eight Democratic candidates for statewide education posts won, and the voucher proposal to divert public money to private and parochial schools was defeated overwhelmingly. It remains to be seen whether President Bush's views on education will experience the same fate as candidate Bush's.

Bush proposes annual testing of student performance in reading and math, which seems perfectly sensible to me on the grounds that you cannot improve what you do not measure. We're already doing that in Michigan through the MEAP test, together with science, writing and social studies.

But he wants the tests to be designed by each individual state, a bow no doubt to advocates of "local control" over education. But if the purpose of reforming education is to improve education for everybody, letting Mississippi (for example) design its own tests to evaluate its own miserable school system seems a nifty way to make sure Mississippi kids remain at the bottom of the national education heap.

Bush is no doubt sincere when he says that schools must be held accountable: "Parents and children who have only bad options must eventually get good options if we're to succeed all across the country." From this, he argues that kids who attend failing schools ought to receive vouchers tenable at good schools.

But Bush seems to assume the only failing schools are public ones and the only vouchers to be handed out are those to get kids into private and parochial schools. If we're going to test results and give out vouchers to improve schools in America, why shouldn't we make the same demands on private and parochial schools?

Now, advocates of private schools can point out — rightly — that the Constitution prohibits governmental interference in private schools. But if we're going to be spending tax dollars on vouchers tenable at private and parochial schools in order to improve education in America, we'd better figure out a way to make sure "good" private schools are in actual fact better than the "failing" publics.

As a practical matter, most public schools in Michigan are pretty good and getting better. The bad ones are mostly concentrated in inner city districts. Are vouchers the best remedy for these? Maybe, maybe not.

As to inner city schools, the old adage that "schools don't count, families do" seems fundamental. A kid from a solid, two-parent family is likely to learn in almost any school, while a child from a fatherless family with a history of drug abuse isn't going to make it, even at Cranbrook. Maybe education reform in inner cities has as much to do with fixing family structure, drug abuse and poverty as it does with poor teachers

Bush seems to assume the only failing schools are public ones and the only vouchers to be handed out are those to get kids into private and parochial schools.

What concerns me about the Bush proposals on education reform is that they mask the main issue: money, taxpayer money. Private and parochial schools want it. Politicians want them to have it but without having to bear the same standards of accountability they apply to public schools.

Maybe there's a deal out there, just begging to be made. Require the same tests for all kids going to any school — public, private, parochial, charter — throughout the entire country. Based on test results, designate "failing schools" — public, private, parochial, charter. Give out vouchers tenable only at non-failing schools.

And as to inner city schools that otherwise are likely to wind up as dumping grounds for kids from dysfunctional families, co-locate in the same buildings all the range of social and health services the society can bring to bear.

Pursuing cops doing their job

I am writing in response to the opinion titled "Police need to accept responsibility in chases" printed in the Thursday, Feb. 15, edition. I do so with much sadness over the outcome of the incident that led to this article.

I in no way can relate to the grief the parents and family of Travis Miles are experiencing. I have though, in more than 21 years of law enforcement experience, seen grief of this magnitude over and over again. I feel great sadness for the families of each and wish that I could have done something to prevent the action that caused their grief.

That is why I read with so much emotional disdain the article that alluded to the action of law enforcement officers as "thoughtless." It was not thoughtless when the officer was dispatched to the scene to protect someone's property as they are duly sworn to do.

It was not thoughtless when the officer pursued the fleeing suspects after they sped away, striking him.

It was not thoughtless when the officer followed procedures and called in his speed and road conditions. It was not thoughtless when the officers rendered aid to all of the injured in the aftermath of the crash.

It was not thoughtless when the officers went home and hugged their children, felt numb and had sleepless nights.

The police accept responsibility when no one else will time and time again because that is their job. We go where no one else will go, do what no one else will do and do so willingly, without hesitation.

The person who needs to accept responsibility in this case will not as proven by his not guilty plea. Someone should answer, yes, and he will do so within the realms of the criminal justice system.

In the meantime, debate the issues of chases, force legislative guidelines, but don't wrongly place the blame on the police and force us to accept responsibility for someone else's actions.

Contrary to the glorification of chases on so-called "real life" cop shows, pursuits are stressful for the officers. The shakes don't stop sometimes for hours afterward.

We don't like to engage in vehicle pursuits, but we do so because it is our duty to apprehend. We train and train and train. Still, the number one killer of police officers in the United States in 2000 was traffic accidents.

We don't take chases lightly; we don't do so recklessly as our lives are in danger and in many cases more so than anyone else's.

If the legislature acted tomorrow and told us not to chase, we would not chase. We are servants of the people and we are the people. We will act as we are lawfully instructed to act.

The police accept responsibility when no one else will time and time again.

Until that happens, however, we are going to continue to do our sworn duty using sound discretion.

To suggest that the police were wrong in this incident and were thoughtless without first examining all of the evidence is a thoughtless act in and of itself. I cannot bring Travis back. I cannot ensure that no one in my city will not be the victim of someone else's reckless and criminal behavior.

I can continue, though, to keep pursuing criminals, making good cases thus ensuring that the violent offenders are off of our streets. This agency as well as all of the others strives to do that with great thought, integrity and commitment.

My thoughts and prayers are with the Miles family at this time of grief. My opinion is not meant to incite further debate over this particular tragedy. It is meant, however, to defend the integrity of the law enforcement professionals who perform their duties everyday with empathy and compassion for those they serve.

David L. Harvey is the chief of police in Garden City.

Don't change Open Meetings Act; ban retribution firings

Art Ellis, Michigan's outgoing superintendent of public instruction, was meticulous in his efforts to keep the State Board of Education in compliance with the Open Meetings Act as they worked last week to select his replacement.

It had become quite clear some members of the Board were uncomfortable with the prospect of having to debate the relative merits of the five finalists in open session.

Ellis convinced them not to try to circumvent the law. If they don't like it, he urged, they should work with the Legislature later to change it.

This of course is an issue with a rich history in Michigan. How the OMA should apply when various government boards go about selecting their top administrators has been the subject of much debate.

Expect it to come up again. Ellis himself — during a chat with reporters before the final session in which the Board would vote to name Thomas Watkins as Michigan's new superintendent — called the existing law "horrid."

His argument was familiar. Michigan's law requires a very open process. All who submit their names for consideration may have them made public. That keeps some candidates from applying in the first place, so government units in Michigan miss out on a lot of potential talent.

That was exactly the argument raised back in 1996 when the state last debated the issue, then providing an exemption for university president searches. Lawmakers allowed for a closed process at universities until the field was narrowed to the final five. Later, the Supreme Court ruled the OMA doesn't apply to university searches anyway.

In any case, the argument is the same whether it is for university presidents, state superintendents, superintendents of individual districts, or city or township managers in local municipalities.

State Board member Michael David Warren Jr. supported Ellis in his point, saying that allowing a closed process would have created an entirely different pool of candidates from which to pick.

It's an argument that has never held much water with me. After all, we are talking about people who are applying for very public jobs. They are the ones who would be running the day-to-day operations of our governmental units.

I'd just as soon that those who prefer to operate in secrecy stay home anyway.

Ellis explained that word often gets back to candidates' current employers that they have applied for another job. Considering that only one can be selected, it leaves a lot of unsuccessful applicants who may be in hot water with their bosses.

Ellis told of one applicant who interviewed here in Michigan only to go back to his home state of Florida where he was promptly canned by his employer for applying elsewhere.

That's the outrage, if you ask me.

Where did we ever get the idea that it is OK to fire someone for looking for a job somewhere else? They are employees, not slaves, not indentured servants.

The purpose of such retribution firings is clear — it is to threaten other employees, to send them a strong warning that they should not go looking for other employment. That's what should be outlawed.

Even free-market thinkers may be able to see the justification in such a ban. If you consider each worker as nothing more than a vendor of labor, out in the marketplace seeking the highest bid for his or her services, then such retribution firings can only be viewed as an anti-competitive practice.

We've heard quite a bit now about how, in today's information-based new economy, our workforce needs to be very flexible and highly mobile. How do you square that with the idea of letting people punish workers for going out on the job market?

Ellis countered, and rightly so, that no law we could pass here in Michigan would have an effect in Florida.

True enough. It is also true that states look to each other for examples of good legislation. It's high time somebody, somewhere labeled such retribution firings as wrong. Let Michigan be the first.

Schoolcraft's McDowell to retire

BY RICHARD PEARL
STAFF WRITER
rpearl@ec.homecomm.net

Richard W. McDowell, the longest-serving president in Schoolcraft College's history, announced Wednesday night that he will retire June 30.

McDowell, 65, said he and wife Ann will continue to live in Livonia during the summers but will find a winter home in a warmer climate.

The couple's three daughters — Novi teacher Kathy, chef Sue and marketing director Karen, all former Schoolcraft students — and the McDowells' three grandchildren reside in metro Detroit.

McDowell, who has guided the college through impressive physical and academic growth during his 20 years at its helm, officially informed the college board of trustees via a brief statement at their regular monthly meeting.

"It's a good time for me and a good time for the college," McDowell commented about his decision.

"Schoolcraft College is a good organization. The college will continue," said McDowell, who has been president since 1981.

Board chairwoman Carol M. Strom lauded McDowell and his accomplishments.

"Dr. McDowell has moved the college forward in many ways," she said in a statement. "His commitment to educational excellence, community outreach, campus development and innovative programs has made Schoolcraft a premier community college."

Trustees went into a closed session with board attorney Owen Cummings after their meeting to discuss conducting a public search for McDowell's successor.

Richard McDowell: Schoolcraft president

Under Michigan's open-meetings act, candidate interviews at tax-supported institutions must be open to the public.

Speculation is that the new president may come from within the ranks at Schoolcraft.

"There are qualified people among our staff who are interested," said Norene Thomas, director of marketing and development.

Asked by a reporter if she were one, she laughed and said, "Oh no, but thank you."

Also being mentioned is Conway A. Jeffress, vice president for instruction and student services.

Construction projects
During McDowell's tenure, the 29,000-student Livonia-based college built the $7.8-million student services building that bears his name. This spring, it will break ground for a $27-million expansion of its Waterman Campus Center.

The latter will house a new state-of-the-art information technology center as well as expand and remodel facilities for its nationally known culinary arts department.

Other Schoolcraft accomplishments during McDowell's tenure include new continuing education and children's centers and a business development center.

Under his direction, the college has earned back-to-back 10-year accreditations from the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools — the most recent just last month.

McDowell also was a prime force behind the Schoolcraft College Foundation, helping increase its endowment to $10 million. The foundation provides Schoolcraft scholarships and supports instructional initiatives.

McDowell's many honors include selection in 1988 as one of the top 50 community college presidents in the country; designation in 1996 as Livonia's First Citizen; and recipient in 1997 of distinguished alumnus awards from both the Indiana University of Pennsylvania and from Purdue University.

He is a former president of the Michigan Community College Association and of the Michigan Non-Profit Forum. He also has been president of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and of the Livonia Rotary.

Impact is felt Trustees knew of McDowell's decision soon after he reached it late last week but were still feeling its impact Wednesday.

"I'm at a loss for words," said Strom.

"You'll be a tough act to follow," said trustee Greg Stempin. The pending retirement "is good for you, but tough for the board."

Trustee Mary Breen, who first joined the board not long after McDowell became president, cut short a visit to children in California to attend the meeting.

Although the college had existed for a number of years before McDowell arrived, she said, "it was very green (in terms of) what it could do under the proper leadership."

And trustee Pat Watson praised McDowell's dedication and long hours, stating, "You sacrificed a lot."

After the meeting, McDowell acknowledged to a reporter, "The job kind of consumes you," referring to the demands of meetings and functions.

But he also said he was fortunate to have "a great board. They plan and do things together and are very supportive."

He praised the faculty and support staff: "There's a good spirit on campus, a good sense of pride," he said.

McDowell succeeded C. Nelson Grote (1971-81) as Schoolcraft president. The college's first president was Eric J. Bradner (1961-71).

McDowell came to Schoolcraft from the Community College of Allegheny County in Pittsburgh, where he was vice president for strategic planning. Prior to that, he had held leadership and academic positions at other Pennsylvania junior colleges.

A wide range of information is now available on the computer Web site for Wayne County's Head Start program — the second largest in the state.

The site, which previously offered only an explanation of Head Start, now gives program locations and telephone numbers, services offered, a calendar and information about the Michigan and national Head Start associations.

"One of the best features of the new site is its calendar," said County Executive Edward H. McNamara. "With our busy lives, it's imperative we have a way to notify everyone about what is happening in our program."

Soon the site, www.waynecounty.com/hcs/hstart, also will post scheduling changes and relevant legislative updates, according to county spokeswoman Carol Hopkins.

Head Start, with 27 programs in 18 Wayne County suburbs — including Garden City, Plymouth, Redford Township and Westland — provides health, education, nutrition and other services to physically or financially challenged 3- and 4-year-old youngsters.

Over 3,000 youngsters are enrolled in the county's program, which is second in size to Detroit's.

Detroit gains a music fest of its own

It's almost as if Mid By Midwest was a music festival waiting to happen. Just over a month ago a handful of area musicians were mulling over the idea of creating a new event - one made by musicians, for musicians. Think South By Southwest - on a much smaller scale.

With astounding haste, Mid By Midwest takes over Detroit March 9-10 at six venues - The Magic Stick, The Gold Dollar, Old Miami, Alvin's, Lager House, 1254 Michigan Ave. and Bittersweet Cafe, 3121 Woodward Ave.

What: Mid By Midwest Music Fest
When: 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. Friday-Saturday, March 9-10
Where: Detroit clubs including Gold Dollar, 3129 Cass Ave.; Magic Stick, 4120 Woodward Ave.; Alvin's, 5756 Cass Ave.; Old Miami, 3830 Cass Ave.; Lager House, 1254 Michigan Ave. and Bittersweet Cafe, 3121 Woodward Ave.
Why: To benefit HAVEN - Help Against Violent Encounters Now
Cost: A $10 wristband covers all shows March 9 and 10. A single show costs $6. Both may be purchased in advance during business hours at Gold Dollar, or any participating venue. Call (313) 833-6873.

Two of the founders, J Frezzatto (The Wildbunch and The Octopus) and Richard S. Hansen, owner of Royal Oak-based production company Living Endustries told me about their pet project.

Fulfilling a need

"If there's a need for something, everything comes together," said Hansen. Hopefully it will be a success.

Mid By Midwest organizers turned down support by Detroit-area weekly newspapers, preferring to make it happen on their own. "This thing pretty much put itself together," said Frezzatto, who will perform in the festival with both of his bands. "We had the line up in a matter of a few days."

The choice of venues was just as easy - involving the haunts most frequented by these musicians. "It just seemed natural to use the Woodward-Cass area," said Frezzatto. "The whole idea came up at the (Magic) Stick one night." Music schedules were rearranged and Neil Yee, owner of the Gold Dollar signed on to help coordinate.

Yee hopes the event will expand next year, including record label involvement and becoming more of a showcase for the music. "There's a lot of good stuff people don't know about," he said, noting bands like Bogue and Climax Divine.

Local spotlight

What began as a grassroots effort has drawn considerable attention - particularly since it will rival the Hamtramck Blowout, an annual event to benefit the Detroit Music Awards set for the same weekend. Willy Wilson, radio host at Detroit's WDET and local music supporter, said both events will offer something the music scene could always use - exposure.

"Events like these two make it easier for the public to go out and see bands and judge for themselves what they like or who they like. The whole basic idea is to get the bands in front of an audience so they can build a fol-

Theater troupe reflects the magic of 'Cinderella'

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

The story of Cinderella and the coach that turns into a pumpkin at midnight is a lot like the theater troupe at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church in Livonia. Both share a world of make believe, and bring a touch of magic into the lives of ordinary people.

The only difference is that the theater troupe has been doing it for nearly 30 years. But even after all this time,

What: Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church presents Cinderella
When: 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, March 2-3, and 4 p.m. Sunday, March 4
Where: At the church on the corner of West Chicago and Hubbard, Livonia Tickets: $6, $3 students through grade 12. Call (734) 422-0494. The theater is handicap accessible director Martha Kuykendall is hoping the glass slipper slides on Cinderella's foot without a hitch on opening night, Friday, March 2.

"We started out groping and all of us learned," said Kuykendall, who's directed all of the church's shows since 1971 including The Music Man, Anything Goes and Fiddler on the Roof. "We have a lot of talent musically because most of us are also in choir. We always do musicals because musicals are more fun. Children will sit still when they couldn't for a straight play."

The fairy tale wasn't exactly Kuykendall's first choice for a show. The theater troupe ran out of repertoire, but not talent. Kuykendall, who taught vocal music for 30 years in Livonia Public Schools, has worked with groups at Schoolcraft College and the Livonia-Rosedale Theatre Guild, but always returns to direct the troupe of actors at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church.

Fun

"We do it because we love it and it's fun," said Kuykendall. "But it is hard to find something we haven't done. Part of the fun is working with what you have. The stage is small but we have many of the same people and it's lowing."

For singer Jasper Unfriendly of Detroit punk rock trio The Unfriendly's, this also means competition. "We're definitely gonna make it one of our more memorable shows because so many other great bands will be playing in Hamtramck and downtown at the exact same time that we'll be onstage."

More than music

Ticket sales for the festival will benefit HAVEN, a Pontiac-based non-profit organization dedicated to eliminating domestic violence, child abuse and sexual abuse through prevention and counseling. Satellite offices exist in Rochester, Farmington Hills and Southfield. "We are always excited when people in the community think enough of our organization to give, and we are appreciative of all efforts," said Nicole Johnson, HAVEN spokesperson. "It's very important the funds are used for counseling and to help people gain control."

HAVEN was chosen as beneficiary because of its service to the community and honorable reputation. "They just had a shelter burn down," added Frezzatto.

The organization is recovering from the loss of one of its Pontiac shelters, which experienced a fire in November 1999. Residents were moved to another donated location while the shelter is being renovated into counseling center.

"We're hoping to use some of the funds for building a bigger (facility)," said Johnson.

Organizers hope to raise approximately $10,000. Fifty percent of the profits will go to HAVEN. The other half will go to the performers.

"It's just the simple fact that the bands are making it happen," said Frezzatto. "They should at least have the option of getting paid. It's a job like anything else."

Donating their share

The performers have the option of donating their share back to HAVEN, and Frezzatto said many have already agreed to do so. One of the first musicians to do so was Tim Vulgar, singer and guitarist of the Clone Defects. "With a big festival like that, it's good to give it to the charity," he said.

The musicians scheduled to perform range from some of the areas best in rock, pop, punk, hip hop and electronic music. "So far people seem really responsive," said Hansen.

Fans of alt-country will want to check out Alvin's on Saturday night, while punk rockers might congregate at the Old Miami on Friday night. The Lager House and Bittersweet Cafe will draw the electronic set with Women on Wax and sets by DJ's like Derek Plaslaiko and Planet E's Tony Olliviera.

'Family' reunion

The festival has spurred several reunions. The Mood Elevator, a pop trio that went on hiatus last year, will return in altered form. Singer Chris Plum will be joined by Brendan Benson, Atomic Numbers' guitarist Zach Shipps and (bassist) Jeff Hupp who will play drums. A fan and friend of The Mood Elevator and Benson, Shipps said: "We're just doing a favor for a band we like."

Hansen said the reunion will be part of one of the festival's strongest bills. Also returning to the stage are a reunited Rocket 455 and The Junk Monkeys. Craig "Bones" Maki (formerly of Big Barn Combo) will debut his new project.

"The downtown scene is a little bit like a family," said Hansen. "This is sort of a celebration of that."

really fun to see a married couple play a married couple."

And that's exactly what Marilyn and John Hirtzel do. The Livonia couple play the Queen and King. Like Kuykendall, the Hirtzels got hooked on the church troupe when they took roles in the first musical the Sound of Music. After all these years, they're still in love with acting and each other.

"It's one big happy family that do these in the church," said Marilyn who never acted until the church production of Sound of Music. "I like my role. She's a typical mother worrying about her son, who at 21, isn't married yet. He falls in love with this beautiful creature that has never been seen before and may never again."

The magic of the fairy tale makes Cinderella one of John's favorites. Even more so is the fact he's singing for the first time, and he's not doing it alone. The Hirtzels' song, as well as the rest of the show, is done with accompaniment by Jack Pierson, director of the jazz band at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. Like the Hirtzels, acting is a family affair for Pierson. His wife Cindy plays one of Cinderella's stepsisters.

"This is the first time in 30 years my wife and I get to sing a song together, a love song," said John Hirtzel, who also worked on set construction. "I originally joined about two weeks after Marilyn got started because she said, if you don't you're not going to see me for the next six weeks."

"But I really enjoy it. I do mostly character parts. The King is very important but loves his son. When Marilyn says 'I love you,' the King replies, of course you do. I'm the King."

Playing the King is quite a departure from John's first role as the mean-looking Nazi soldier in the Sound of Music. Kathy Benton on the other hand is tackling her first evil role as Cinderella's step mother. Benton, in real life, is the mother-in-law of Rebecca Benton who plays Cinderella.

"It's a risk going outside yourself but it's a good character role," said Kathy Benton who hadn't acted since she was a charter member of the thespian society at her high school in Farmington, Mo. "She's very demanding of Cinderella. She's a status seeker who would love for one of her daughters to marry the prince. It's good family fun."

"The hardest part is I'm demanding of Cinderella and I have this tendency to say thank-you when she brings me a foot stool. It's difficult becoming the character."

It may not be much of a challenge to become their characters when actors don their costumes and stand in front of the set painted by Caroline Dunphy, a Northville artist who was assisted by Ellen Niemisto of Livonia.

"The horses and coach are like magic they look so real," said Benton.

Bringing a story to life

"It's wonderful what she can do," added Kuykendall.

And it's amazing how a dedicated group of theater lovers can bring a fairy tale to life after only six weeks of rehearsals.

"Our congregation is very supportive of us; we wouldn't be able to do it otherwise," said Kuykendall. "We hold auditions but all are automatically included in the show in some way. It's been a wonderful way of recruiting for our church too. We've had people become members of the congregation."

"As far as Cinderella, it's a light show, not a long show. It's a fairy tale. It's just like opening your storybook and reading Cinderella. And like all fairy tales, they live happily ever after."

'The Reluctant Dragon' visits Livonia, March 7-9

September Productions presents "The Reluctant Dragon," 10 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Wednesday-Friday, March 7-9, at the Livonia Civic Center Auditorium on Five Mile Road at Farmington Road, next to Livonia City Hall. Tickets $5, or $4 for groups of 20 or more. Call (248) 615-0414 for information, and reservations.

Some dragons are fire breathing and dangerous, but others are gentle, and don't like to fight.

Teaching children that things aren't always what they seem is one of Theresa Weiss' missions.

Take The Reluctant Dragon, for instance, the title and main character of a children's show playing Wednesday-Friday, March 7-9, at the Livonia Civic Center Library Auditorium.

"The dragon is a peaceful, poetry, painting sort," said Weiss. "He doesn't want to fight. But unfortunately, he's spotted by some shepherds in a village near his cave."

St. George the dragon slayer is supposed to get rid of the dragon, but he'd rather retire and read an adventure story.

Further complicating the plot is Emily, a girl who knows that not all dragons are bad, and befriends the dragon.

Take a closer look

"I always like stories where people aren't what they seem," said Weiss, who wrote and directs The Reluctant Dragon, an original musical based on Kenneth Grahame's classic story about a dragon who refused to fight. Grahame also wrote The Wind and the Willows.

"I want people to take a closer look. This is about conflict resolution. How can we solve this problem without violence or someone getting hurt?"

Musical: September Productions will present "The Reluctant Dragon," March 7-9 in Livonia. Family members of all ages have been enjoying the show for the past eight years. Pictured here from a previous production, are Kirk Hanley of Farmington as the Dragon, and Kirk Jones, as St. George.

Weiss was working as an actress when she began toying with the idea of September Productions, which she founded nine years ago.

"I love children's literature, and have a degree in elementary education and music education from Eastern Michigan University," said Weiss. "I just combined my talents."

Her original adaptations of classic children's stories "that are just wonderful," include The Velveteen Rabbit, The Secret Garden, and Tom Sawyer.

September Productions is a touring company that performs at schools, libraries and theaters throughout Michigan. Shows are cast with professional adult actors.

Entertaining

"I try to have a Disney feel to the shows so that the whole family will be entertained," said Weiss. "This production is not just for the preschool set. Colorful costumes, sets and toe-tapping music make this a wonderful experience for all."

The production runs approximately 50 minutes, and features the talents of Stacey Griffin of Garden City, as the dragon, and Patrick O'Reilly of Farmington as St. George.

Everclear takes sides

STEPHANIE A. CASOLA

Craig Montoya isn't so sure about his whereabouts. When asked where he was calling from the bassist jubilantly declared: "Marquette, Michigan!" But maybe that's what touring does to a guy.

You see it was Everclear's first headlining tour in about two years. And Marquette isn't an easy name to remember when you're from Washington.

"We've been in the studio for a long time," he said with a sigh. The result came in the form of two contrasting full-length releases in 2000 — the pop-oriented Songs From An American Movie Vol. One: Learning How To Smile and the brash Songs From An American Movie Vol. Two: Good Time For A Bad Attitude.

It was quite an unconventional decision to release these records just four months apart, rather than stagger the albums with at least one year of touring in between them. But the project was an unusual one from the very start.

Two sides

"Volume One was originally going to be Art's solo record," explained Montoya. "He started it. We went on a couple of tours. He had throat surgery. When he went back to it after a four-month break...he called Greg and I up and asked us to listen to a couple tracks."

The project wasn't taking shape as singer and songwriter Art Alexakis intended and soon Montoya and drummer Greg Eklund were working on new songs for the record — two released as the singles Wonderful and AM Radio.

All of a sudden, it became the unlikely follow-up to Everclear's So Much For The Afterglow. Complete with a cover of Van Morrison's Brown Eyed Girl and an ode to Otis Redding, the record showed a sort of music nostalgia and penchant for pop culture, right down to its American Gothic-inspired cover art.

"Volume One used more vocals to where we would normally put more guitars. It seemed to work. We always knew we were going to do Volume Two, a full-on rock and roll record."

Volume Two boasts the radio single When It All Goes Wrong Again. If asked to choose, Montoya admits Vol. Two better reflects the rock he was raised on. "We pumped out the whole thing pretty fast," he said. "We knew exactly what we wanted. We played loud. We played angry. That's what we're about."

He admits though that the decision to release what seemed to the public to be two albums at once was a bit confusing. "People didn't know what to think."

"My brother and my father both played guitar," said Montoya, who grew up in Spokane, Wash. "There were always guitars hanging around the house."

Montoya grabbed his first guitar at age 15 and held on tight. "In the 80s, everyone wanted to be Eddie VanHalen," he explained. "It was the only thing I ever really felt passionate about when I was a kid. When things got tough, I just listened to music. When I was upset about something, I would crank the music."

While Montoya's small town existence didn't offer as much exposure to popular television and radio, he said he grew up listening to rockabilly, his father's Oldies station and learning about muscle cars. His quintessential "American movie" might fall in line with American Graffiti. "I didn't watch TV as a kid," he said. "I didn't watch The Brady Bunch."

Live

Scaling down their 1 hour 20 minute headline set to 50 minutes for the Matchbox Twenty tour, Montoya said: "We're gonna put on the best show we can." The difference between headlining and touring with another radio heavyweight is simply the size of the venue. Everclear will go from performing in clubs and theaters catering to about 3,000 screaming fans to giant arenas — like The Palace of Auburn Hills.

"It will be kind of odd, we've only been on two other supporting tours, when we first started." Those tours included Detroit's Sponge and Filter and came around the time the band released its major label debut, the acclaimed Sparkle and Fade.

"The only hard thing about touring is being away from your family," he said. "I just got divorced last year. I know its effects. That's the only part."

"Besides that touring is a blast. You get a very little sample of different places."

Check out Everclear opening for Matchbox Twenty, along with Lifehouse, 7:30 p.m. Saturday, March 3, The Palace of Auburn Hills, 1 Championship Drive, Auburn Hills. Tickets cost $24.50-$34.50. Call (248) 645-6666.

CD REVIEW

Opening Time

The Push Stars
Co-op Pop Records

The Boston trio that lent Everything Shines to the smash film There's Something About Mary returns with a follow-up to After The Party. Proving that perhaps the party has just begun, The Push Stars offer Opening Time, 13 contagiously catchy and unmistakably heart-felt tunes rooted in melodic guitar riffs and story-like lyrics.

Singer-songwriter Chris Trapper, drummer Ryan Macmillan and bassist/keyboardist Dan McLoughlin performed recently at Ferndale's Woodward Avenue Brewery to college co-eds, curious music journalists and fans. Since the band may leave Capitol Records, Opening Time was released independently. The record takes over where After The Party left off. Here, we hear a solid trio conveying the heartache of past relationships, a search for meaning and a way of looking at life with your eyes wide-open in wonderment.

From the intriguing energy of Waiting, Watching, Wondering to the intimacy of Trapper's voice on Last Night's Dream, we hear The Push Stars yielding and story-telling songs Who We Are and Over You that earn the band its growing following.

Macmillan admits it's less polished, but true to their sound. And he's right. There are no surprises here, aside from maybe the bonus track.

The Push Stars' music possesses a genuine quality that deserves to be heard by so many more. Opening Time seems appropriately titled. Look them up at www.pushstars.com

Attention: Benefit brings back The Ghoul

BY SHARON DARGAY

Jim Olenski doesn't sell many books at his Clawson video store.

But he and business partner, Gary Reichel, couldn't pass up a chance to invite Cleveland late-night horror movie host, Ron "The Ghoul" Sweed, to autograph his pictorial memoir, The Ghoul Scrapbook, for fans on Saturday at their shop.

"The Ghoul was a cult TV host and we're a cult video store. It just seemed like a natural thing to do," explained Olenski, who owns Thomas Video on Main, south of Fourteen Mile Road. "This was a natural place for him to come. We'll have his books here."

Olenski and Reichel also perform with the rock band, Cinecyde, which will join four other bands in a concert Saturday, honoring the mop-haired, bearded host of nighttime lunacy and kitsch horror flicks.

Through the book signing and performance, event promoters and Ghoul fans hope to stir up interest in bringing the wacky television show back to the Detroit air waves after a 20-year absence. Local stations broadcast the syndicated show in the 1970s. The Ghoul continued beaming his antics into Cleveland homes during the early 1980s and resurfaced in that market a few years ago.

"For a lot of people in the area, The Ghoul was their first hint at subversive culture," said Tom Potter of Bantam Rooster, one of the bands playing at The Ghoul's Attention Benefit Disorder concert. "In the Detroit rock scene, there are a lot of people who really like The Ghoul."

Long before David Letterman pioneered his signature shtick, stupid pet tricks, or swam in a giant bowl of cereal and Velcro'd himself to the wall, The Ghoul was blowing up foam frogs, kielbasa, and Cheese Whiz, breaking racked Easter eggs with a cue stick, bowling with jack-o'-lanterns, slipping between giant hamburger bun props and spoofing network shows with skits such as Ghoullumbo and the Galloping Ghoulnet.

His annual "Evening in Parma," a wacky twist on celebrity-sponsored ocean cruises, treated a lucky fan to a whirlwind tour through Parma, Ohio. A rusted-out station wagon chauffeured the winner and the Ghoul from white sock factory to polka band hot spot to a kielbasa and beer dinner.

The Ghoul Scrapbook recounts dozens of sketches, signature phrases and both adoring and disgruntled fans. In a letter to one offended viewer, station management described The Ghoul's humor as "theater of the absurd."

The off-the-wall comedy appeals to Matthew Hatch, bass player with The Witches.

"I'm confident in saying that all of the members of the participating bands are big fans of The Ghoul, or else they wouldn't do it," he noted.

"The main objective is to harness the excitement of Ghoul fans within the area to bring back this hometown cult icon. The Ghoul will be there to emcee the show."

"He's known for blowing things up, literally," Hatch explained. "It will be a great show."

Olenski volunteered his store for the book signing after Cinecyde committed to the concert.

"The original idea was the concert. But we figured, he'll be here, why not let him do the whole thing? This is a more appropriate venue if fans want to say 'hi' to The Ghoul," Olenski said.

"It won't be as noisy."

Pretty Bella Ciao dishes up simply delicious fare

BY RENEE SMOGLUND
STAFF WRITER

Just when you think you've been to the most romantic restaurant in town, along comes Bella Ciao.

This intimate Ann Arbor restaurant, with the ivory satin-draped ceiling and turn-of-the-century charm, is as pretty as its food is delicious. A plate of Grilled pancetta-wrapped shrimp with lemon-sautéed spinach and soft polenta tastes so good served on a table topped with white linen and soft lighting.

Bella Ciao, says owner Jim MacDonald, is for people who know good food and good wine. The wine list is extensive, with over 70 choices from Italian reds. And then there's the American reds and the Italian and American whites — simply hundreds of varieties stocked in the restaurant's cellars.

Rustic Italian

The Scotland-born MacDonald, who spent several years cooking in Italy and France, describes Bella Ciao's menu as predominantly rustic Italian, simple fare carefully prepared and perfectly presented.

"Cooks on the whole like things very simple, things that tell the truth. We don't overwork things here."

Of course, what comes out a restaurant's kitchen is only as good as what goes in. MacDonald won't purchase what's not in season, so diners won't find tomatoes in their salad unless the fruit has been ripened by a Michigan sun. Soon, asparagus will make its yearly debut on the menu.

At 23, Chef Jason Mase may be young to command a kitchen like Bella Ciao's, but he's passionate and imaginative — and a graduate of the prestigious Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, N.Y. He says inspiration for a new recipe may strike at any time.

"I'll be sitting somewhere, like in a bar, and I'll say, 'Oh no, I need paper and pen. I have to write this down.'"

Bella Ciao's menu is all about inspiration. There's boned chicken stuffed with spinach and caramelized onions, roast pheasant with soft polenta and porcini mushroom sauce, a double pork chop with brandy and apples, and the popular Burrata, a Genovese fisherman's stew of shrimp, scallops, mussels, clams and fish.

For me, the vegetable tart with raisins and pine nuts sound especially intriguing, as did the roast beet salad with mixed greens.

Appetizers

Are appetizers are always part of your dining experience? If so, Bella Ciao offers several: marinated mushrooms; gnocchi baked in four cheeses; a thick, center cut of smoked salmon drizzled with olive oil; and mussels steamed in white wine, tomatoes and garlic.

If you've never tried rabbit, Mase suggests you try the Maple glazed rabbit with sweet potato puree, pearl onions and toasted pine nuts. No, it doesn't taste like chicken. "It has a real delicate flavor," he said.

Mase changes seven or eight menu items a month. However, two dishes never go off the menu: Penne tossed with a house-made spicy sausage, hot peppers, pungent greens and Romano cheese and the pancetta-wrapped shrimp. (While I liked the penne and sausage, I loved the shrimp. I think it was the reduced balsamic vinegar-wine sauce that won my heart.)

"A lot of people wouldn't be happy if we took them off the menu," said Mase.

Before she became manager, Suzanne Northway always dined with her husband at Bella Ciao's on their anniversary. "This was our special event place," she said. "It was small, intimate and the food was always great, consistently excellent."

Dining at Bella Ciao is not inexpensive. The average dinner tab per person is $40, said Northway. But...like a beautiful woman, there's not a Bella Ciao on every street corner.

Meet the host: The Antiques Festival will begin with a special appearance and lecture by HGTV celebrity Joe Ruggiero Wednesday, March 7. Below is a representative of the many types of sports memorabilia shown at the festival.

ANTIQUES FESTIVAL

You can learn valuable lessons from the experts

BY MARY KLEMIC

Debra DiCicco of Detroit owned etchings from 1870 and 1898 that had been her grandmother's. The art pieces were in ornate, handcarved frames. DiCicco took them to be appraised at The Community House Antiques Festival last year, where she was told the frames were valuable but the art should be more extensively researched.

"I always liked them real well," DiCicco said. "I'm definitely going to keep the frames."

Fred O'Donnell of Birmingham brought in an item he found when he was a member of a special forces unit in World War II.

"I had a cigarette case that belonged to Adolf Hitler," O'Donnell said. "I picked it up (at Hitler's retreat) in Berchtesgaden."

O'Donnell saw the case on Hitler's desk as the unit was securing the retreat. He was told the value of the piece was nearly impossible to determine. It was seen more as something for a museum than something an individual would buy.

You may have art works, empty frames, a souvenir or a whatchamacallit that you have wondered about. Whether a piece is the object of your affection, or affects your objection, you can have it appraised at The Community House Antiques Festival next week.

For the second consecutive year, an appraisal clinic will be part of the downtown Birmingham festival. Representatives of the Frank H. Boos Gallery of Bloomfield Hills and DuMouchelle Art Galleries of Detroit will again be appraising family heirlooms, garage sale finds, collectibles and other pieces.

The Community House Antiques Festival is now in its 11th year. It will begin with a special appearance and lecture by HGTV celebrity Joe Ruggiero Wednesday, March 7. The appraisal clinic will take place that day.

The antiques show will run Friday-Sunday, March 16-18. Among the offerings will be a gala preview party and lectures (see related story).

Everything will take place at The Community House, 380 S. Bates, south of Maple and east of Southfield Road.

More than 40 antiques dealers from across the country will present a vast array of pieces from all over the world, including English and American formal and country furniture, silver, porcelain, prints, Quimper, Staffordshire, jewelry, pewter, clocks, wicker, linen and brass accessories.

The breakfast lecture, and a verbal appraisal, by Ruggiero will take place 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Wednesday. Tickets are $40. Each visitor can bring in one item.

Ruggiero will speak on "World of Design — Old World Meets New." He co-hosts three popular shows on HGTV: Rooms for Improvement with Leslie Uggams, Best of American Design and Homes Across America.

Ruggiero was chief design consultant to the award-winning PBS series This Old House for nine years, is the author of the design and source book Found Objects, and is the former editor of Home Magazine. The Joe Ruggiero Collection (furniture, fabric and decorative accessories) was launched last spring.

From 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, the public may attend the verbal appraisal Handle with care: Porcelain from Shelley Barr Antiques of Bloomfield Hills will be among the hundreds of offerings at The Community House Antiques Festival, March 15 - 18 in Birmingham. More than 40 antiques dealers from across the country will be featured.

clinic only. Each visitor can bring up to two items, at a fee of $15 for two pieces or $10 for one piece, for appraisal by the Boos and DuMouchelle representatives.

Antiques show hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. March 16-17, and noon to 5 p.m. March 18. Admission is $10.

Specialists in all areas of restoring will be available during the same hours as the show and preview party to repair prized items brought in to the event.

A grand raffle for a two-year lease on a Lincoln Navigator, LS or Town Car will take place; raffle tickets are $50, or three for $100.

Proceeds benefit The Community House, a non-profit organization providing enrichment and social service programs open to everyone in the metropolitan area.

For information, call (248) 644-5832.

Antiques festival offers lectures, preview party

The appraisal clinic, and Joe Ruggiero appearance, will take place Wednesday, March 7.

Other features of The Community House Antiques Festival are:

■ A gala preview party, 6-10 p.m. Thursday, March 15. The all-new theme for this year's preview is "Shakespeare's In The House," with entertainment by the Michigan Renaissance Festival. The party will also include a strolling supper, complimentary beer and wine and a silent auction.

Tickets are $65 (friend) and $100 (patron). Patrons may enter 6 p.m.; friends may enter 7 p.m.

■ A new program, "Take a Walk With a Designer," 8:30-10 a.m. Friday, March 16. Dan Clancy of the Perlmutter Freiwald decorating studio will lead a walk through the show before public hours, explaining how to make different antique items work in the home.

Tickets are $25 and are limited to 25 people.

■ A continental breakfast, and lecture on "Folk Art" by Nancy Druckman of Sotheby's, 10-11 a.m. Friday, March 16. The cost is $15 and includes show admission.

(Antique buffs also can enjoy an Antique Show and Sale, scheduled for May 18-20, at Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn.)

Variety: Festival goers will have a full gamut of things including the Majolica animal pitchers, left, and Egyptian-inspired antiques, above, to choose from during the three-day event.

Overview: This shot of last year's festival shows some of the many booths and contents that those attending can expect to see this year. Besides the antiques, there will be an appraisal clinic, a gala preview and some lectures.

Remembering: These antique souvenir mugs and teapots that commemorate historical occasions around the world will be on view at The Community House Antiques Festival.

The resignation of Romulus native Lloyd Ward at Maytag prompted Leonard Hadley to come out of retirement and take over the reins as chief executive officer.

Hadley has announced a return to the "basics" philosophy for his company. His return comes at a time when Maytag officials have watched company stock prices fall at an alarming rate.

News reports indicate that Ward wanted to move Maytag headquarters to a larger city after being located in Newton, Iowa for the past 107 years. Upon resuming his old job as CEO, Hadley nixed this idea immediately. Hadley said Maytag increased research and development spending substantially in the past year.

"However, much of that spending has not directly supported the delivery of innovation in our core product lines," Hadley said. "We intend to focus that spending more sharply on our core product lines in major appliances and floor care, and on products that will hit the marketplace sooner rather than later."

This writer believes that Maytag provided proven quality products for many years, but if that company ever pulls a boo-boo again like it did with mistakes in the first batch of front-load washers, Maytag's image will never be the same.

Workers lose jobs

Over at Whirlpool, CEO David Whitman predicts a tough first half of 2001 with "substantial performance improvements in the second half of the year." Whirlpool has announced job cuts of about 6,000 people worldwide to reduce costs. Introduction of new products such as the new top-loader washer, touted as an energy-saver, and the new refrigerator, which has the ice maker apparatus inside the door, may be the products that help the company rebound.

From sales to service, we switch over to a report from the Appliance Service News in Chicago. The latest Maytag washer rework involves replacing defective water valves in approximately 2,500 Atlantis washers made between Oct. 25 and Dec. 1, 2000.

The problem stemmed from outlet valves that were improperly made by a vendor. The washers involved house a water valve that was relocated to the center-rear of the machine. According to Maytag, water leaks may range from a drip to a trickle to a considerable flow down the rear panel.

Where possible, the machines will be retrofit with a new water valve while available in dealer stock. Other machines will need the work completed in customers' homes. The project is identified as the "PVL" rework.

Maytag servicers will be mailed a notice listing the washers that require inspections in their areas, the valve and a three-page instruction sheet. Questions should be directed to 1-800-544-2538.

Whirlpool dishwashers overheated or burst into flames, damaged property, and may have killed three people, even after 500,000 dishwashers and design changes were recalled in 1996. Forbes magazine reported. Complaints filed with the Consumer Product Safety Commission indicate that since 1991 some Whirlpool dishwashers have overheated. Forbes cited Wayne Brown, a Sears repair technician from Tennessee, who reported in 1996 that switches in some dishwashers overheated.

Whirlpool said its investigation showed evidence of problems outside the dishwasher, and Whirlpool officials still do not know what's causing the fires, Forbes reported. Recalling about one million dishwashers could cost Whirlpool $150 million, Forbes reported.

No wonder I'm so negative - this stuff is scary. Stay tuned.

GARDENING

GARDEN SPOT

MARTY FIGLEY

Some early wildflowers are beginning to bloom, and what a pretty sight they are!

One of my favorites is Hepatica nobilis, sometimes called liverwort, blue-anemone, choisy, golden-trefoil, ivy-flower, mouse-ears, squirrel-caps and other names.

The plant is low growing with blue, lavender, purple, maroon, pinkish or whitish flowers that appear at the ends of fuzzy stems. They close in cloudy weather and at night.

The foliage comes after the flowers bloom and lasts throughout winter; old leaves are frequently purplish red. The plant grows naturally in dry woods, sandy slopes and thickets, with the flowers appearing in April and May with, or just after, crocus bloom.

There are many cultivated species, all excellent for the garden. This species, with rounded leaves, is the variety obtusata. The variety acuta has sharp-lobed leaves. They are members of the large buttercup or crowfoot family.

As with most wildflowers, there is lore and legend associated with hepatica.

Indians used the plant medicinally and as a charm to put on traps for fur-bearing animals. At one time it was thought to cleanse the liver because the leaves resembled that body part, but it seems that has been disproved.

In 1657 a Swiss physician theorized that the part or parts of a plant that physically resembled a certain body part could cure it. This is called the doctrine of signatures. Often nicknames and proper names originated from the physical characteristics of the plant (i.e. liverwort in this case).

In the 1880s it was said that a girl in the Carolina mountains could win the love of any sweetheart she wished, by secretly throwing over his clothing some of the powder made by rubbing together a few of the heart-shaped leaves that had been dried by fire.

Inspiring program

Many wildflowers will be featured in a program, "Consider the Lilies," by Dr. Carl Price. You won't want to miss this dual-screen musical presentation sponsored by Cranbrook House and Gardens Auxiliary.

The time, date and place: 10 a.m. Wednesday, March 7, in the DeSalle Art Gallery auditorium, in the lower level of the Cranbrook Art Museum at 500 Lone Pine in Bloomfield Hills. Shuttle service begins at 9 a.m. from the Christ Church parking lot, across Lone Pine.

Come and enjoy the program, then make a day of it and go out to lunch.

Dr. Price was senior pastor at the Methodist church in Midland for 25 years. Since his retirement he is now on the staff part-time of First United Methodist Church in Birmingham, where he teaches Bible classes.

He and his wife, Pat, have led inter-generational hiking groups for the past 10 years or so to national parks, such as Glacier National Park (his favorite) and Rocky Mountain National Park.

Dr. Price's interest in the natural world began in Scouting and the fact that he spent a lot of time with his grandparents in West Virginia.

"I love the outdoors," he said. "In fact, for a time I considered wildlife conservation as a career before I decided to become a minister."

His favorite wildflower? "It depends on the day. I guess the Alpine gentian in the high country is one favorite because it is hard to find."

This program will be memorable and all are invited. Ticket prices are $8 for auxiliary members, $10 for non-members. Questions? Call (248) 645-3149.

GOOD GARDEN TIPS

■ Congratulations to Four Seasons Garden Center and Landscape Services, which received a Community Service

Award from the Michigan Recreation and Parks Department. The award was for "outstanding commitment and service to their community." Glen Goldberg, company president, accepted the award in January.

■ Tip sheets describing the "least toxic" pest and disease management approaches are available at Trevarrow Ace Hardware, Telly's Greenhouse and Garden Center, and Uncle Luke's Feed Store in Troy; Maskill's Hardware in Birmingham; Durst Lumber & Ace Hardware in Berkley; Hilzingers Ace Hardware, The Garden of Royal Oak, and English Gardens in Royal Oak; Four Seasons Garden Center and Scheer Ace Hardware in Oak Park.

■ Let's take the mystery out of soil pH. Think of it as a thermometer with a scale from 1 to 14. The higher the number, the more alkaline the soil; the lower the number, the more acidic. The middle number, 7, is neutral.

Many garden plants like a slightly acid soil, around 6. Herbs and veggies generally like it more neutral, around 7; and woodland plants like more acidic, around 5.

INTERIOR DESIGN

Add a designer's touch

Adding a creative designer touch to your room is easy. Making that designer look reflect your own personal style is even easier. Using a designer painting technique can give your room a professional look and reflect your personality - without the professional price.

Sponging and ragging are two popular painting techniques that use multiple colors. Deciding which colors look best doesn't need to be a difficult task. By using the Color Key System at your local Devoe/Fuller-O'Brien paint store, you can combine colors that create a mood - and a personal touch.

The Color Key System divides colors into natural, harmonizing mood palettes of "warm" and "cool." Whatever paint combination you pick, you can be sure it will harmonize. You can be creative, daring and have confidence that the colors match. And your room will have a designer feel.

Now that you've picked some colors, it's time to paint. The painting technique sponging blends colors and gives the room the feeling of an impressionist painting.

When sponge painting, first put on the basecoat and let it dry.

After the paint is dry, use a natural sea sponge available at your local paint store and dampen it in water. Then touch the side of the sponge to the paint and blot it on some newspaper. This will prevent your sponge from depositing too much paint on the wall.

Start in the middle of the area, gently touching the sponge against the wall. Dab a two- to three-foot area, varying the sponge angle to create different patterns. Put spaces between dab marks to give the room a gentle feeling and to let the basecoat shine. After the first sponge coat dries, you can repeat the process with a second and even a third color to give the room a real designer look.

Another designer technique is ragging. This technique conveys the look of crushed fabric on a wall.

First, apply your basecoat and let it dry. Next get a lint-free rag, wet it with water and wring it out to remove any particles. Wad the rag up so the edges are not exposed, and dip the rag in paint. Test the look for blotting the rag on newspaper.

Again, start in the middle of the wall and work in a two- to three-foot area. Dip the rag in the paint and dab on the wall. Keep refolding the rag until it is dry. Repeat the process.

For best results, use only one color over the basecoat.

Easter setting: Create an Easter centerpiece that is fun and festive with a candle.

Brighten up your table with Easter centerpiece

Brighten your Easter with an easy-to-make candle centerpiece from PartyLite Gifts.

Materials needed include: one 10-inch glass plate, one 12-inch clear-glass hurricane shade, one 3-inch-by-9-inch pink pillar candle, tealight candles, three glass wine goblets, two to three bags of jelly beans.

Place the hurricane shade in the center of the glass plate. Add the pillar candle inside the shade. Fill the wine goblets halfway with jelly beans. Nestle one tealight in each of the three wine goblets. Scatter the remaining jelly beans around the base of the hurricane shade. Trim the wicks on the candles to 1/4 inch.

Place a vase of fresh tulips, a basket of Easter eggs or a whimsical Easter bunny figurine on the table for added color and festivity.

About Face: Skin care for the future

I knew it upon walking through the door at Plymouth's Derma Graphic Studio. I knew if I had just one facial, I'd be hooked.

And like aesthetician Eileen Kolar's loyal clients, I was right. But the experience was more than an indulgence; it was educational, too. Having more than 12 years experience, Kolar taught me all about healthy skin.

"Every skin is different," she said. "I have over 200 treatments." Each one is customized for each client.

Kolar, a Livonia resident, began her career as a cosmetologist. But when she noticed her daughter developing skin problems that required visits to the dermatologist, she decided to learn more, and went back to school.

Skin care is an outer reflection of what's going on inside our bodies, our minds, she said. "It has a lot to do with diet, stress and environment."

Though I never had serious skin problems growing up, I've become interested in skin care as I age. If I'm lucky I'll hold onto the healthy skin I have, just like my mother has.

So, I slipped on my terry cloth gown, sunk into the cushy table and relaxed in a serene environment, complete with the sounds of flowing water and relaxing music. To soften my skin for treatment, Kolar set the vaporizer to emit oxygen for my skin cells. My hands were massaged with lotion and carefully placed into heated mittens.

Cleansing

To begin, Kolar focused on cleansing and exfoliating my pale skin. She used an enzyme cream to gently digest dead skin cells. Next, she wrapped her fingers in gauze and began cleansing the clogged pores. There was more than a little pressure, but it wasn't painful.

Then Kolar layered gommage with a facial brush to rid the skin of dead cells. My face was washed with a sponge. Next came the high-frequency machine. A small clear plastic device was swept across areas of my face, emitting a slight buzzing sound. It serves two purposes: killing bacteria and oxygenating my dehydrated skin. "It has a healing effect on tissue," explained Kolar, by stimulating blood flow to the cells.

We moved onto the most enjoyable part of the treatment — the moisturizing process. Kolar first applied Marine DNA (from salmon) to my t-zone area. The treatment is meant to penetrate and refine the texture of the skin while brightening my complexion. She followed it with a Propolis Concentrate which nourishes, protects and moisturizes skin. Topping it all off with plastic helped the nutrients penetrate more quickly, she said. I felt like a gelatin dessert; it was wonderful.

After removing the plastic and washing off the products, she spritzed my face with a mist containing hyaluronic acid to hydrate. The ingredient holds in 300 times the moisture, she said, and seems something like a miracle product as the cold winter winds hit.

Whether she's faced with acne-prone, sun-damaged skin or a healthy complexion, Kolar considers skin care to be just as important as protecting any other vital organ. "In the U.S., we take skin for granted," said Kolar. "In Europe it's a part of the body."

After a facial, remember your water. It's an easy way to keep skin looking and feeling good. At home, some of the facial techniques can be recreated. Jojoba beads are a good, natural exfoliant. Clay masks benefit oil-prone skin, while hydrating masks are better for dry skin like mine.

"The closer to nature you get in food and in skin care, the better it seems to be," said Kolar, who relies on holistic treatments.

Green tea is among the most popular skin-care ingredients today. It is believed to have healing properties against sun damage, it is antibacterial, hydrating and fights against free radicals in the body.

Remember, what you do today will show tomorrow.

Skin Care

As we battle the icy cold winds of long Michigan winters, it's easy to forget the effects of the weather on delicate, healthy skin. A bolt of freezing air outside followed by blasts of indoor heat can be cause for dull, dehydrated and overly dry skin. But with a little know-how and the right pampering products, no one has to weather this season without a fight.

Aesthetician Eileen Kolar of Plymouth's Derma Graphic Studio has all the right weapons against dry skin. With more than 12 years experience, Kolar finds it's just as important to educate her clients as it is to treat them. "Your skin is a balance of oils and water," she said. "The body is 80 percent water. It's important to hydrate ourselves internally. Your skin reflects what's going on inside."

When skin loses moisture, it develops flaky patches, redness, even over-oily spots. Imagine a peach, which is soft and supple when it ripens, but begins to wrinkle and fade as it dries out. Skin acts in much the same manner.

Canton resident Danell Ledin can easily identify signs of winter skin damage. As a makeup consultant for Nars, at Livonia's Laurel Park Place Mall, she understands the importance of maintaining her own healthy luminous skin. Low humidity in the air, wind and sunburn all pose a drying threat, but Ledin suggests that a good moisturizer and diligent sun protection provide the best defenses. She looks for products with aloe vera and Vitamin E to prevent dryness and soften lines and wrinkles.

For Kolar, skin essential oils are key ingredients. Focusing on holistic methods of skin care, she checks labels for sesame oil, apricot kernel seed oil and jojoba oil that will penetrate and hydrate.

"As we age, our cells lose the ability to retain moisture," said Kolar. "You need your creams. For people who are really oily, it's the hydration part they need." Oily skin can be tricky to care for during the winter, a balancing game to minimize oil and maximize hydration. Kolar relies on hyaluronic acid in the form of aromatic mists, which can be sprayed on the face throughout the day. Kolar also recommends collagen creams which help the skin retain moisture.

Some ingredients counteract the quest for healthy skin. Ledin said a few to watch out for include alcohol, mineral oils, talc, products with Retin A, alpha hydroxy and benzoyl peroxide.

A Westland resident, Carrie Tobias-Stoklosa has been working for Prescriptives at Livonia's Laurel Park Place for two years. Her advice for combating dry winter skin is simple: Drink a lot of water and beware of over-exfoliation.

Exfoliation is the removal of dead, dry skin cells and is often accomplished by using masks or scrubs. Kolar warns that facial scrubs should contain rounded exfoliants, rather than sharp edged beads which can microscopically cut into the skin. She prefers an enzyme peel to exfoliate, which allows moisture to penetrate deep into the skin, she said.

Carrie Zawaski, assistant manager at Bath and Body Works at Livonia's Laurel Park Place, agreed exfoliation is essential to healthy skin. "Get the dead skin off," she said. "Use a moisturizing cleanser." She suggests a foam or cream-based cleanser.

Just don't spend too much time in the bath tub or shower. No matter how wonderful it sounds to linger in a hot bath during long winter days, skin will lose moisture. And after a quick soak, lather on your favorite soothing scents.

"Always put on lotion after you shower," said Zawaski. Using lotion on skin immediately after hot shower will help

Indulge in head-to-toe treats

Skin care is no longer restricted to you're mom's beloved floating bar of Ivory soap. Today's products promote a healthy glow with ingredients that look and sound good enough to eat. Indulge with some of my personal favorites that will help perk up your winter worn skin.

Fresh Soy Formula Face & Body Soap

The latest trend in skin care is certainly soy. The protein-enriched legume extract can be found in anything from shampoos to moisturizers and bath powder. This creamy soap contains soy milk, soy oil and glycerin, along with botanicals like ginseng, lavender flower oil and apricot kernel oil and really softens skin ($12 per bar).

DuWop's Lip Venom

This tingly clear gloss wakes lips up with its spicy ginger and cinnamon extracts and enhances their natural color for a bee-stung fullness. Moisturizing Lip Venom can be worn over lipstick for shine or alone. ($12 for 3 ml.)

Lip Gelati

In decadent flavors like strawberry, lemon, lime, orange, chocolate and vanilla, these little glass jars will remind you of a quick summer stop at the ice cream shop. All include sun screen. ($8 for 1 ounce)

Juvena

Perfect Hand Cream

With shea butter and honey, this daily cream can also be used as a hydrating hand mask. ($39)

Give your skin the attention it deserves

■ Follow a proper skin care regimen. Seek out products that are right for your skin and remember these daily steps — cleanse, rinse and moisturize.

■ Don't go to bed too beautiful. It's a common mistake, but forgetting to remove make-up or wash your face before going to sleep clogs pores. Forget the soaps and harsh astringents, and invest in a quality skin cleanser.

■ Watch how you wash. It's best to use your fingers or a clean, soft washcloth to cleanse your face. Sponges absorb oils and bacteria that can be redistributed on the skin.

■ Use sleep to your advantage. Night time is the right time to moisturize dry skin and wake up feeling refreshed. Layer moisturizer onto dry hands or feet, for severe dryness — sleep in cotton socks or gloves.

■ Keep lips moisturized. Exfoliate dry lips with a soft toothbrush or try a gentler approach by applying petroleum jelly to chapped lips. Place a small piece of plastic wrap over coated lips and hold it taut with one hand. Run hot water over a cotton ball and rub it over plastic-coated lips. Remove wrap to discover softer lips.

■ Keep hands soft. Apply lotion after every time you wash your hands.

Unconditional Love

To love someone unconditionally means that one's love is absolute and is without limits. Human emotions are such that we usually distance ourselves from those with unpleasant attitudes or behaviors. So at times loving someone regardless of their actions or feelings towards us is extremely difficult. An example of this could be a married couple - they may be so much in love on their wedding day but later get a divorce because they no longer care for each other. Unconditional love is a blessing from our Heavenly Father and involves forgiveness, understanding, wisdom, and praying for our ones. The Bible tells us there is nothing in all creation that will ever be able to separate us from the love of God, which is ours through Christ Jesus our Lord.

Live a life of love, just as Christ loved us and gave Himself up for us as a fragrant offering and sacrifice to God. N.I.V. Ephesians 5:2

seal in moisture, keeping skin soft. Bath and Body Works spa line has products like pure shea butter and body creams made with avocado oil to do the trick.

Most importantly, treat winter-worn skin with extra attention and care. "You need an SPF, even if you're just going to the car," said Tobias-Stoklosa. "Wear Chapstick, put lipetick on."

These are easy ways to protect skin from the harsh elements - cold temperatures, pollution and ultraviolet sun rays. Most skin care lines now offer antioxidant vitamin creams that fight sun exposure and pollution as they moisturize. While you can't do much about the cold climate, your skin doesn't have to show it.

"You don't need a lot of products to go a long way," said Tobias-Stoklosa.

Five members of Plymouth-Canton Educational Park's newly-formed figure skating team have qualified for the state championships, scheduled for Saturday at the Birmingham Ice Arena.

Amy Caudill, a junior at Plymouth Canton HS, qualified in Bronze dance. Caudill also skates on the Gems On Ice junior level synchronized team through the Plymouth Figures Skating Club.

Renae Kolarik, a junior at Canton, also qualified in Bronze dance. Kolarik skates on the Crystallettes senior level international synchronized team through the Dearborn Figure Skating Club, and she's a member of Canton's track and field team.

Michelle Manery, a freshman at Plymouth Salem, qualified in Silver dance. Manery skates on the Team Elan junior level synchronized team through the Detroit Skating Club.

Brandi Reed, a senior at Salem, qualified in Senior freestyle, the highest level a skater can reach. She is a member of PCEP's video productions.

The PCEP team was formed after receiving approval for a contract to add figure skating as an extra-curricular activity from the Plymouth-Canton school board of education at a Jan. 30 meeting. The club affiliate is self-funded.

The team will be one of 23 high school teams competing in three districts in the state. PCEP will be in the Western District, with North Farmington/Farmington, Northville, Novi, Dearborn Divine Child, Farmington Hills Mercy, Livonia Ladywood and Ann Arbor Huron.

Skaters compete individually and as a team.

Freeman is the career scoring leader at Linden HS with 78 goals. In her junior season, she scored 27 goals and had 21 assists. She is a three-time offensive player of the year and twice was the team's most valuable player.

As a junior, Freeman was selected first team all-Flint Metro League, all-district and all-region. She was also received first team all-Tri-County and all-state accolades.

Freeman will focus on a degree in teaching or working with handicapped children. She would also like to coach soccer someday.

Championship day is supposed to be on a Saturday for Western Lakes Activities Association swimming, the day of the conference finals. In reality, the title is determined on the preceding Thursday — during the conference preliminaries.

The theory is simple enough: Swim well enough on Thursday and you'll qualify a bundle of people in a lot of events, guaranteeing at least a certain number of points.

Certainly that approach worked well for the two teams that emerged at the top of the pack last Saturday at Plymouth Salem HS. The Rocks finished first by more than 100 points, gaining their ninth-consecutive WLAA championship — which surprised no one.

Placing second was Plymouth Canton, scoring 447 points (Salem totaled 547.5) — 41 more than third-place Northville, a margin certainly more comfortable than anticipated.

Livonia Stevenson was fourth (377.5), followed by North Farmington (316), Walled Lake Central (247), Livonia Churchill (157), Westland John Glenn (151), Farmington Harrison/Farmington (149), Livonia Franklin (110) and Walled Lake Western (62). See meet results.

"After Thursday, I felt pretty good," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "Everyone swam extremely well, we placed a lot of guys in the top six."

"Then we came back on Saturday and swam even better. After we won the 200 medley relay, I thought, 'We're on our way.' After that, I was feeling pretty good."

With good reason. The 200-yard medley relay was the question mark among the Rocks' relays. After winning that, it was almost assured they would sweep all three.

And they did, setting a new WLAA record in the 400 freestyle relay with Mike Johnson, Jim Ross, Ben Dzialo and Eric Lynn finishing first in 3:15.16 (former record: 3:17.04, set by Stevenson in 1992).

That was one of two meet records set, and they came in the last two events. North Farmington's Adam Farber got the other, winning the 100 breaststroke in 58.47, breaking the mark of Northville's Jeff Sieving (59.83) set in

STAFF PHOTOS BY PAUL HUBSCHMAN

Standout performers: Salem's Ben Dzialo enjoyed a superb WLAA championship, winning the 200-yard freestyle (above) and placing second in the 100-yard butterfly. In both events, he was one place ahead of Canton's Matt Wisniewski, who finished third with a state-qualifying 55.21 in the 100 fly (below) and was second in the 200 free with another state-qualifying cut.

In all, Salem had six first-place swims and had just two events in which it didn't have swimmers in the top three.

The meet's most competitive race was in the 100 free, between two of the meet's premier swimmers: Salem's Eric Lynn and Stevenson's Joe Bublitz.

Lynn led Bublitz by nearly a half-second after the first 50 yards — the Rocks' Johnson was actually second at that point — but Bublitz caught Johnson and Lynn with a 24.55 second 50 to tie him for first with Lynn at 47.72, only .3 off the WLAA record. They were the top two seeds in the event, just .07 separating their qualifying times.

Bublitz also finished first in the 200 individual medley, clocking 1:57.41. Lynn was second in the 200 IM in 1:58.82.

Perhaps this isn't the most formidable Plymouth Salem volleyball team — but in last Saturday's Western Lakes Activities Association Tournament, the Rocks sure played like it.

Pool play resulted in three sweeps for Salem, with nary a team scoring more than six points in a game. That earned the Rocks, seeded No. 1 going into the tournament, a bye straight into the semifinals. Once there, they defeated the only conference team to beat them this season — Walled Lake Central, the tournament hosts — and they did it in convincing fashion, 15-7, 15-8.

The toughest match of the day lay ahead for Salem, however. In the WLAA final against Livonia Churchill, it took the Rocks three games, but they emerged with the conference title, 15-9, 10-15, 15-5.

The win means Salem will take a 31-7 record into Saturday's state district tournament at South Lyon. The Rocks go up against Plymouth Canton in the first round, at 4 p.m.

"The games (against Churchill) were even tougher than the scores indicated," said Salem coach Tom Teeters. "They blocked better than us, but I think we were a little more flexible than they were."

"The difference (in the tournament), for us, was our team being able to play out of position. Team flexibility. We could make adjustments. (Setter) Jill Dombrowski does a great job leading, and she did very well with what she got, good passes or bad."

It wasn't the only advantage the Rocks had. "We hit .303 as a team for the tournament," Teeters said. "We had five players hit over .300. I've

Late rally falls short for Salem

Plymouth Salem stormed back from a 5-1 deficit with a strong third period, but the rally fell a goal short and the Rocks followed, bowing out in the opening round of the Division I state hockey tournament with a 5-4 loss to Dearborn Tuesday at Adray Arena.

In Monday's tournament game, Plymouth Canton defeated Ann Arbor Huron 4-1 to advance to the regional semifinal against No. 2-ranked Trenton at 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

Three first-period goals gave the Pioneers a 3-0 lead. Salem responded with Cornerstone clips Madonna in final

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisk@c.ehomecomm.net

The reason for Cornerstone University's victory over Madonna University in Monday's Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference women's basketball tournament final:

The Golden Eagles could go the distance.

That was enough to carry Cornerstone to a 74-62 win at Madonna, a win which sends the Eagles to the NAIA National Tournament, carrying with them a 26-7 record and a No. 17 ranking. Madonna, regular-season champions in the WHAC, finishes its season at 18-12.

So how was Cornerstone better able to travel the distance to the conference title than the Lady Crusaders? There are three parts to that response.

■ First: Some pre-game analysis. Even though it was the No. 1 seed and had homecourt advantage throughout the tournament, Madonna struggled to reach the WHAC final. The Crusaders defeated both No. 8-seed Siena Heights and No. 4 Spring Arbor by three points apiece. No. 2 seed Cornerstone had an easier ride, beating Aquinas by 20 and Tri-State by 23.

That meant while Madonna's regulars were logging 30-plus minutes a game, the Eagles' top players clocked less than 25 minutes a game. They were better rested.

■ Second: Cornerstone's bench was deeper and more effective. Guards Sarah Haney and Kami Main and forward/center Stephanie Anderson each contributed valuable minutes. Indeed, five non-starters played more than seven minutes, and no one played 31. Bench players scored 21 points.

Sad ending: Madonna University's players mourn as the realization that their season has come to an end with a loss to Cornerstone in the league tournament final.

Madonna, by comparison, had two starters log more than 33 minutes; only two non-starters had more than six minutes. The Crusader bench scored only 14 points, and 12 of those were produced by Lori Enfield.

■ Third, and perhaps most apparent: Cornerstone went the distance by, well, going the distance — and when it counted most. The Eagles connected on 6-of-10 three-pointers in the second half, including two by sophomore guard Amy Popielars in a 60-second span

Rockers win 1, lose 1

On Saturday, the Detroit Rockers came up with perhaps their biggest win of the season — certainly their best defensive game — but they couldn't sustain it on Sunday.

The Rockers visited the division-leading Milwaukee Wave Saturday with newly acquired forward Domenic Mobilio, and he made a difference. Mobilio, obtained in a trade with the Philadelphia Kixx for forward Shawn Boney last week, scored a two-point goal and a one-point shootout goal in the first period, then assisted on two-point goal by Martin Nash as the Rockers stormed out to a 5-0 lead.

That was the end of the offense, but the Rockers' defense, led by goalie Paul Shepherd, took over after that. Detroit blanked the Wave in the first half, only the second time this season that's happened to them, then held on for a 5-3 win.

Milwaukee's only goal was a three-pointer, scored by Joe Reiniger in the third quarter.

Shepherd stopped 19 of 20 shots for the Rockers, who earned their sixth win of the season. Milwaukee fell to 15-12.

Sunday's outcome wasn't as good for Detroit. The Toronto Thunder Hawks built a 10-0 lead by halftime, then hold off a furious Rockers' rally to record a 19-10 victory in Toronto.

The weekend split left Detroit with a 6-21 record.

After spotting the Thunder Hawks their 10-point lead, the Rockers stormed back with three-point goals by Nash and Randy Prescott and two-pointers by Mobilio and Matt Knowles, trimming the Toronto lead to 13-10 with seven minutes left.

But Thunder Hawk goalie Paulo Ceccarelli stoned the Rockers the rest of the way.

2 Chiefs, 1 Rock go to state

It certainly wasn't the easiest path to take.

Both Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem's wrestlers traveled to the Temperance Bedford Individual Wrestling Regional Saturday, facing many of the state's best. When it ended, Canton had two wrestlers with state meet hopes still alive and Salem had one.

Those surviving for Canton were Doy Demick at 125 pounds and Ozzie Wagner at 215. Salem's Tony Kennard made it at 135.

The state finals are March 8-10 at Joe Louis Arena.

Demick was the only one of the three to reach the championship round. He pinned Ken Miller of Wyandotte Roosevelt in 1:16 in his opening match, defeated Northville's Matt Doyle 3-0 in his second match, then got pinned by Kyle Burkett of Bedford in 3:17 of the final.

Kennard finished third at 135, defeating Nat Sturgis of Belleville 6-5 in his opener before losing to Dave Edwards of South Lyon 10-9 in his second. He then beat Ahmad Jouma of Dearborn Fordson 7-3 in his first consolation match, then knocked off Sturgis again, 9-3, to place third.

Wagner finished fourth in his division, and it wasn't an easy road. He lost his opener to

WRESTLING

Sam Bond of Monroe, 10-5, then rebounded with a pair of wins, defeating Tim Stefanson of Novi 5-0 and Brian McNeill of Pinckney 6-5 in overtime. He was pinned by Bond in the battle for third place in 2:59.

"We, as a team, are very proud of Doy and Ozzie," said Canton coach John Demack. "They both fought hard and will be continuing their season at the state meet."

"We had hopes of many more making it and wrestling on, but some things just didn't go our way and some of our guys just needed a little more confidence."

"We know more and more of our guys are going to be working for, and believing in their ability to place at the state meet, but you always need someone to go first and show the way."

Canton's and Salem's other regional qualifiers fell short of attaining their goals. At 275, the Chiefs' Derek McWatt opened by pinning Conor Terry of Saline in 4:47, then was pinned in the second round by Brandon Garrison of Wyandotte Roosevelt in 1:33 and in the third round by Livonia Franklin's

Tony Martinez in 4:2.

Both Canton's Kyle Pitt and Salem's Mike Goethe were opening-round losers at 119. They met in the consolation bracket, with Goethe winning 3-1 in overtime. Goethe followed with a 3-0 loss to Dearborn's Rob Sulaver.

The Rocks' Nate Dillard lost his first two matches at 125. At 130, Salem's Brandon Sammut was forced to forfeit.

Canton's Greg Musser ran into trouble in his first match at 140, getting pinned by Bedford's Brad Grostefon in 1:28. Musser rebounded with a win over Redford Catholic Central's Chris Peterson, 4-2, but then lost to Dearborn Edsel Ford's Chris Luther 5-3 in overtime.

Canton's Mike Siegrist lost his first two matches at 145. At 171, the Chiefs' Scott McKee suffered a similar fate.

At 189, Canton's Phil Rothwell won his opening-round match, pinning Southgate Anderson's Dan Graham in 4:22. Rothwell lost his next two matches, however, to Bobby Everett of Saline, 10-4, and to Clint Salisbury of Bedford on a fall in 3:45.

Salem's Zach Jensen lost his first two matches at 215.

Windsor Spitfires in Windsor Sunday clinched the Ontario Hockey League's West Division title for the Whalers and assured them of at least a No. 2 seed in the upcoming OHL Playoffs. Plymouth still has nine regular-season games remaining, but its record is 38-12-4-5 (65 points); Windsor is 28-21-6-4 (66 points).

The Whalers remain two points behind the Erie Otters for the overall lead in the OHL.

The win did not come easily for the Whalers, playing their fourth game in five nights. They took the lead on three separate occasions, but it took an empty-net

The Plymouth Whalers' 5-3 win over the goal in the closing seconds by Damian Surma to assure the victory.

Preston Mizzi opened the scoring for the Whalers in the first period, with assists from Kris Vernarsky and Nate Kiser. Windsor knotted it early in the second on a power-play goal by Ahren Nittel.

Stephen Weiss answered with a power-play goal for Plymouth midway through the second period, assists going to George Nistas and Tomas Kurka. But the Spitfires tied it again with a goal early in the third period.

A score by Chad LaRose 5:51 into the third put the Whalers ahead for good. Chad Wiseman increased their lead to 4-2 at 15:23. Kurka and Weiss assisted.

Windsor pulled goalie Mike

Leighton and it paid dividends when Steve Hildenbrand beat Whaler goalie Rob Zepp to make it 4-3 with 1:19 left. But the Spitfires could not repeat that success, and Surma's empty-netter clinched it.

A night earlier at Compuware Arena, the Whalers again held on to beat London 4-3. The Knights took early control, getting first-period goals from Mike Stathopoulos and Joel Scherban. Weiss netted a goal in between for Plymouth (assisted by Kurka and Kiser) to make it 2-1 London after one.

Kurka tied it at 2-2 with the only goal of the second period; Weiss and Mizzi assisted.

Bryan Stewart (unassisted) and Chad LaRose (Vernarsky, Mizzi) gave Plymouth a 4-2 lead with 8:57 left in the third period. The Knights narrowed the gap to one on a power-play goal by Dennis Wideman with 7:02 remaining, but they could get no closer.

Paul Drew stopped 25 shots in goal to get the win for the Whalers. Aaron Molnar had 24 saves for London.

The Whalers have two games this weekend, traveling to London Friday and hosting Ottawa Saturday (7:30 p.m. at Compuware).

Falcons stop Canton in OT

A nine-point halftime lead evaporated in the third quarter for Plymouth Canton, which went overtime before losing 56-53 to host Farmington in a Western Lakes Activities Association consolation game Tuesday.

The loss gave the Chiefs a 9-11 final regular-season record. Farmington finishes 15-5. Matt Mikel provided the heroics for the Falcons, scoring a basket with 20 seconds left in OT to give them a 54-53 lead. After a Canton miss, Mikel pushed their advantage to three by sinking two free throws with six seconds to go.

The Chiefs never got off a shot at the tying basket.

Canton led 30-21 at the half, but Farmington closed that gap to 37-36 after three quarters. Still, it took a free throw by Mike Grifey with 10 seconds left in the fourth quarter for the Falcons to force OT.

Mikel finished with a game-high 17 points. Curtis Tillman added 16.

Andrew Holmes' 12 points topped Canton. Rian Barker contributed 11 and both Jerry Gaines and Oliver Wolcott scored eight.

"It was a well-played game," said Canton coach Jeremy Rheault. "We hung in there. We only had 12 turnovers, but a couple of them were costly."

"We've just got to learn how to take care of the ball."

Twice, once in regulation and again in OT, the Chiefs turned the ball over with the game on the line. Still, Rheault would take nothing away from the Falcons.

WOLCOTT

"They stuck some big shots when they had to," he said. "They're very athletic."

Canton now awaits the state district tournament, hosted by Northville. The Chiefs go up against the Mustangs in Monday's opening round, at 7 p.m.

The winner of that game plays Plymouth Salem at 7 p.m. Wednesday. The district final is 7 p.m. Friday.

Roeper 66, Agape 55: A red-hot first quarter propelled Bloomfield Hills Roeper to the victory over visiting Canton Agape Christian Tuesday.

The Roughriders hit nine of their 10 first-quarter shots and all four free throws in taking a 24-10 lead after one.

"After that, it was an even game," said Agape coach Chuck Henry.

But Roeper had too much of an advantage. The Wolverines trailed 39-27 at the half and 55-41 after three quarters.

Paul Anleitner led Agape with 15 points. Josh Anthony added 12.

Roeper got 24 points from Laddie Andahazy (12 in the first quarter), 14 from Scott Ashenbrenner, and 12 apiece from Nico Martinez and Mike Hack.

Agape slipped to 15-3. Roeper is 14-5.

John Glenn 55, Franklin 42: Westland John

Glenn avenged a 55-52 loss Feb. 13 to Livonia Franklin as senior guard Brent Bogle led the way with 18 points on Tuesday.

Glenn, now 5-14 on the year, raced out to a 39-21 lead after three quarters against the visiting Patriots.

Bogle had three 3-pointers, while Mike Goree added 14 points and a dunk in the final quarter. Michael Franks and Anthony Harrell each added eight points.

Franklin (7-13) senior forward Joe Rugiero scored 17 of his game-high 29 points in the final period.

Stevenson 43, North Farmington 40: Junior center Nick Ehlerdt had 18 points and six rebounds as Livonia Stevenson (7-13) earned seventh place in the Western Lakes tournament with a win Tuesday at North Farmington (9-11).

Junior Mike Leach had 11 for the Raiders.

Stevenson, which hasn't had a home game since Feb. 6, hit four of 11 free throws, while North was 16 of 30.

Poor shooting leaves CC at a loss in final

The third time wasn't the charm for Redford Catholic Central on Sunday.

The Shamrocks shot a dismal 17-for-65 from the floor against Warren De La Salle — a team they had beaten in their two previous meetings — and wound up on the short end of a 66-57 decision to the Pilots in the Catholic League Championship game at Calihan Hall.

"It wasn't a pretty game," said CC coach Rick Coratti. "We didn't shoot well early and they ground it out. We never could get over the hump or get a big basket to get on a run."

CC, a team that lives behind the 3-point arc, died behind it, hitting just 7 of 35 shots.

"We didn't hit the shots this time," said Coratti. "We did hit a couple in the fourth quarter to cut it back to seven, but then we also had to foul and it just compounded it."

CC (15-4) did hold a 10-9 lead after the first quarter, but the Pilots (15-4) ran out to a 21-13 lead, before settling in to a 33-19 lead at the half. De La Salle increased that to 55-27 through three quarters and pretty much just needed to stay even with the Shamrocks in the fourth.

Ryan Colemay led CC with 19 points, while Anthony Coratti had 13 — including a pair of fourth quarter 3's — and Mark Willoughby added eight assists. Brian Blaker had 24 points to lead the Pilots, while Jeff Grassew had 13.

The Shamrocks will play Detroit Central (16-2) at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Operation Friendship consolation game at Calihan, while De La Salle — winning just its second league title in school's 75-year history — plays Detroit Public School league champ Detroit Redford (16-1) in the finale at 2:30 p.m.

CC, Mercy trail at state skiing championships

The state ski finals didn't go as well as hoped for Redford Catholic Central senior Matt Gable and the Shamrocks.

CC finished seventh out of nine teams in the boys championship meet at Nub's Nob in Petoskey, and the event was a personal disappointment for Gable.

He was the defending champion in the slalom and a contender for the giant slalom title. However, he was disqualified in the slalom and finished third overall in the latter.

In the slalom, Gable had an excellent first run of 30.43 seconds and was among the leaders. But it was determined he missed a gate on his second attempt and was DQed.

"He had skied well enough to be in third, and disaster struck on the second run," CC coach Tom Gable said.

He added Matt was in third place a year ago, too, and came on to win the event with a strong second run. He believed the same would happen this year.

"I believe the skiers who took a little steam off made it down; the faster skiers had trouble," coach Gable said, adding Matt was flying on the second run.

"He did a hip-check and fell through the gate. The gatekeeper decided he had missed the gate, and we didn't feel it was worth it to protest. I'm a strong believer that racers need to let their skiing do the talking for them."

"At times you can make it in the back door (with a successful protest). It's not like you're trying to pull the wool over their eyes, but I thought it was just best not to pursue it."

Gable was about six gates from the finish when the violation supposedly occurred. He still finished and received a time.

"Ski racing is ski racing," coach Gable said. "Sometimes you can be the best at a sport, but you still need a little luck and breaks along the way."

Furthermore, CC teammate John Goebel skied off course and didn't finish the slalom in which the Shamrocks finished seventh with 112 points.

Gable had the fastest giant slalom time among skiers competing for a team, but he was third overall when other individual qualifiers were included.

Gwinn's Chris Remien won the giant slalom in 49.83. Waterford United's Derek Delzer was second (49.16) and Gable third at 49.55.

The Shamrocks finished sixth in the giant slalom with 96 points. Marquette won both events and the team championship.

"I'm proud of Matt and his teammates," Gable said. "They stuck together; there was no finger pointing."

"They were happy to be there and felt they gave their best. There was some frustration, but all of them handled it well."

Mercy girls finish 6th

Farmington Hills Mercy was sixth out of nine teams in the girls state ski finals. Marquette dominated the girls competition, winning the team title with just 24 points.

While CC finished lower than expected in the boys event, coach Gable thought the Mercy girls did as well as expected.

"With the ladies, I was really elated with their result," he said. "I think they skied right where they should have been."

"All season long they weren't taken very seriously. They've been skiing well in the slalom, and they repeated that at the state finals."

"For a young team — we graduate a few girls, but we have a number of freshmen and sophomores — I thought they really stepped up to the plate. I'm extremely pleased with their finish."

Mercy's top skier was Liz Kujala, who was 17th among team competitors in the slalom and 22nd in the giant slalom.

"They all finished, which was really nice," Gable said. "We had all six girls make it down through both events, which was great for them. That's pretty unusual, because you always seem to lose somebody along the way."

Michiganians overpaying $1 billion for long-distance

But $1.03 billion too much? Every year?!

Unfortunately, yes. A recent study* of our state's long-distance market shows that Michigan customers could be saving more than a billion dollars annually in long-distance and toll charges. How? By opening up the market to full competition.

The study, commissioned by Ameritech and conducted by Stephen Pociask, President of TeleNomic Research, LLC — a Virginia-based economic research and consulting firm — finds "conclusive, empirical evidence that the long-distance market remains heavily concentrated."

That means the market is dominated by only a few companies — the "Big Three," to be exact: AT&T, WorldCom and Sprint. Furthermore, says the report, this lack of competition is being sustained by regulatory obstacles.

Based on New York's long-distance market, the study concludes that if Ameritech could offer long-distance service here, then consumers could eventually save that $1.03 billion.

Not only would long-distance competition and prices get better but, following New York's example, competition and costs for local telephone service would also improve.

And it's not only New Yorkers — Texans, Oklahomans and Kansans are reaping the rewards of full competition as well.

Ameritech continues to work closely with the Michigan Public Service Commission and other telephone companies to follow the blueprint established in those states by the Federal Communications Commission.

As the report indicates, it's time for our state to eliminate barriers to long-distance competition, so Michigan customers can enjoy the benefits of greater savings and choices in their long-distance and local telephone service.

Renate Debler

There's lots of things wrong with this proposal

PAUL BEAUDRY

If I were King of the World...

Several years ago, I played softball against Chris Kolb during the annual Ann Arbor City Council-Media game. And as a softball player, Kolb — now a state representative — was a fine council member.

As a rookie representative, Kolb is making another foray into athletics — not on the field, but on the floor of the state house. This time, it's not for fun. He's introduced a bill that mandates public schools offering a sport for both males and females (such as basketball or golf) must hold their seasons simultaneously. And it's flat out wrong.

For starters, this is an end-around solution to a lawsuit by a group of disgruntled Grand Rapids-area parents trying to flop the girls basketball and volleyball seasons. The group claims that because volleyball in Michigan is played in the winter, instead of the fall like most states and all colleges, their girls are denied scholarship opportunities.

Hogwash. If a player is good, a college coach will find them in AAU or summer camps — whether it's girls volleyball, boys basketball, tennis, track or whatever. Why do you think more college basketball coaches — men and women — put more stock in scouting summer camps than regular season games?

The trial is scheduled to begin this month in U.S. District Court in Kalamazoo. The suit is opposed by the Michigan High School Athletic Association, which regulates sports in the state, and coaching associations in basketball, tennis, swimming, soccer and golf.

But this bill opens up a whole other can of worms.

Since it involves only public schools, private schools would be forced either to go along or form their own association and compete among themselves.

Finding officials

How do you get enough qualified officials? Officials can work in two seasons, but they can't be two places at once. How do you schedule your facilities when you have one practice soccer field or not enough tennis courts? What happens to a program when a coach is forced to choose between the boys team or the girls team because there isn't enough time to do both? Does a golf course manager want to give up twice as many full-price tee times (and cart fees and concession) for matches and practice to support two high school teams in the same season instead of spreading it out?

In a poll this year, a whopping 8 percent of basketball coaches in Michigan — boys and girls — felt that those sports should be played in the same season. In 1998, 18 percent of superintendents, administrators and athletic directors wanted the two seasons to coincide.

Kolb should have learned his lesson in softball — stay away from the playing field. And his attempt at trying to throw unwanted and unneeded legislation into an organizing body that is not governed by the state, shows that once again, he's striking out.

Wayne's inevitable departure from the Michigan Mega Conference to the Western Lakes Athletic Association won't necessarily be a bad thing, despite all of the grumbling from coaches and administrators.

The precedent it sets for other schools that want to leave is.

It's no secret that other schools want out — specifically Trenton, Gibraltar Carlson and Woodhaven. They'd love to join the Huron League, made up of similar-size schools Downriver, but the Huron League has no plans to expand.

Instead of watching as schools make noise about wanting to leave, the Mega should use the opportunity to retool the league — specifically in regard to several of the schools that were admitted as part of a civil rights probe from the Department of Justice.

I'm not advocating forcing schools such as River Rouge, Inkster or Dearborn Heights Robichaud out of the league. But these schools owe it to their fellow league members to beef up some of their programs or drop them.

It has nothing to do with race. In fact, every school needs to consider the same thing if their teams cease to be competitive due to declining enrollment.

In this case, it has everything to do with competition. Part of the condition for admission to the Mega was to maintain and improve some "minor" sports. They haven't lived up to their end of the bargain.

For example, is it fair for schools such as Thurston or Redford Union to go to a swimming meet at River Rouge and go against four swimmers? Or to a tennis match at Highland Park to play five matches instead of eight? The programs were put in place when these schools had a higher enrollment. With enrollment declining, they need to cut back.

If these schools can't be competitive in some sports, they need to do one of three things: Look at combining sports with other schools, participate in a "club" atmosphere or drop the sport.

If they can't maintain enough students to fill their roster, let alone be competitive, they shouldn't cry foul when other Mega schools complain about not pulling their weight.

I can't help but chuckle when I think about one aspect of Wayne's leaving the Mega for the WLAA. At 1,939 students, Wayne is the third largest school in the Mega, but just six of its 19 programs compete in the Mega Red, or top division — football, boys and girls golf, boys basketball, girls swimming and boys track.

If Wayne couldn't compete in the upper division of the Mega against smaller schools, how can it compete against the larger schools in the WLAA? Maybe administrators should worry about ways to get more students to participate and improving the quality of the programs instead of changing leagues.

I usually ignore most cold-call telemarketers. No, I'm happy with my current long-distance carrier. Yes, I have enough life insurance. Yes, I remembered to vote.

I got one call on Monday that struck me as funny. Not funny "ha-ha." Funny as in how pathetic can they get?

It was from the Detroit Tigers, reminding me — through a taped message from manager Phil Garner — that tickets go on sale this Saturday.

If Mike Ilitch wants to call and explain why the team is slashing payroll after promising to be competitive with free agents, I'll listen.

In the meantime, the franchise — specifically the marketing genius responsible for this — should be embarrassed. After 100 seasons of baseball, the once-proud Tigers have to resort to telemarketing to solicit ticket buyers to their year-old, publicly-funded, $7.50-a-beer and $2.75-a-hot-dog stadium.

The Rocks were consistently on target throughout the tournament. In pool play, they opened against No. 12 seeded Livonia Franklin and rolled to a 15-4, 15-3 victory.

Their second pool-play match was against No. 7 Farmington. The results were similar: 15-6, 15-4 for Salem.

After that came cross-creek rival Plymouth Canton, but the Chiefs were unable to derail the Salem express, losing 15-5, 15-2.

"We were playing some of our best volleyball of the year," said Teeters.

The top two seeds in each of the three pools advanced, with the top two surviving seeds — No. 1 Salem and No. 2 Livonia Stevenson — getting the byes to the semifinals. Canton, seeded sixth, played No. 3 Churchill in one quarterfinal and lost, 15-6, 15-12. No. 4 Central defeated No. 11 Westland John Glenn in the other, 15-12, 15-6.

The Chargers then eliminated Stevenson in one semifinal, with Salem stopping Central.

Tournament statistics indicate it was, indeed, a team victory for the Rocks. Katie Good enjoyed a superb outing, collecting a team-high 45 kills with a .333 kill percentage. She also led Salem with 17 service aces (the team had 50 in the tournament, averaging 4.55 per game) and had 38 digs.

Dombrowski finished with 15 kills, including a 7-for-7 performance in the win over Canton, with a team-best .519 percentage. She had nine service aces, 19 digs and 113 set assists (10.3 per game).

Kelly Jaskot was next for the Rocks, totaling 39 kills (.310), five aces and a team-high 39 digs. Mary Lou Liebau added 33 kills (.311), six aces and 35 digs;

Amber Williams had 11 kills with a .385 percentage; Rolaine Llanes had six aces and 18 digs; and Jordan Falcusan ended with seven aces and 17 digs.

Canton's trip through the tournament was up and down. The Chiefs opened by splitting their match with Farmington, which they followed with a two-game sweep of Franklin and the loss to Salem.

That left them tied for second with the Falcons. A one-game playoff ended with a Canton victory, sending the Chiefs into the quarterfinals opposite Churchill.

"Churchill did the same thing against us that Salem did," noted Canton coach Steve Anderson. "They found our serve-reception problems and that was it."

It's a problem Anderson knows he'll have to try and correct by Saturday, or Salem will handle the Chiefs the same way it has in earlier meetings this season. In four games, Canton has scored a total of 15 points against the Rocks.

"We're going to have to play our absolute best," Anderson said. "We match up well with Salem in every area but one. Our serve reception just isn't as strong."

Agape rolls

Canton Agape Christian pounded Detroit World Outreach 15-2, 15-4 Tuesday at Wayne Memorial to complete a splendid regular season that saw the Wolverines win 23 of 24 matches.

Leaders for Agape against World Outreach were Kelly Blackney with four service aces and two kills, Alice Muench with four aces and Margie Henry with two aces.

The Wolverines advance to the Class D district tournament hosted by Novi Franklin Road Christian Saturday. They go against Plymouth Christian Academy at 10 a.m.

Hockey D1

a goal by John Schultz (assisted by Andy Thackaberry) early in the second period, but Dearborn scored twice more in the period to extend its lead to 5-1.

Salem didn't surrender. Goals from Mike Barr (from Steve Nagel and Dan Stiver), Steve Nagel and Mark Nagel (from Steve Nagel and Chadd Schlamb) narrowed the gap to 5-4 with five minutes remaining.

But the Rocks could not get the equalizer. Salem's Scott Stukel had 24 saves in goal.

Michiganians overpaying $1 billion for long-distance

Maybe you're not surprised by the news that Michigan consumers are paying too much for long-distance telephone service.

But $1.03 billion too much? Every year?

Unfortunately, yes. A recent study* of our state's long-distance market shows that Michigan customers could be saving more than a billion dollars annually in long-distance and toll charges. How? By opening up the market to full competition.

The study, commissioned by Ameritech and conducted by Stephen Pociask, President of TeleNomic Research, LLC — a Virginia-based economic research and consulting firm — finds "conclusive, empirical evidence that the long-distance market remains heavily concentrated."

That means the market is dominated by only a few companies — the "Big Three," to be exact: AT&T, WorldCom and Sprint. Furthermore, says the report, this lack of competition is being sustained by regulatory obstacles.

Based on New York's long-distance market, the study concludes that if Ameritech could offer long-distance service here, then consumers could eventually save that $1.03 billion.

Not only would long-distance competition and prices get better but, following New York's example, competition and costs for local telephone service would also improve.

And it's not only New Yorkers — Texans, Oklahomans and Kansans are reaping the rewards of full competition as well.

Ameritech continues to work closely with the Michigan Public Service Commission and other telephone companies to follow the blueprint established in those states by the Federal Communications Commission.

As the report indicates, it's time for our state to eliminate barriers to long-distance competition, so Michigan customers can enjoy the benefits of greater savings and choices in their long-distance and local telephone service.

Diane L. Webb

that was instrumental in erasing a seven-point Madonna lead.

Until Kathy Pangonis connected on three three-pointers in the final minute, after the outcome had already been decided, the Crusaders had hit just one triple try in the game. They were 1-of-11 until Pangonis' late flurry.

"Pops (Popielarz) stepped up and hit some threes for us when we really needed it," agreed Cornerstone coach Carla Sterk. "And that the best (Laura Yonkers) has shot."

"But every single player came in and did something. That was big for us. This has been their focus all year long — to get to nationals."

Madonna had a similar dream, although it developed more gradually. While the Eagles were expected to be a powerhouse, the Crusaders started the season slowly, posting a 5-8 record against non-league competition. However, once the WHAC campaign started, they got on track quickly.

"It was a good year," said

Madonna coach Marylou Jansen. "I hate to lose, but those seniors have a lot to be proud of."

For a good portion of the game, it seemed they'd have more than their previous accomplishments to flaunt. A trip to the national tournament seemed tantalizingly reachable, particularly after a first half in which neither team led by more than four (at the intermission, it was knotted at 32-all) was followed by a strong start to the second half.

Madonna outscored Cornerstone 9-2 in the first 5:04 to open up a seven-point lead.

That's when Popielarz found the range. Yonkers soon followed.

In the 8:32 that followed Madonna's biggest lead, the Eagles outscored the Crusaders 18-4 to build a 55-45 lead with 6:24 left. Popielarz and Julie Vogelzang accounted for six points each in the surge.

The closest Madonna got after that was seven.

"They changed their defense and that caught us," said

Jansen, referring to Cornerstone's switch from a 1-2-2 zone to a 2-3. "We froze up offensively. They went to that zone and it shut down our inside game."

"But it's not like we weren't prepared for it."

That's where the fatigue factor may have set in. The Crusaders were simply slow to react, and the result was some unforced turnovers. They had 24 in the game, compared to Cornerstone's 18.

"They certainly had more legs than we did," said Jansen, referring to the Eagles' easier road to the final.

Added Sterk: "I thought maybe we were a little fresher in the second half."

Pangonis, named the WHAC's most valuable player last week, finished with 21 points, eight rebounds and two steals. Kristi Fiorenzi (from Plymouth Canton) contributed 16 points (she was 10-of-12 from the free-throw line), five rebounds and two steals, and Enfield had 12 points (6-of-8 shooting) and nine boards.

Cornerstone got 19 points from Yonkers, who was 5-of-7 on triple tries; 17 points, six rebounds and five blocks from Vogelzang; and 12 points from Haney.

"Their big players stepped up when they had to," said Jansen. And those three-pointers? "That's one of their strengths," Jansen said. "They have five (players) who can shoot them."

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON BOARD PROCEEDINGS - FEBRUARY 20, 2001

A regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Canton held Tuesday, February 20, 2001. Supervisor Yack called the meeting to order at 7:00 p.m. and led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Roll Call

Members Present: Bennett, Burdziak, Kirchgatter, LaJoy, McLaughlin, Shefferly, Yack

Members Absent: None

Staff Present: Director Machnik, Judy Bocklage, Director Conklin

Guests Present: Dr. Booher (Plymouth/Canton School Superintendent), Ken Jacobs (Plymouth/Canton School District), Dan Jerome (Project architect, Plymouth High School)

Adoption of Agenda

Supervisor Yack amended the study session portion of the agenda to include Item 3, Canton Leadership Youth and Item 4, Street-lighting Motion by Bennett, supported by Burdziak to adopt the agenda as amended. Motion carried unanimously.

Item 1 Consider Re-approval of Final Plat Approval for Central Park South Subdivision No. 1

Motion by McLaughlin, supported by LaJoy to adopt a resolution re-approving the Final Plat approval for Central Park South Subdivision No. 1. Motion carried unanimously.

RESOLUTION

Re-Approval of the Final Plat Approval for Central Park South Subdivision No. 1

WHEREAS, the project sponsor, Mr. Ken Bullis, has requested final plat approval for Central Park South Subdivision No. 1 to be located on Geddes Road between Beck and Denton Roads (Tax ID#s 115-99-0001-000, part of 115-99-0003-000 and 115-99-0004-000); and,

WHEREAS, the Community Planner and Township Engineer have reviewed the final plat and made a determination that it is generally consistent with the Subdivision Control and Zoning Ordinances;

Now, Therefore, be it resolved that the Board of Trustees does hereby approve the request of the project sponsor, Mr. Ken Bullis, to grant final plat approval for the proposed Central Park South Subdivision No. 1 subject to compliance with any and all state and local development regulations and further subject to any conditions recommended by the Planning and Engineering Divisions, as described in the analysis and recommendation attached hereto and made a part hereof.

Supervisor Yack explained that this is 79.6 acres located north of Geddes Road between Beck and Denton Roads and is zoned R-2, Single Family Residential. An error was found by the engineering firm on the signature page in the proprietor statement. The Wayne County Plat Book is requiring that each of the dates and signatures be corrected in the proper sequence. This means that the final plat must be re-approved by the township board and re-signed by the Clerk. Noting else has changed on the plat. The original final plat approval was granted by the Board of Trustees at the January 9, 2001 meeting. This is simply a formality due the error that occurred.

Study Session Topic

Item 2 Plymouth High School Site Plan

Issues were discussed relative to the overall site plan proposed for the Plymouth High School Facility. Director Machnik explained that construction of a school is quite different than that of a typical project. With a school construction, site plan, site development and construction occur in a much shorter time frame. It is unclear the amount of review local government has with school sites as the review and approval is the responsibility of the state. Because of some concerns regarding a portion of this site, Director Machnik recommended that the board consider an approval that separates the site into two (2) portions: the first would include the educational building, the athletic fields to its east and north; and the parking lots to its south. It would also include the access road which would allow the sewer/water permits process to continue. The second portion would include a JV football/soccer/track field, and a band, and football practice fields and would not be recommended for approval. Meetings have taken place regarding construction of the Plymouth High School with the Administration and with residents of the North Pointe to better understand their concerns. Some of the alternatives for the remaining athletic fields would be to: 1) move the field; or 2) look at modifications to change things like lighting, berm, noise, fence, pedestrian traffic and landscaping.

On Monday, February 26, 2001, a meeting is scheduled to take place with the residents of North Pointe to look at any alternatives. In answering a question posed by Trustee Burdziak, Director Machnik stated the location of the school is not in dispute between the township and the school district. All three schools will utilize the same athletic fields for soccer, football and track with lighted Freshman and Junior Varsity fields, however unlighted practice fields. The berm, as currently planned, will be taller than a six-foot person standing on the tallest bleacher to accommodate the noise level as well as other potential problems.

Board members agreed that they are comfortable with the direction recommended by Director Machnik. Approval consideration will be before the board at the next regularly scheduled meeting of February 27, 2001 and will include the educational component, the athletic fields to the east and north and the parking lots to the south. The remaining athletic fields will come for board approval at a future date.

Item 3 Discussion of expanding the Leadership Canton Program

Supervisor Yack explained that this program is advertised through the schools and the Focus. In this the third year of the program, there are thirty-two (32) in the program. Supervisor Yack would like to build on this program by giving the youth that are the most interested, (however, not exceeding seven), the opportunity for involvement in a mentor program by an elected official of the township. Upon completion of this program, (near the end of June), the youth would receive a more in depth view of Canton Government and shadow an administrator for an hour or so, then introduced to some aspects that would be more interesting for them, (e.g., Public Safety, Web Development, Cable Studio, etc). They would then work with the Clerk, Treasurer and Division Directors. They would then receive a board packet in which the staff has pre-determined possibly three or four items where the youth could actively participate. Prior to the board meeting, the youth with one parent present, would have dinner with the Board of Trustees to determine the role and find the philosophy of the board members. They would then sit with board members during a regularly scheduled meeting and participate in the discussions on those pre-determined issues. Following the meeting, they would complete the evaluation form to be turned in.

Item 4 Discussion of Street-lighting Policy

Supervisor Yack explained that the township's neighborhood coordinator has received questions regarding entrance lighting. This occurs most especially in the older subdivisions where the ingress/egress is onto a main road. Supervisor Yack believes that the issue at hand actually involves two subdivisions each with one street-light. It is believed that since a special assessment would actually cost more than the cost of the light, Supervisor Yack would like to simply take care of erecting the lights. Another option that was given is for the township to pay for the cost of the light and the residents would then agree to participate by paying for the monthly/yearly fee for the cost of operation.

Adjourn

Motion by Bennett, supported by LaJoy at 9:15 p.m. to adjourn this study session. Motion carried unanimously.

The above is a synopsis of the actions taken at the regular board meeting held February 20, 2001. The full text of the approved minutes will be available following the next regular board meeting of February 27, 2001.

3 south Fla. locations fit your wants

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

We are pooling our life savings and want to buy a semi-luxurious home in the south Florida area, hopefully on a waterway. We plan to visit the home during our vacations until we are able to retire. If we can find a nice-enough home, we might retire even sooner than our planned three-year goal. What do you think of our plan to buy a warm weather retirement home?

There are three prime locations which I have recently visited which may be of interest to you.

The Naples area has a series of outlets out of Naples Bay in which there are canals and, in some cases, islands with luxurious homes, many of which are in the several million-dollar range.

Of course, there is the South Beach area around Biscayne Bay where many prominent movie and recording stars reside.

And finally there is the Intra-coastal, around the Deerfield/ Boca Raton area, where lots that once sold for $10,000 now go for $2 million and houses are being torn down similar to the case in Birmingham, Mich., where new multi-million dollar structures are being erected.

A semi-luxurious home in South Florida will not be cheap. The homes have appreciated a lot.

While South Florida is dotted with many glorious areas, these appear to be the three of the prime locations with substantial appreciation in the value of property and resultant costs.

Home owners are pleased by lifestyles and tax breaks

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER
dfunke@ce.hometown.net

Lifestyle and flexibility in using property often top the list for why people prefer home ownership to renting.

More room, garages, basements, yards, gardens, space between residences, basketball hoops, kids, social encounters and a sense of neighborhood generally go hand in hand with ownership.

But there are economic attractions, too, which usually become more apparent when folks grapple with their tax returns at this time of year.

"Most people are aware of the financials, first-time buyers, no," said Robert Cuffe, broker/owner of Remerica Integrity in Livonia.

"I think it's a big revelation," said Cathy Wade, a Realtor with Coldwell Banker Shooltz in Oxford.

"When I see people paying $1,000 for rent on a two-bedroom apartment, they can certainly get into a home for that. They don't understand. They think they have to have 20 percent down. They don't," Wade added.

First-timers seek lifestyle

"First-time home buyers, I think, are looking more for lifestyle, a sense of ownership, put down roots, that's their future," said Michael Rich, a lawyer who specializes in real estate.

"Financial aspects become more important probably after they've been in the house about five years. They see appreciation," Rich added.

Government sets social policy as well as raises revenue with taxes. Promoting home ownership continues to be a major goal.

That's why mortgage interest and residential property taxes are among the few major deductions — offsets to income — available for federal tax purposes.

You already come out ahead if those two deductions together surpass this year's standard deduction of $4,400 for single filers, $7,350 for joint.

"Most people, what they finance, pay in interest. They take the interest deduction, at least people we work with," Cuffe said.

Even if those two deductions together don't exceed the standard threshold, they probably will when state and local income taxes and charitable contributions are added to the mix.

Taxpayers save at least $15 for every $100 they can exceed the standard deduction.

Rent isn't tax deductible on the federal income tax form.

Home owners usually realize appreciation in value of their homes over time, quite substantial here in recent years. Renters don't build equity.

"Almost nothing is absolute and constant," said Mira Fante, a Realtor with Prudential Chamberlain Stiehl in Birmingham. "Home ownership has been the best investment for the working American citizen."

Up to $250,000 of the gain in value at sale is excluded from capital gains tax ($500,000 if filing joint) on primary residences where you've lived for at least two of the previous five years.

That means if you buy for $150,000 and sell for $300,000, the entire gain on your investment in the home would be tax free. The same wouldn't be true for gains on mutual funds, stocks or collectibles.

This tax nugget delivered a few years ago by Congress gives all home owners, including senior citizens who may want to retire and downsize, more options, Rich said.

Selected benefits

Here are a few other benefits home owners may be able to enjoy:

■ Points, a fee paid to obtain a more favorable mortgage rate, are fully deductible in the year you buy a home but must be prorated over the life of a refinancing.

■ Mortgage interest is deductible for two homes, real estate taxes for all residences owned.

■ Interest on home equity loans, which can be used to consolidate other non-deductible debt such as credit cards or car loan, is fully deductible up to $100,000.

■ A spa put into a home for medical reasons on a doctor's prescription is deductible to the extent that its cost minus the increase in property value as the result of its installation, and all other medical and dental expenses, exceed 7.5 percent of adjusted gross income.

■ Condominium association fees, however, aren't deductible.

Some deductions are available for both owners and renters.

Don't forget moving expenses

Moving expenses may offset income on the federal form 1040 if your new workplace is at least 50 miles farther from your old home than the old home was from the old workplace.

Also, proportionate deductions for expenses — mortgage, rent, taxes, utilities — for rooms in a home or apartment used exclusively for business are available for owners and renters.

Finally, Michigan allows a property tax credit — an offset to the state tax owed — to the extent that real estate taxes exceed 3.5 percent of household income.

For tenants, property taxes are presumed to be 20 percent of rent paid.

There's another big plus to home ownership. Some owners eventually pay off the mortgage and own the property free and clear. Tenants always pay rent.

But there are benefits to renting — no maintenance and the ability to come and go with more flexibility. People who rent have access to all their money now. Home owners only have paper profits until they sell.

So lifestyle and the financials both should be considered carefully in a decision whether to buy or rent.

"Go in and talk to a Realtor, ask questions," Wade said. "It's free. At least you know where you stand. It's not the known that deters people from buying, it's the unknown."

APR can mislead home buyer

MORTGAGE BITS

TIM 'TIMBO' PHILLIPS

"What's the interest rate on a 30-year mortgage?" By itself the question means little. What mortgage shoppers usually want to know is how much they will pay for one mortgage as compared to another. With their Truth-in-Lending statement in one hand and this article in the other, they can now shop with confidence instead of confusion.

Truth-in-lending laws require lenders to provide borrowers annual percentage rate, or APR, disclosures. While this calculated figure is supposed to make for a more-informed consumer, it can be confusing. This bewilderingly usually reveals itself in the common borrower question, "Why is my APR so much higher than my actual interest rate?"

APR is the "effective" annual interest rate over the life of the loan. It is based on the mortgage amount and term, its interest rate, and the buyer's closing costs and points. High buyer closing costs on a small mortgage of short duration gives a high APR relative to the note's interest rate. Conversely, if a buyer has no closing costs, no prepaid interest, and pays no points, his APR should equal his interest rate.

Using the APR to mortgage shop is helpful when comparing loans of similar type and term. APRs lose their utility, however, on adjustable-rate products and other mortgage hybrids. Be aware that lenders can vary how they calculate APR with respect to certain closing costs.

APR figures make no provision for changes in your payoff schedule. A 7-1/2-percent mortgage with $2,000 in costs may have the same APR as a 7-3/4 percent loan with no costs. However, if the loans were paid off early, the loan with the higher interest rate would have actually been a better investment. Decreasing the term of a loan that has closing costs will increase its APR.

Making your mortgage decision based purely on APR can lead to a poor financial decision. Use APR in a broad sense, then focus in on the details of each loan type and variation. A good loan officer can help you design a mortgage to best suit your needs.

Use open house to sell home quickly

With a strong real estate market in many metropolitan areas, the home seller is the king of the jungle. You might expect a seller to list a home on the multi-list, and just pounce on the highest offer.

No reason to hold an open house, right? Not exactly.

"Most real estate agents still rely on meeting buyers and their agents face-to-face, and the open house provides those close encounters," says Richard Roll, president of American Homeowners Association. "The open house is an important event that can lead to a sale, especially in real estate markets where homes are in short supply."

'Most real estate agents still rely on meeting buyers and their agents face-to-face, and the open house provides those close encounters.'

Richard Roll
president of American Homeowners Association

Buyers and agents know that once a property hits the market, getting there first might be their best hope of placing a successful bid. Sometimes contracts are

And listings only provide basic information. Nothing can substitute for getting potential buyers and agents in the door to view the property firsthand.

Another approach is the "targeted" open house for real estate agents or other invited guests only. The seller's agent will showcase the listing to other brokers, preferably right when the house first goes on the market.

The seller's agent might make potential buyers sign a guest list. Be patient. First impressions are lasting ones, and the seller's agent needs to get feedback from buyers and brokers.

This exchange of information helps both the buyer and seller. The seller needs to know if the home matches the preferences or triggers the dislikes of potential buyers. If the price is too high, a quick adjustment might lead to a quicker sale.

A questionnaire is a screening tool that saves time, too. Is the house within your budget? Does it have the basic features you need? If the answer is no, then you can skip it and head to the next home on your list.

For more information on any aspect of buying or selling a home, go to www.realestate.com, the Web site for American Homeowners Association.

Defibrillators could go in every building

Last year, Congress passed legislation that effectively required the General Services Administration - the nation's largest owner and leaser of office space - to stock its public buildings with Automated External Defibrillators, devices that can restart a heart that has stopped beating effectively. Last month, the Building Owners and Managers Association International, at the direction of its membership, began a six-month research effort into the benefits and liabilities of proactively placing these devices in private commercial buildings.

BOMA's membership, through a unanimous vote by its board of governors, directed the association to begin research into the use of such devices during its annual winter business meeting in Washington, D.C. Advocates for AEDs pointed out that in addition to GSA, some states and localities require the presence of AEDs in public buildings.

An AED is designed to deliver an electric shock to the heart of a person suffering a heart attack; the shock helps the heart regain a regular beat. To work, the operator simply attaches the machine to the victim, and the machine determines if the victim's heart would benefit from a shock. An operator does not need a medical background but is required to be trained on how to use the machine. Because the machine determines if the victim's heart needs to be shocked, the operator may hook the machine to a person he or she suspects of possibly suffering from a heart attack without endangering the victim's health. The machine will not deliver a shock unless the victim is in cardiac arrest.

"As we investigate this issue, we will not only look for the opportunity to develop education programs on the proper use of AEDs, but we will push for Good Samaritan legislation to provide liability protection for building personnel and other individuals using the equipment," said BOMA President Richard D. Baier, managing director of CB Richard Ellis in Kansas City, Mo.

"Without the specter of a lawsuit should the equipment fail, we believe more building personnel would be willing to get the training, have the devices on-site and would jump in and try to save someone in a cardiac emergency."

During this six-month research period, BOMA International is seeking partners for research, education and training; interested parties should contact Marco Giamberardino, director of codes and standards for BOMA International, at (202) 326-6356 or at mgiambardino@boma.org.

Mortgage rates rise on inflation concerns

Mortgage rates around the country edged up this week as inflation fears spooked financial markets.

The average interest rate on 30-year fixed-rate mortgages rose to 7.12 percent, up from 7.01 percent last week, according to a nationwide survey released by Freddie Mac, the mortgage company.

Rates on 30-year mortgages had dipped below the 7-percent level only two weeks ago but have been rising since that time.

Analysts blamed the increase on concerns about inflation, which were heightened by reports showing rising price pressures at both the wholesale and retail levels.

"Market focus this week shifted from fear of a recession to the threat of inflation," said Robert Van Order, chief economist for Freddie Mac. "Although the inflationary threat is probably temporary, it made the financial markets jittery, leading to higher mortgage rates."

Even with the slight increases, rates are still below levels of a year ago when 30-year mortgages averaged 8.31 percent. Rates hit a five-year high of 8.64 percent in mid-May of last year.

Fifteen-year mortgages, a popular option for refinancing, rose to 6.69 percent last week, up from 6.61 percent the previous week. A year ago, 15-year mortgages averaged 7.92 percent.

On one-year adjustable-rate mortgages, lenders were asking an average initial rate of 6.43 percent, compared with 6.40 percent the week before. Last year, one-year ARMs averaged 6.73 percent.

The rates do not include add-on fees known as points, which averaged around 1 percent of the loan amount for all three types of mortgages.

State updates Condominium Act

BY ROBERT MEISNER
SPECIAL WRITER

Part 2 of 2

The rights of mortgagees have been addressed by recent amendments to the state condominium act.

The law now outlines the procedures associations must follow when a mortgagee is required to vote on an amendment of the condominium documents. A mortgagee is entitled to vote for amendments to the documents that affect the unit subject to the mortgagee's mortgage.

Another revision states that mortgagees don't have to attend a co-owners' meeting where a vote on an amendment of the documents is held. However, the association must solicit the approval of the mortgagees through written ballots.

Co-owners who are in default are specifically excluded from voting.

Changes now allow a co-owner to recover attorney fees from the association if the co-owner wins a default proceeding. A co-owner who sues an association to enforce the terms of the condominium documents may have to pay the association's attorney fees and costs if he loses.

■ Another revision states that mortgagees don't have to attend a co-owners' meeting where a vote on an amendment of the documents is held. However, the association must solicit the approval of the mortgagees through written ballots.

If a co-owner owes the association money, the association may also recover interest, collection and late charges.

The first mortgage holder who is foreclosing on a unit must notify the association within 10 days after the first publication of the notice. If he doesn't, the association can go to court.

When a unit is sold, all unpaid bills must be paid out of the sales price first unless any governmental entity is owed money or a first mortgage exists against the unit.

The right of a developer or co-owner to lease a unit during the development and sales period is controlled by the condominium documents and cannot be changed without developer approval.

Associations must now be notified in writing by co-owners or developers who want to rent their unit. If they don't have a written lease, they must provide the association with the name and address of the potential lessee, the rental amount and proposed due date.

When a co-owner renting his unit is behind on assessments, the association now has additional options. The association can now issue a notice to quit for nonpayment of rent to the tenant and may enforce the notice. The association can bring an action to evict the tenant and an action for money damages against the tenant and co-owner.

Claims arising out of the construction of the common elements or the management, operation, or control of a project may be brought no more than three years from the transitional control day or two years from the date the cause of action accrues, whichever occurs later. New associations need to take stock of the physical state of the condominium project as soon as the co-owners take control of the condominium from the developer.

Overall, the amendments are a substantial improvement to the condominium act, and they should resolve many issues which have arisen over the years.

Existing home sales down in 26 states

Total existing-home sales were down in 26 states in the fourth quarter of 2000 compared with the same period in 1999, the National Association of Realtors reported.

NAR's latest report on existing single-family, apartment condominium and co-operative home sales found that sales rose in 24 states in the fourth quarter of 2000; the District of Columbia reported no change in the fourth quarter compared with a year ago.

The NAR survey showed that nationwide, the seasonally adjusted annual rate of total resales was 5.80 million units in the fourth quarter, down a slight 0.4 percent from the 5.82 million-unit level in the third quarter of 2000. However, it was up 0.4 percent from the pace of 5.77 million units recorded in the fourth quarter of 1999.

The strongest annual increase was in Alaska, where the 2000 fourth quarter resale pace rose 19.0 percent compared to the fourth quarter of 1999. Wyoming, which rose 18.3 percent from a year ago, ranked second. Colorado posted the third highest increase, up 16.8 percent from 1999's fourth quarter sales activity.

While resales fell in just over half of the nation's states, they were generally modest declines, indicating that the market is still healthy in most areas, said NAR President Richard A. Mendenhall. "Home sales essentially have remained stable between the fourth quarters of 1999 and 2000. What's encouraging is that a number of states recorded double-digit increases in home resale activity. This is a clear sign that falling interest rates and demand are working in tandem," he added.

According to Freddie Mac, the average commitment rate on a 30-year conventional fixed-rate mortgage was 7.83 percent in the fourth quarter, down from 8.03 percent in the third quarter; it was 7.64 percent in the fourth quarter of 1999.

David Lereah, NAR's chief economist, said the market is stabilizing as economic activity slows, creating more normal market conditions and a change from a seller's market to a more balanced market. "The drop in mortgage interest rates is helping to sustain the market. Even with a recent slowdown, home sales are being maintained at a relatively high level in historic terms," he said.

Regionally, the Midwest, with a 1.18 million-unit annual rate, was down 2.5 percent in the fourth quarter of 2000 compared with a year earlier. The region was hit hard by severe weather in late 2000, interrupting markets in many areas. Minnesota led the region in total resales for the fourth quarter of 2000, up 2.9 percent from the fourth quarter of 1999. North Dakota ranked second in the region, posting a 1.0 percent increase in the fourth quarter compared to the same period the previous year. Ohio followed, posting a modest gain of 0.9 percent in the fourth quarter compared to the same quarter a year ago, while resale activity in Indiana rose 0.7 percent.
