Cancer center, local Relays forge strong partnership in Plymouth-Canton community

By Brad Kadrich Staff Writer

n nice days, 76-yearold Rosalie Dalton of Canton could walk, if she chose, to get the chemotherapy treatment for the lung cancer with which she was diagnosed back in September 2010.

She doesn't usually walk – on this day, she drove over from her job as an instructor at the local Curves fitness center - but the fact she could hoof it to the St. Joseph Mercy Cancer Center in Canton is one of the things she likes best about being treated there.

Having the center right in her neighborhood, instead of having to go to the hospital's Ypsilanti location, is one of the pluses the cancer center's patients benefit

"It's wonderful ... it's less than five minutes from home," Dalton said. "This is a beautiful facility here. They make you feel like you're part of their family."

That's exactly what St. Joe's officials had in mind when they opened the center in 2010. Doctors had been hearing for a while that people in the community were tired of driving to Ypsilanti, that Plymouth and Canton patients wished for something closer to home.

And for the five years since the center opened, it has had something of a nat-Relay for Life, one of the American Cancer Society's largest fundraisers in the state, and in the smaller, but equally significant, Plymouth Relay for Life.

Plymouth water rate likely to rise

By Matt Jachman Staff Writer

Water seeks its own level and that level is likely going up in Plymouth this summer.

The city commission is expected to approve Monday a water and sewer rate increase of just over 4 percent, from $10.89 to $11.34 for every thousand gallons of water used. The increase would take effect

The new rate would mean a quarterly water and sewer bill of just over $215 for the average residential customer, according to city officials. Average residential usage is 18,000 gallons every three months; quarterly bills also include a service charge based on meter size, with $11.56 (for a fiveeighths-inch meter) being the most common residential service charge.

The retail rate increase, lower than initially proposed, is designed to cover anticipated wholesale increases for water and sewage-treatment service from Detroit and Wayne County, plus the costs Plymouth incurs in running its system. City officials expect to pay just over $789,000 for wholesale water during the 2014-15 fiscal year and more than $1.2 million for sewage treatment.

Limiting retail hikes

In a memo to commissioners, Mark Christiansen, Plymouth's finance director, noted that Detroit has raised its wholesale water rate by 56.4 percent and Wayne County has raised its sewer charges by 83.6 percent over the past 10 years. That compares to retail increases to Plymouth's customers of 24.7 percent for water and 22.3 percent for sewer over the same period, he Hopes of fixing historical museum elevator rising

By Matt Jachman Staff Writer

A bonus fundraising opportunity couldn't have come at a better time for the Plymouth Historical Museum.

The museum's freight elevator, used for moving large and heavy displays into the building and between floors, failed about two months ago and museum officials are just getting a look at the price of fixing it: around $100,000.

The elevator needs a new hydraulic jack, the elevator service company reports, and museum director Elizabeth Kerstens, who is in the process of getting estimates, isn't sure where the money will come from. The elevator isn't at the top of the museum's wish list, Kerstens said Friday - it is the

"It's indispensable," she said.
"We have to have it if we want to have anything done between floors." The next exhibit changeover is planned for June and Kerstens said she isn't sure the elevator will be fixed.

Enter the Ann Arbor Community Foundation, which is planning a 24-hour online "day of giving" Tuesday.

In celebration of its 50th anniversary, AACF has picked 50 nonprofits - arts groups, social services agencies, community groups and more - for which it will match donations made that day. The museum - through the Plymouth Historical Society - is one of the 50, as is the Michigan Philharmonic.

"We're very fortunate to have been selected," she said.

Donors can visit the website www.givelocalannarborarea.org/ Tuesday to earmark gifts for the museum, the Michigan Phil and any of the 48 other organizations listed. The foundation has committed up to $500,000 – up to $10,000 per organization - in matching funds for gifts made that day. Hours for AACF's matching event are 12:01 a.m. to 11:59 p.m. Tues-

Dollar for dollar

If $10,000 is donated to the museum Tuesday, for example, the foundation will equal that amount, meaning $20,000. If more than $10,000 is donated, the museum will get that money, too, along with the $10,000 match.

Beth Stewart, executive director of the Michigan Philharmonic, said the orchestra is excited about the bonus fundraiser.

"We have the chance to fund a large portion of our budget for education programs, which include programs for several school districts for over 6,000 students, as well as our Michigan Philharmonic Youth Orchestra programs," she wrote in an email.

Kerstens doesn't quite know what to expect from the effort. "It just depends on how many people are feeling generous that day," she said. Kerstens has been doing her best to spread the word about it. The minimum gift is $10. Would-be donors who aren't online or aren't comfortable making a charitable donation via computer can bring a check to the museum Monday or Tuesday, Kerstens said, and the museum will convert it into an online Tuesday donation. That has been approved by AACF officials, she said. The museum is closed Monday and Tuesday, but staff will be on hand to accept donations from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday, Kerstens said. The museum is at 155 S. Main, Plymouth.

Annual Postal Carrier Food Drive benefits Salvation Army food pantry

By Brad Kadrich Staff Writer

Barb Mitchell has heard the statistics that say for many children, the meals they eat while at school are the best, if not the only, meals they get all day.

And she knows those meals go away during the summer, once kids are out of school. That's why Mitchell, representing the Plymouth Post Office, is so anxious to help organize the 2014 Postal Carrier Food Drive to benefit the Plymouth Salvation Army's food pantry.

The 22nd annual collection takes place Saturday, May 10, in both Plymouth and Canton. Postal carriers delivering the mail that day along with dozens of off-duty carriers and other volunteers - will collect non-perishable food items left at the mailbox by local residents.

And, Mitchell pointed out, some of the folks who have traditionally donated to the pantry are now the ones needing its services.

"The need is even greater than ever, Mitchell said. "A lot of carriers have their families come in and help, others come in on their day off and help. We all work together to get this done. If we don't take care of our own, who's going to take care of them?

Monique Shorter, one of the coordinators at the Canton Post Office, said volunteering for this kind of event "has a positive effect on the community."

"Helping someone in their time of need is the greatest thing you could ever do," Shorter said.
"We enjoy helping others who are in need. You never know, you or someone else might need help, as well.'

The Plymouth Salvation Army food pantry serves the needy in Plymouth, Canton, Northville and Belleville. Officials there say the struggling economy continues to affect those who have lost jobs and homes and have struggled to make ends meet. A startling trend is the increase in calls from seniors, couples without children and single adults in Plymouth and Canton.

"This is our main food-raiser for the year and sets the tone for the balance of the year," said Laurie Aren, director of family and community outreach for the Plymouth Salvation Army. "Our food pantry remains 90-percent donordriven."

Residents can put non-perishable food items in bags and leave them by the mailboxes Saturday morning. Carriers prefer plastic to glass bottles.

All food collected stays in the local area. Because state and federal funding for utility assistance has been greatly reduced, Aren said, the Salvation Army can help with food "easily and quickly," allowing folks to use money previously used for food to pay utilities.

Teachers chosen as summer scholars

By Brad Kadrich Staff Writer

Only 80 teachers from around the country have been chosen by the National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Scholars.

Two of them are from Plymouth-

Canton High School teacher Michele Smiley and Pioneer Middle School teacher Jennifer Reid-Lamb will attend two of the 17 NEH Landmarks of American History and Culture workshops. Smiley will attend her workshop in August, while Reid-Lamb is headed to the July workshop. The workshops are conducted at The Henry Ford in Dearborn.

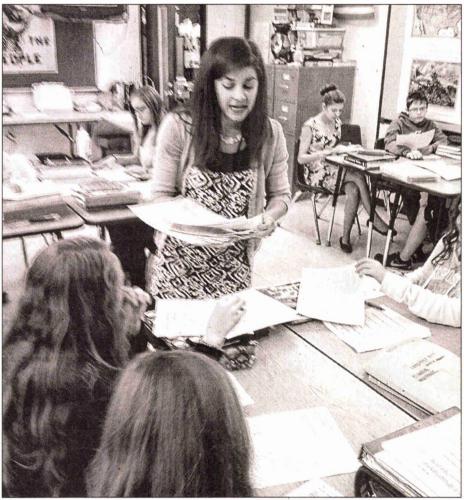

Smiley, who has taught in the district for more than 20 years, including more than 10 at Canton High School, said in her application she "never gets tired of learning about my subject

"I became a history teacher because I love history and its application to the world of today," Smiley said.
"The more I teach and the more I learn, the more I realize there is so much more to know. I consider myself a life-long learner and always strive to improve myself as a teacher of the young because they deserve everything I could possibly offer them."

Smiley currently teaches American history to 10th-graders. Her curriculum starts at the Industrial Revolution of the mid- to late 1800s and continues to the present day. She told the committee in her letter she's been teaching this part of American history for the last 12 years, but found "that the particular topic being offered is one in which I have a few weaknesses.

She told of a recent visit to The Henry Ford with her exchange student/daughter from France. They chose to visit the museum as her engineer father was in the U.S. visiting and was very interested in the engineering history of the Industrial Revolution.

Largely, she said, the NEH summer scholar program is a chance to increase her content knowledge and classroom lessons.

Reid-Lamb said she's "very excited" to have the opportunity to attend.

"My goal is always to be a better teacher," Reid-Lamb said. "Working with other professionals in the field and historians improves my content knowledge and my historical thinking. Driver gets probation for backing car into crowd, injuring two

Staff Writer

A Canton man has been placed on probation for backing a car toward a crowd and injuring two people after a dispute escalated outside the Shell gas station near Michigan Avenue and Lotz.

Winchester was charged for an incident last December, when Canton police say he got into an argument after someone in a crowd of people had a conversation with a woman - the mother of his child who was with him at the Shell station.

Detective Sgt. Chad Baugh has said Winchester was accused of getting into a vehicle and driving in reverse toward the crowd, causing minor injuries to two people before fleeing the scene.

Winchester's guilty plea avoided a trial that had been scheduled to begin in April in Judge Hathaway's courtroom. He had earlier maintained his innocence and indicated he was fearful for his safety and that of his female companion when the incident occurred.

The incident happened in early December, but Baugh said an arrest wasn't made until Christmas Eve, when Canton police went to Winchester's residence to investigate an unrelated matter.

Anti-bullying talk rallies Rotarians at Livonia meeting

By Julie Brown Staff Writer

Rudy Lawson, who introduces himself as an "EDUtainer," knows about bullying first-hand.

"I was bullied in my household by my father," said Lawson, who now visits many schools, churches and other forums to share his "Mr. Rudy" message of selfesteem and anti-bullying. "The younger we reach them, the better."

The Detroit resident visited the Livonia A.M. Rotary on Wednesday to share his message. "Can we all just get along?" the African American Lawson asked his mainly white Livonia audience. "I got that from Rodney King."

The speaker touched on the recent controversy with Los Angeles Clippers owner Donald Sterling's racist comments. "They can snap back from the bullying or any negatives in their life," said Lawson, who also shared a clip from the movie The Help showing a black housekeeper sharing a positive self-esteem message with her white toddler

"I say preschool through prison," he said of sharing his message, noting it's especially vital in the African-American community. "A lot of them are talking basketball, celebrities, rappers," he added of the young people he meets.

Lawson shared a message he received from a woman, 22, doing her student teaching who'd heard his presentation in second grade. She now wanted to use his teachings in her classroom and thanked him.

"All ages need to feel good about themselves,' he said. "That's what's going to change the world."

He uses "multi-sensory learning" including music, linguistics, movement and more. Lawson got the Rotarians moving with a song with movement that had a refrain, "I am smart, I am successful and I can be anything I choose to be."

Generations meet at John Glenn High School's USO-style dance to honor country's veterans

By Sue Mason Staff Writer

James Parks admits that his surviving the Korean War was because of the providence of God. The 88-year-old Livonia resident was the only survivor of his unit that had been sent to the Yalu River to check that it was all quiet.

"Thirty-two men were killed; they didn't know the Chinese had crossed the river into North Korea," Parks said. "I wasn't there. I'd been assigned elsewhere.'

Parks served in both World War II and the Korean War, due in part to his re-enlisting each of the four times he was discharged. He had a good reason for doing that. The government wouldn't allow him to bring his Japanese-born wife Sachiko "Rose" home until 1950.

He was among the 13 men and women who were the guests of honor at the USO-style dance John Glenn High School staff and students recently held to honor Korean War veterans and defense workers. The dance was a reprise of one held last year for World War II veterans, at which Parks also was a guest. He came dressed for that dance in his uniform and wore it again this year.

"This jacket is close to my heart," the Livonia resident said. "I wore this when I married my wife in 1946. I met her while I was in Japan.'

History comes alive

The event was organized by history teacher Michele Anderson, whose students interviewed veterans and created oral histories that will be given to the Library of Congress. They also made posters, honoring the men and women who served during the "Forgotten War."

Anderson started doing the dance and interviews last year with the help of a humanities grant. Even before the last note had been played, she was thinking about doing the Korean War this year.

"This is about giving students the opportunity to meet first-hand what they heard about in history books," said Anderson, who was recently named Michigan History Teacher of the Year. "This was about bringing together two very different generations.

Anderson got help with the project from the social studies department, the music department and the JROTC. The high school jazz band, under the direction of Scott Cramer, and Glenn Singers provided music for the evening, while the JROTC presented the colors for the ceremony. Students and staff in the William D. Ford Career Technical Center's culinary arts program helped serve desserts and drinks for learn dances of the era for the event.

Dottie Witt of Westland came to the dance last year dressed as Rosie the Riveter. This year she came as a car hop, using black marker to transform her athletic shoes into saddle shoes and wearing a Detroit Street Railways conductor's coin changer around her waist.

Last year, she was there to honor the World War II veterans; this year, she was an honored guest like Parks.

"I thought there'd be a lot of poodle skirts, so I dressed as a car hop," said Witt, an Army corporal who served for two years, traveling around the country to encourage men and women to enlist. "I was a recruitment tool. I played softball and tried to get more men and women to join. I worked until I got married and then I got out."

Witt was an outstanding ball player and was offered a professional contract with a women's league. She had to turn it down.

"I didn't tell anyone I was pregnant until the end of the ball season, she said. "I wanted to be in the Olympics. I was voted the MVP in the 3rd Army."

A real Rosie

Across the room was a real Rosie the Riveter, 93-year-old Ruth Webb of Wayne. She was 23 years old when she worked at the Willow Run Bomber Plant. She and her sister heard about the plant and decided to go there to see about a job.

"They talked to us and we started work the next day," she said. "I worked eight hours a day riveting on the side of the plane. I worked there until the plant closed in 1945.'

In addition to the festivities inside the school cafeteria, students also created posters, honoring veterans and defense workers and as propaganda pieces for the war.

The boards lined the hallway and were like a roll call of residents who served in the military men like Robert "Curly" Smith, who helped run patrols along the 38th parallel during his two years in the Army, and Jerry Peacock, who served in the Navy from 1950-53 and was assigned to an attack cargo ship, the U.S.S. Libra.

"This is one of those events that's all about education," John Glenn Principal David Ingham told the crowd. "Our students get to feel and see history face to face. This also is a small token to give back to you for your service. I know many of the veterans had a great time talking to the students. I hope this can continue to be an event at John Glenn High School. I hope everyone comes back and helps continue to honor all of our veter-

W-W Children's Drama Club presents 'Peter Pan JR.'

By Sue Mason Staff Writer

There will be no flying, but Wendy, Michael and John will still make it to Never Land when the Wayne-Westland Children's Drama Club takes the stage Thursday and Friday, May 8-9, at Wayne Memorial High School's Stockmeyer Auditorium on to present Peter Pan JR.

Students from six Wayne-Westland elementary and middle schools are involved in the production, including the younger sister of Emily Blair, who asked her kindergarten teacher to do a play.

"I've always done plays in my kindergarten classes," Anne McKolay said. "It was Emily's last year at Schweitzer and she asked if I'd do Wizard of Oz. Her mom Jenny is co-founder of the

"I wasn't surprised she did it," Jenny Blair said. "She's the one person I know who could make it happen."

McKolay selected the play in January and has been working with a cast of 55 students, who have been rehearsing on the stage at Adams Upper Elementary School. She had thought about doing Beauty and the Beast this year, but changed to Peter Pan Jr. "because of the music."

"It had just come out. I listened to the music and I really liked it," she

True to the Disney film and J.M. Barrie's enchanting play, Disney's Peter Pan JR. is a modern version of the timeless tale about a boy who wouldn't grow up. It includes such classic Disney songs as Following the Leader, You Can Fly and The Second Star on the Right.

McKolay has gotten plenty of help with the production. Parent David Green made the sets for show and Leigh Goyings is serving as the musical and sound director.

"It's nice to have a musical director," McKolay said. "We've worked on the songs a lot and the dialogue. This is a Junior Broadway production. Because it's a junior play, it has a lot more dialogue."

She also has gotten help in dressing the cast with the help of Forever After Productions in Canton and Hartland Community Players.

"They've been a huge help in costuming the entire cast," she said. "This is an unusually bigger cast and they've been a tremendous help. It was one less thing I had to worry about.3

Megan Blair plays Captain Hook with Brianna Sexton as Peter Pan in the Wayne-Westland Children's Drama Club production of Disney's "Peter Pan JR." May 8-9.

Even the technical crew at Wayne Memorial High School is helping

Having a small stage to rehearse on is a step up from previous years, when the cafeteria, hall-ways and IMC at Schweitzer were used. The production moves to Stockmeyer this week for one last rehearsal and a dress rehearsal before the first show at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Students did practice at Stockmeyer twice during spring break, working with mics and on their blocking.

"It was their first time there and they were excited, but they settled down," she said.
"They're ready now."

Blair said working on the production has been fun. It's the reason she keeps coming back, that and Emily's sister Megan, who is playing Captain Hook.

"The day of the show, get nervous," she said. "It's so much fun and so much work goes into it that there's no time to be nervous."

With the drama club now including six schools - Franklin and Stevenson middle schools, Adams Upper Elementary, Schweitzer, Wildwood and Walker-Winter in Canton McKolay is looking to take the club to the next level.

"Next year, I want to upgrade to the Wayne-Westland Children's Theater," she said.

just a stone's throw from the cancer center in Heritage Park, a juxtaposition that makes the need evident. Hundreds of people affected by cancer - including survivors, family members and friends - are walking within yards of a center that benefits from the very money they're rais-

"The Canton Cancer Center, with its advanced treatment options, programs and services, and American Cancer Society Cancer Resource Center is a prime example of how the dollars raised by relayers are helping our loved ones right here in our community every day," said Abby Stonerook, the American Cancer Society partner who helps organize both the Plymouth and Canton relay events, as well as similar events in places like Westland, Garden City and Wayne. "The cancer center is a closer option for most of my constituents and provides not only treatment, but programs and services like 'Look Good Feel Better,' a program to teach women going through treatment how to combat the physical side effects of cancer and an in-house American Cancer Society Cancer Resource Center.'

The need for a cancer center closer to home is borne out by the patient listing: The center treats maybe 50 patients a day, with some 25-30 of those getting radiation treatment, according to radiation oncologist Dr. Salam

And when it decided to build it five years ago, St. Joe's decided to staff it with local residents, giving the center a real "hometown" feel.

"Employees are from Plymouth and Canton. ... We like that because they know more about the community," said Jafar, who has been with St. Joe's for 25 years. "It makes a big difference to the patients and their families. You're serving the community where 75 to 80 percent of the (cancer) patients have a curable (form of) cancer."

Penna, who said it was an enormous help to have the center nearer to home, was at the cancer center recently for her final treatment. She hasn't missed a lot of work, though the treatments have been very tiring. And moving forward without cancer is

"From when I first started, it has changed so much," said Plymouth resident Jennifer Man, who has been a radiation therapist for 13 years. "We're able to deliver a higher dose to the actual tumor and we're seeing a higher cure rate."

In addition to its proximity to Plymouth and Canton patients, Mann said the cancer center has other attractions. Kehrier had a lumpectomy and some nodes removed, then started chemotherapy treatments. She took a month off after 16 chemo sessions, then began radiation treatment.

As she processed the diagnosis, she thought of her mother, who died of cancer at the age of 75, and her brother, who died of cancer at the tender age of 27. She remembered the grace and dignity with which they both handled it and followed suit.

"I had two good examples of how to handle it," Kehrier said. "From the time I found the lump, I didn't have any bad feelings. I just knew I was going to be OK.
I've been positive all my life. I just didn't have any bad feelings at all. I worried more about the people around me."

Need Brakes?

ast week, I had the privilege of speaking at the Observer & Eccentric Media Spring

Expo. One of the questions, regarding longterm care, is important enough to answer again

A woman in the audience said the premium on her long-term care policy was increased by 70 percent. She asked if it made sense to cancel the policy or should she just pay the premium.

It is important to understand that this is not something unusual. Long-term care insurance companies over the last few years have significantly increased

How to cut on long-term care pre-premiums. As someone gets up in age and closer to needing long-term care, that is when the insurance companies choose to raise the premiums. That being said, there is no one right answer to this question. It depends upon your individual situation.

The first thing to do when you get this type of letter from your longterm care insurance company is to decide whether the insurance is still necessary.

The question isn't whether you needed the coverage when you bought the policy but, rather, do you need it

If you don't need the coverage, then canceling the policy may be the appropriate course of action. After all, longterm care insurance is no different than any other type of insurance. The issue always is do you need the coverage

On the other hand, if you need ongoing longterm care coverage but the premium increase is financially difficult, then an alternative is to look for ways to restructure your current policy. Restructuring may make your premium more affordable.

One of the changes to consider is increasing the elimination period (the deductible on the insurance policy). In most insurance policies, the deductible is a dollar amount (such as in auto insurance, where it's $500 or $1,000). With long-term care, it is a period of time. By increasing the waiting period (to 90 or 180 days), it should lower the premium.

Another option is to look at the time period that benefits are paid. Many people may have lifetime benefits. By switching to a three-year or a five-year benefit period, it may substantially save on premiums. If you get a notice from your long-term care insurance company and your premiums are going up substantially, don't panic, take your time, analyze the situation and make the best decision based upon the facts as they exist today.

Good luck! Rick Bloom is a fee-only financial adviser. If you would like him to respond to your questions, please email rick@bloomasset management.com.

Duhl happy to return to Salem sidelines

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

Now that his two-month coaching exile is over, Scott Duhl is ready to mend fences and get back to leading Salem's varsity girls soccer team.

Parents and district officials want to do the same, following Wednesday's announcement that Duhl will return to the sidelines for back-to-back games Monday against Livonia Churchill and Tuesday against South Lyon East.

To get back up to speed,

Duhl plans on having meals and meetings with the team and even send a thank-you card to George Kithas, who coached the Rocks on an interim basis following Duhl's firing from the post in mid-March.

"I think at this point of the season, it's kind of a dash to prepare ourselves for districts and things like that," Duhl said during a meeting with soccer parents at Salem High School. "I still think there's room to bring the team, more into team cohesion.

"And not just the varsity team, but really kind of the whole Salem program."

The team was 3-3-0 entering Thursday night's game against South Lyon. Salem also faces South Lyon East on Friday in what will be Kithas' final game at the helm.

A groundswell of public support came Duhl's way after his sudden removal from the coaching job by CoachEZ—a third-party contractor used by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools to fill non-faculty coaching positions.

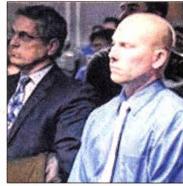

Duhl's departure stemmed from his apparent use of inappropriate language around a non-varsity player.

More than 100 people turned out in support of Duhl at a March 25 school board meeting and varsity players later played a game wearing jerseys with his name on the back.

Moving forward

Salem athletic director Tom Willette said Wednesday that Duhl's mid-season reinstate-

With his roster finally replenished following spring break, Canton varsity girls softball coach Al White promptly watched his team fall 3-1 Monday against South Lyon East.

But White figured it might take a day or two for several key players to shake off the rust from their time off and his patience was rewarded Wednesday when the Chiefs swept a KLAA South Division doubleheader against visiting Livonia Franklin.

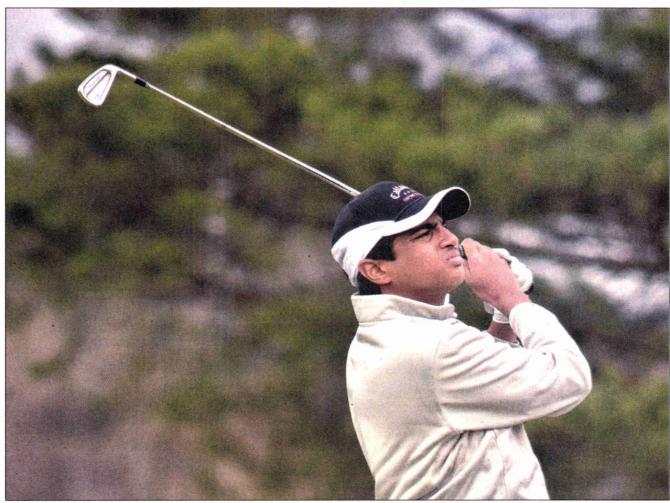

Canton won 6-2 in the opener behind a complete game performance by Hannah Shuler and multi-hit games by Elizabeth Yager (2-for-4), Paige Aresco (2-for-3) and Halee Warren (2-for-3). Coming through with a clutch pinch-hit single was freshman Peyton Philbeck.

Shuler allowed just six hits and benefited from an early offensive surge by her teammates. It was 3-0 after one frame and Bryn Birchler's triple in the second helped

Chiefs share first at conference meet but lose tie-breaker; 'Cats one stroke back

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

With a new format for the Kensington Conference varsity boys golf tournament, teams came out Friday to Fox Creek Golf Course in Livonia knowing a bad day on the links would not doom them in their championship quests.

Teams now have the rest of their dual matches to play catch up — if they need to — in advance of the May 27 association championship meet at Chemung Hills Golf Course in Howell.

Even so, Plymouth-Canton Educational Park teams fared very well at what really is the main kickoff to the season. Canton and Novi finished tied for first place with 301 strokes, although Novi won the fifth-player tiebreaker. Each team's totals were comprised of their top four players'

"We didn't play very well in Monday's event out at Paint Creek," Canton coach Tom Alles said. "We bounced back and shot very well today as a team and with Donnie (Trosper) being medalist that always helps."

Lancers breeze past Eagles in MIAC matchup

Speedy PCA meets its match in even speedier Oakland

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

Throughout the early season, Plymouth Christian Academy varsity girls soccer coach Nathan Yates has pointed to his squad's speed as a key attribute.

Then, the Eagles met their natch.

On a cool and blustery Thursday afternoon, the host Eagles could not slow down Auburn Hills Oakland Christian from the get-go.

The visiting Lancers — who pushed the pace and sent 32 shots in the direction of PCA freshman goalkeeper Aliyah Pries — routed the Eagles 8-0 in a Michigan Independent Athletics Conference - Blue Division tilt.

Conversely, Oakland Christian senior goalkeeper Madi

Bottiaux didn't have many tough chances to handle en route to her shutout. She did have to scramble to beat junior Sarah Durham on one try in the first half.

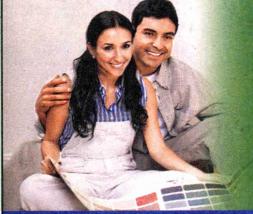

When senior center-mid Alyssa Johns scored with 13:40 remaining in the second half to make it an eight-goal margin, officials called the game due to the mercy rule.

Sparking Oakland Christian was freshman forward Victoria Lucido, with four goals

Smooth and steady for Canton's Hazergian

Senior pitcher goes distance, fans 14 Patriots in 3-0 victory

By Evan Paputa Correspondent

Canton slid by Livonia Franklin 3-0 Wednesday afternoon, largely thanks to Nick Hazergian's 14strikeout pitching performance.

The Chiefs then completed the doubleheader sweep with a 3-2 victory, improving to 11-4 overall and 7-2 in the KLAA South Division (tied with Plymouth).

"Nick came out firing strikes and didn't walk a batter. He was just on his game," said Canton head coach Mark Blomshield about Hazergian's Game

Hazergian used a solid pregame bullpen session to launch himself to his complete-game, whitewashing shutout of the visiting Patriots.

"It was just one of those days where I just felt it. I got into the bullpen early in the day and it was probably the best bullpen I've thrown all year. Today felt really good," Hazergian said.

For most of the game, Canton's offense was run-of-the-mill. But the Chiefs capitalized for an offensive burst in the second inning in which they scored all three of their runs. Four consecutive hits paved way for the three-run outburst.

Senior Jake Boucher led off the inning with a single up the middle. The next batter, senior Chris Ferrill, sacrificed Boucher to second base with a picture-perfect bunt that rolled about six feet down the third-base-line.

Sophomore Noah Spencer followed Ferrill's sacrifice with a bloop single on a routine pop-up that was misplayed by the centerfielder.

With a 1-1 count to the next Canton batter, junior Scott Bazner, Boucher and Spencer executed a textbook double steal to get to second and third base, respectively.

Bazner then connected on a 1-2 pitch and drove it into shallow left field to score Boucher and Spencer to put the Chiefs up 2-0. Following a throw to the plate, Bazner advanced to second

"We have been working at it in practice. Up the middle and to the other side with runners in scoring position. He got a nice pitch and handled it right up the middle and scored two runs," Blomshield said. "It's nice to see that when we work on it in practice and (then) apply it into a

"I blame that a lot on me because I showed that I was hurting. I wasn't really on top of my game. Coach brought me aside after that inning and told me I had to fight through it," Franklin senior starting pitcher Adam Carver

Canton senior lefthanded pitcher Nick Hazergian was dominant against Franklin Wednesday. BILL BRESLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Carver was "hurting" because of a few innings pitched the day before, according to Franklin head coach Matt Four-

"Yesterday he [Carver] actually threw two innings for us to finish up the Churchill game. We asked him to come out today and give us what we got. He was a little bit sore to start the game, but bulldogged through it," Fournier said.

The three runs in the third inning were all that Carver gave up in what turned out being his first loss in two seasons of pitching on Franklin's varsity squad.

Franklin's Mitchell Gonyaw and Dan Johnson had back-to-back singles with two outs in the top of the second inning, but they were the only two hits the Patriots could muster until Tyler Camp's leadoff base-hit in the top of the seventh.

'As a pitcher you just get into a rhythm and just go," Hazergian said.

Behind Hazergian, the Canton defense made every play they needed to. But in the fifth inning, junior second baseman Nick Schnur made a play that stood out above the rest, in Hazergian's mind.

Gonyaw's tough grounder up the middle was snagged by a diving Schnur, and thrown on a line to first baseman Ferrill. Schnur's diving play encouraged the Chiefs to finish the final innings strong.

"Nick Schnur made an amazing play. It really set the tempo for the game. When you make a play like that, it doesn't let the other team get up," Hazergian said.

Canton completed the sweep by scoring the game-winning run in the bottom of the seventh as Nick Romanauski started the rally with a single. He advanced to third on a wild pitch coupled with a Franklin throwing error and came home on Weston Price's suicide squeeze bunt.

Noah Spencer, who pitched a scoreless seventh in relief of starter Brent Mattson, got the victory. Mattson allowed just three hits, walked six and struck out 11.

Franklin starter Jake Fry, who took the loss, also went the distance allowing five hits and two walks.

The loss dropped the Patriots, who could muster only six hits in the two games, to 11-5-1 overall and 5-4 in the KLAA

Baseball Wildcats back from break, win three straight

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

Plymouth jumped out of the blocks after spring break with an impressive three-game winning streak.

According to Wildcats varsity baseball coach Jason Crain, it all has to do with fundamentals.

"We are really starting to jell as a team,' said Crain, following Wednesday's doubleheader sweep of Westland John Glenn. "We are playing strong defensive baseball and we are fundamentally strong.'

Having outstanding

pitching and a number of players swinging the bats well doesn't hurt,

On Monday, Plymouth (14-7 overall, 7-2 in the KLAA South Division) stymied Livonia Stevenson 7-1 behind a complete-game effort from pitcher Derek Ebeling, who Crain said was "dominating."

Ebeling actually trailed most of the way, until Plymouth went on a seven-run rampage in the seventh. Keying that crucial rally were clutch hits by Patrick Downing and AJ Convertino.

Two days later, the Wildcats rolled to 6-1 and 14-2 victories over the Rockets.

In the opener, Cameron Stella hurled another complete game with offensive help from Seth Hubbard (2-for-4), Jared Merandi (2-for-4) and Matt Busch (1-for-3).

Game 2 saw pitchers

Kevin Anthony and Downing combine for a solid outing as Plymouth won in a five-inning

Trosper was one of four Chiefs to crack the 80-stroke mark. Scoring 76s were Noah Lindlbauer and freshman Suhas Potluri, while Chris Dooley tallied a 78.

"That's the thing," Alles said. "Consistency and having four scores in the 70s will always put you up near the top. Alles lauded Potluri's performance in his first varsity tournament. "He's been a pleasant surprise," Alles said. "He has a lot of competitive golf experience, even as a young golfer. And I think that paid off for him today and made a difference for him.' Plymouth came up just short of the top, but the Wildcats had strong showings from Evan Chipman (73), Chris Kozler (74) and John Tatti (75) "Coming off our spring break, this is really our first week wnere we ve played, Plymouth coach Dan Young said. "... We're getting our league started this week, trying to get off to a good start. We'll get in the mix and settle in and see where we're at compared to all the other good teams is where we're at.' Salem coach Ryan Nimmerguth's team was led by Franco Papp (80), with Brady Cole and Nick Danis each finishing with 82s.

"We were middle of the pack, fourth in our division today," Nimmerguth noted. "We're capable of shooting better, but that's better than we have been shooting. We're trending in the right direction.

Salem came off losses earlier last week against South Lyon East and Novi.

More chances

The newfangled points system — which actually made its debut last fall for the KLAA girls golf season works like starting a conference bank account that will be tabulated and cashed in after the Chemung Hills tournament.

Because Novi won the tie-breaker, it garnered 11 points from the tourney while Canton tallied 10. Plymouth checked in with a 9-point take. Teams came away with one point for every opponent they defeated.

For every subsequent win at a KLAA dual meet (including crossovers), one point is added to the team's total and the May 27 meet will tell the final tale for division, conference and association championships.

In previous years, teams won or lost the conference title solely on how they did at the end-of-season meet. "In the past, if you had a bad day at the conference tournament, you were done," Nimmerguth explained. "Now, you've got more of an opportunity. Today, you're just trying to accumulate points. By beating teams in the conference you're accumulating a point for each team you're beating.

"... Going into that (May 27) meet, you'll know what you got to do to possibly win the conference and the association."

Alles said coaches voted to change the for-mat and "I think we're all pretty happy with it. Now you have two chances, which I think is a little more fair."

"It will help you in the long run because it's just a continual point total, until you get to that last day," Young added. "And then that's a point total on top of it, but you could come in with higher points than somebody else and you can have a better chance.

"It's a way of giving you more opportunity to get points and to move up or down the ladder."

said. "I think this was all based originally on what the issue was and we resolved that with Scott and that's why we're bringing him back."

Willette told the small gathering that he met Monday with Duhl and things went smoothly enough for the reinstatement.

"I think we are in a good place, we're ready to move forward in a positive direction," Willette said. "What's happened is sort of a learning experience for everyone. And we're ready to Duhl, meanwhile, said the public reaction to his dismissal was "pretty overwhelming, especially in a tough time for me as well as the program. And I think (it was) for everybody — the athletic department, the community, the players, the parents.

"I guess I have never experienced anything like that before. Somebody made a comment to me, 'How does it feel to attend your own funeral?' Because, you know, usually you don't hear all these people saying nice things about you.'

The ordeal, he continued, changed him both as a person and coach.

"Absolutely, I think in a positive way," Duhl said. "Sometimes I think you get comfortable in a it's ever a positive thing when there are negative things that come out when you try to spin it into a positive thing. That's not only how I'm going to handle the rest of this season, but even the other stuff I do in soccer is just a little different."

In addition to coaching Salem's varsity girls soccer team, he is head coach of the school's varsity boys soccer team and is a longtime coach with the Michigan Wolves/Hawks Soccer Club, composed of elite boys and girls travel squads.

Kithas is on board with the transitional phase.

"I spoke to George yesterday, I met with Scott on Monday," Willette said. "I said this has been in the works for a while. But one of my key things was talking to George first, making sure that he heard it

Under review

Beth Savalox, P-CCS director of K-12 activities and athletics, was asked following the meeting about whether Duhl's reinstatement meant the district had misgivings about the original decision to let the coach go.

'So when Scott said it's a growth process, it's a growth process for everybody," Savalox said. "Last year, the community spoke about our athletic department and said we could improve on communications, we can improve on facilities and on administrative structure. We're working on all of that.

"One thing we realized in this process is how explicit we need to be making standards for coaches and that we need to articulate those and Chiefs broke open a 2-0 lead with an eight-run fifth inning to seize a 10-0 mercy-rule-shortened victory. Pitching the shutout was MacKenna Payne.

"The key was having the whole team together, and playing," said White, in his first season as Canton head coach following a storied coaching career at Madonna University. "We had them Monday but they didn't get back (from spring break) until Sunday.

Part of the team, bolstered by a number of call-ups from the junior varsity, did go 3-2 on April 26 at the Macomb Tournament.

Not there yet

Still, it remains to be seen whether Canton (10-3 overall, 7-1 in the KLAA South) will now get into a winning groove.

With ongoing weather issues and a dicey schedule so far, the Chiefs have not been as consistent as White would like the team to

On top of all that, No. 1 pitcher Hanna Warren has been out for a couple weeks with a sprained ankle. She is expected back within a

In the second inning, Kaitlin Keys (2-for-3) doubled and eventually scored on a sacrifice fly to center by Halee Warren against Franklin starting pitcher Alaina DeFrain.

Canton made it 2-0 in the fourth, with Keys lining a double down the left-field line and advancing to third on a throwing error. She came in on Nicole Clark's single.

The Patriots (3-10, 2-6) twice put the first two batters on against Payne, but could not deliver any runs. Brooke Garbarino and Lauren Michael smacked successive singles to open the top of the fifth as Franklin tried to cut into the tworun deficit.

Those runners were left stranded, however, as Payne got the next three hitters.

The Chiefs then sent 11 batters to the plate in the bottom of the fifth, pushing across eight runs and finishing off the Patriots due to the mercy rule.

Salem makes winning statement in bid for title

Carter's five goals pace Rocks attack in 14-8 victory over Chiefs

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

Salem's path to winning its first-ever girls lacrosse conference championship got a bit clearer thanks to Wednesday's 14-8 trouncing of campus rival Canton at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

The Rocks improved to 11-1 overall and 7-1 in the Kensington Conference, while Canton dipped to 5-4 and 5-2.

"We're thinking a little bit about it," said Salem head coach Dave Medley about a potential conference title (which also would be the first in Park history for girls la-crosse). "We got Novi and South Lyon in front of us (on the schedule), very challenging teams."

Canton head coach Dave Bower wasn't ready to concede anything, however.

"The conference isn't decided yet, but this is a big blow for sure," Bower said. "We'll do the best we can. Medley really had his girls ready for this game and they played hard. Hats off to them, they're a tough team."

Bringing an aggressive style to the offense, Salem eclipsed the 10goal mark against the Chiefs for the first time ever. The Rocks outshot Canton 26-13, peppering goalkeeper Melissa Neal.

'I'm going to tell you, over the years the toughest goalie I've ever played against has always been the Canton goalie," Medley continued. "We were fortunate to hold them to single digits, we haven't given up double digits yet this year.

"And it's the first time we've ever put double digits up on them (Chiefs) in history."

Bower said the Rocks seemingly wanted it more than the Chiefs did.

"They got to the ground balls and we didn't," Bower stressed. "Whoever gets the ground balls wins the game. It's about possession and we didn't get possession of the ball enough tonight.

"Our girls didn't quit but we just couldn't get enough ground balls to make a difference. They have a good team and they were effective on the offensive end and we weren't that effective tonight. We didn't have a great game.'

Both teams traded goals early on and it was a 4-4 contest when Salem senior Jenna Carter scored the first of her five goals with 8:50 remaining to kick off a surge of four goals in six minutes to make it 8-4.

Settling down

Carter said she couldn't remember much about her tie-breaking tally, but noted that the team dealt with some early game jitters.

"We were really nervous because this was like the biggest game of the year," Carter noted. "For me, I usually lay back a little back during the games, but this game I just wanted to go for the ball any chance I could get, make sure we got the ball and got possession."

Salem led 9-6 at halftime and padded that edge to 13-6 by the 10minute mark of the second half on a penalty shot by Carter.

"You get it in the eight-yard, run in and shoot the ball (on penalty shots)," Carter continued. "For me, I like to try to take a couple steps and throw the ball as fast as I can at an open spot in the net and hope it goes in. You don't have much time.'

Canton showed some pushback with back-toback markers by Kelsey Tucker and Annika Nuler to slice the Salem edge to 13-8 with 13 minutes left.

Nuler led the Chiefs in scoring with three goals, with Tucker and Alexis O'Flynn netting two goals. Also getting the ball behind Salem freshman goalie Maddie Johnson was Sarah Daven-

Salem defeated South Lyon 97-40 Tuesday in a KLAA Central Division varsity girls track and field meet.

According to Rocks head coach Dave Gerlach, it was good for the team to get out in decent weather and finally let loose following spring break.

"Our first semiwarm day provided some good races and showed us which athletes were willing to step up as we enter some of the championship competitions," Gerlach noted. "There were still a few athletes in a spring break haze that we hope ends before it is too late.

(three in the first half). Fast and physical

"It was tough to win the balls in the air, the wind and stuff like that and just the physicality of the game," said PCA head coach Nathan Yates, whose team fell to 2-2 overall and 1-2 in the division. "I think it was the first time all season the girls had to face a team that's physical. "Today we played a quality Oakland team who has 11 quality starters and options to choose from on the bench. Going against a team that is that deep and is as fast as we are, something we've been priding ourselves on all season, ... we faced that today."

Yates called the lopsided loss a "blip" on the radar for the squad, which defeated Bloomfield Hills Roeper 4-3 on Tuesday and faced division rival Southfield

Christian Friday (results were not available as of press time). "This is nowhere near the team I've seen all season.'

Lancers head coach David Andersen said his team came out tentatively, but that problem didn't last too long. "After we got the first goal and then another goal (both by Lucido), I felt 'all right, this is a time we can dominate," Andersen said. "We're young, I got three seniors that play and the rest are sophomores and freshmen. It's exciting to see the freshmen step up, I had a freshman score four goals today." Andersen credited his team's strong play against the Eagles to strong positional play and the ability to possess the ball and create offensive chances from there.

"Pretty much staying wide, having our centermids Victoria, (senior Tori) Johns and (sophomore) Lexi Powers control it, work the outside." Andersen said. "At practice we get a lot of possession stuff, so we're comfortable in tight spaces.'

Breaking it open

The tandem of Lucido and Johns combined for three goals within two minutes midway through the first half to turn a 1-0 contest into a 4-0 game. Each took turns cleaning up the other's rebounds for two of the markers.

In the first minute of the second half, the Eagles lost freshman midfielder Jesse Paulson to an ankle injury and moments later Lucido netted her fourth of the game, opening up a fivegoal edge.

Oakland Christian sophomore Lilly Gould's nice strike into the topleft corner put the Lancers up 6-0 with 33 minutes remaining.

Quality chances continued as the Lancers repeatedly broke into the open and cruised in on Pries, who battled to stem the tide.

With about 30 minutes left in the contest, Pries held the left post and blocked a sharp-angle bid by Abby McMahan. Moments later, the PCA goalie denied McMahan again, coming out to block the angle.

After a breakaway goal by Powers put the Lancers up 7-0, Pries stopped Johns on another uncontested rush. But Johns did get another goal several minutes later to conclude the game's scoring. 'She did (play well)," said Yates, about Pries. "Aliyah is a freshman and she's a first-year goalie. She's a basketball player and I had to convince her to play. She came in mid-March when the season started completely green."

Pries backstopped PCA to Tuesday's win over Roeper at Ultimate Soccer.

Scoring two goals for the Eagles was freshman midfielder Aleze Peters, with senior forwards Martha Mullett and Katelyn Barkell each tallying Janevski never stopped working to sharpen her routines and kept upping her scores as a result.

"Kayla is a top vaulter with consistent performance," Yockey said. "She's an allaround gymnast who is serious about competition and her dedication to the team."

COACH OF THE YEAR John Cunningham, Canton: After three consecutive seasons of finishing second at the state gymnastics finals, the veteran coach and his deep and talented squad finally tasted the ultimate victory March 7 as the Chiefs defeated nemesis Grand Ledge at Plymouth High School.

The championship – the first in Canton school history capped an undefeated season featuring numerous highlight performers and performances, including seniors Melissa Green. Erica Lucas, junior Jocelyn Moraw, sophomores Maddie Toal, Hailey Hodgson, Stephanie Cox and Ellie Bachman.

"We were state runner-up three years in a row, the bridesmaid theory, and we finally got it," Cunningham said after the finals. "And anybody that thinks we're going to go away next year hasn't paid attention to how old my girls are. I have five really strong gymnasts returning.'

That would mean the veteran coach, who took over the team in 1979, very well could watch the current run of 43 straight dual meet victories continue to be extended.

Fiber artists kick off festival season with soft sculpture, wearable art

By Sharon Dargay Staff Writer

Andrea Anderson wouldn't think of missing Art Birmingham, the first major outdoor art festival of the season in Metro Detroit

Even after the Farmington Hills weaver moves to Ohio in June, she promises to return for future shows.

"I know a lot of the artists. We see each other during the season. But the Birmingham show is the first show (of spring) for most of us. Its like a big reunion," said Anderson, past president of the Michigan Weaver's Guild and 2010 Farmington Area Artist in Residence. "I'll continue to do Birmingham. I can't do a show every weekend. Pretty much for the season I do one show a month — and sometimes that is stretching it. I work all year. I've been weaving all winter. "

Anderson will bring her "wearable art," handwoven garments that she designs and constructs, including scarves. shawls, tunics, tops and jackets to the 33rd annual Art Birmingham show, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, May 10 and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, May 11, in Shain Park, in downtown Birmingham.

The outdoor fair, produced by the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center and Guild of Artists and Artisans, will feature painting, ceramics, photography, jewelry, glass, wood, sculpture, mixed media, fiber and metal by more than 150 artists. An independent jury selects artists for their creativity and art skill.

'The Guild has a standards committee," said Anderson, who is a member and helps to weed out vendors with manufactured items. "We look at images of the work before it even goes to jury. We do research. We want the Birmingham show to remain a good

Fleece menagerie

Joelle Medici, another fiber artist from Farmington Hills, calls Art Birmingham well run, organized and with a "good market" for her inventive soft sculpture creatures made of fleece fabric.

Medici, who graduated in 2008 with a bachelor's degree in fine arts from the University of Memphis, in Tennessee, has worked the art festival circuit for several years, while making the creatures in her spare time.

"I started making them half-way through college, as a college student without money, making gifts for nieces and nephews and having people ask 'Where can I get that? I love it.' I got a job with an interior design firm for a while and then realized that wasn't my favorite thing," Medici said. "I had been working on these creatures part time, I decided to do it full time."

She found galleries and stores to carry her art on consignment and began selling on Etsy.com and through her website, Mr. Sogs.com, a name inspired by her cat, Soggy. Medici, who is married to a law school student, hauls her fabric menagerie to art festivals every other weekend from spring-fall, but also works shows during winter.

"It's slower from November to January. May starts the busy season, but I've already been to several shows this year," she said. "It's a large portion of your income and you see people who won't see your work somewhere else.'

In addition to Art Birmingham, Medici will sell her soft sculptures at the Wyandotte Street Art Fair and Plymouth's Art in the Park in July, as well as Arts, Beats and Eats over Anderson shows her wearable art at Village Fine Art Gallery in the Village of Rochester Hills and at Starring The Gallery in Northville. Although she plans to move from Michigan in June, she'll show her works at other local Guild of Artists and Artisan shows, including the Ann Arbor Summer Art Fair in July and Common Ground's Birmingham Street Art Fair in September.

"It took me too long to get into the Ann Arbor show, to not do it," said Anderson, adding that her waiting list number for the Summer Fair was 652. "It took me nine years."

Weaving, teaching

Anderson became fascinated by fiber arts while attending high school in Wisconsin. She earned a bachelor's degree in art education from the Uni-

Are older washing machines too costly to repair? If buying new, is a top-loader a better choice than a front-loader?
Agitator or no agitator?

Today's clothes washers agitate consumers am focusing on a couple of emails I recently received from homeowners on the subject of clothes washers. Believe me, I receive many from people who just are not happy with the performance of their new products. I don't think that in the history of appliance manufacturing, customer satisfaction has ever been this low. These two inquiries from potential customers say it all customers say it all.

Jodi writes: "I am in the market for a new washing machine. A certain magazine gave high marks for top loaders with no agitators. I want a top loader because I haven't heard anything good about front loaders. What are your thoughts on top loaders with no agitators? I don't understand how clothes get clean."

Ted writes: "My wife and I have an older GE washer (1986 or so) which has served marvelously for all these years. It has now started to leak some oil on the floor and after some research, I have determined that a seal is leaking on the transmission and it needs a new transmission. I DO NOT want to replace the entire machine, especially after the horror story my neighbor had going through several new machines in the past 10 years, that don't last, and don't get the clothes clean, smell bad, and even have no water level control! I have found that they don't make this older washer and would (they) be able to replace the transmission? I checked a parts replacement outlet and they don't have the part any-

Costly results

Let's start with Ted's email. His washer was the most common washer sold in this country by General Electric for a number of years. We are talking many millions sold and isn't it a shame that the transmission is no longer available. But there is a big negative to fixing a washer that is 20-30 years old. Keep in mind that during all these years all of the internal parts such as tubs, pumps, seals and gaskets have all lived a life of immersion in water mixed with some pretty strong cleansers. There is the factor of corrosion which is disturbed once you begin banging around the drums trying to take it apart. You spend all sorts of money, you do it all correctly and you put it all back together only to find that it leaks water all over the place. In the end, it's all money and labor wasted.

Now to Jodi's email. She shows me that she is a smart consumer because she is doing some research on the subject. She read a magazine that gave high marks for top loaders with no agitator. I caution you not to believe everything you read. Magazines once wrote that within a year you wouldn't be able to purchase a top loader because manufacturers wouldn't make anything but front loaders. That was simply not true because top loaders are still out there. As for washers without an agitator, listen to my radio show and hear people join me on the air who are very displeased with the performance of their mentioned washer.

American made

This old guy writing this column has a lot of years in the appliance industry. I know what quality is and I am well aware of the junk produced in today's world. Because this column is not an advertising venue I won't give you the name of the best washer made today. I do know that the many complaints I receive from consumers are not made-up stories. Not enough water in the tub, no water level control, no hot water temperature above 104 degrees, clothes coming out unclean, concerns about bacteria and there are many more comments.

I can only close by telling you that I am not shy about revealing to some who makes the best washer today and proud to say that it is AMER-ICAN MADE. You know how to reach me, it's written below. Stay tuned.

Greyhound enthusiasts, dogs to gather in Livonia

By Sharon Dargay

Beth Barnhart of Westland wants to introduce you to a few 45-mile-per-hour couch potatoes. Or maybe 200 of them.

That's the number of greyhounds she anticipates will visit GreytHounds of Eastern Michigan's annual three-day conference, May 16-18 at Livonia Holiday Inn and Conference Center in Livonia.

"This is our ninth annual event. It started out as a small picnic in the park. Then we rented 4-H fairgrounds and outgrew that. Then the Taylor arena took the ice out of two rinks for us. Now we're in hotels. We started in Ann Arbor and now are in Livonia," said Barnhart, GEM president.

"We'll get 150-200
dogs. They can go everywhere but the (hotel) restaurant. For our supper on Saturday night —
it's in the banquet room
— you'll see dogs on the floor, next to the tables."

Some of the dogs at the conference will be with their owners or other greyhound rescue organizations. Some will be available for adoption. She described the dogs as fast-moving couch potatoes because they can run "45-milesper-hour in just three strides," but also like to "curl up like a cat" and snooze.

"They go out, take a quick zip around the yard, and then sleep," she said.

Adoptable dogs

Barnhart said the weekend conference is a good way for potential adopters to meet greyhounds. GEM's adoptable dogs all are retried racers that are fostered in private homes until adoption.

The event also draws owners of other "sight" hounds, including whippets, Italian greyhounds and Irish wolfhounds. It's open to dog-owners and non-owners alike. Barnhart said some of the Saturday seminars, such as a "nail trimming" would be of interest to owners of any dog breed.

The conference will run 3-10 p.m. Friday, 8 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Saturday and 7-10 a.m. Sunday. The hotel is located at 17123 Laurel Park Drive North. Registration for three days is $7 per person. The schedule includes greyhound games, vendor booths, social hours with pizza and ice cream, raffle and bingo. Seminars include basics of corn removal, nail trimming and fostering. Guest speakers are Karen Michalski, a veterinarian from Serenity Animal Hospital who will talk about osteosarcoma, Gayle Ann Weaver from The Greyhound Inmate Experience and James Radcliffe, a veterinarian from Wheeling, W.Va. A blessing of the animals is set for after adopting a greyhound nearly two years the word out about the conference.

"It's a great event that brings together the greyhound community," she said. "The dogs are amazing."

Survey shows doctors rarely recommend store brands

Gastroenterologists often recommend over-the-counter medicines for acid reflux and chronic constipation but by recommending brand name products they may cost their patients some savings.

Investigators at the University of Michigan Health System surveyed gastroenter-ologists about their prescribing tendencies and use of over the counter medicines for acid reflux and chronic constipation. Survey results were presented during Digestive Diseases Week in Chicago.

"Despite feeling that name brand and store brand laxatives are equally effective, the majority of gastroenterologists surveyed continued to recommend name brand laxatives and underestimate the cost-savings associated with buying store brands," said gastroenterologist William D. Chey, M.D., professor of internal medicine at the U-M Health System.

A similar prescribing trend was found in gastroenterologists' beliefs about the use of OTC medicines for gastroesophageal reflux disease (GERD). A large and growing group of Americans have heartburn or other symptoms of acid reflux at least weekly.

"At a time when doctors are highly constrained in their use of prescription medicines for so-called lifestyle conditions like GERD and constipation, treatment of these conditions is going to shift more and more to the OTC space." Chey said

OTC space," Chey said.
"As a result, it will become important for doctors to reflect on their OTC (over the counter) treatment recommendations, especially for the cost-conscious patient," he says.

More than 800 gastroenterologists across the United States responded to the survey supported with funding from Perrigo, a manufacturer of generic medications.

When recommending an OTC medicine, generally gastroenterologists were unaware of the cost savings of store brands. Less than one-third of physicians realized that generics can be more than 20 percent cheaper than brand name medicines, according to the survey.

Experienced doctors who'd been in practice 20 years or more were more likely to steer patients to generics than younger doctors.

By Debra Auerbach CareerBuilder Writer

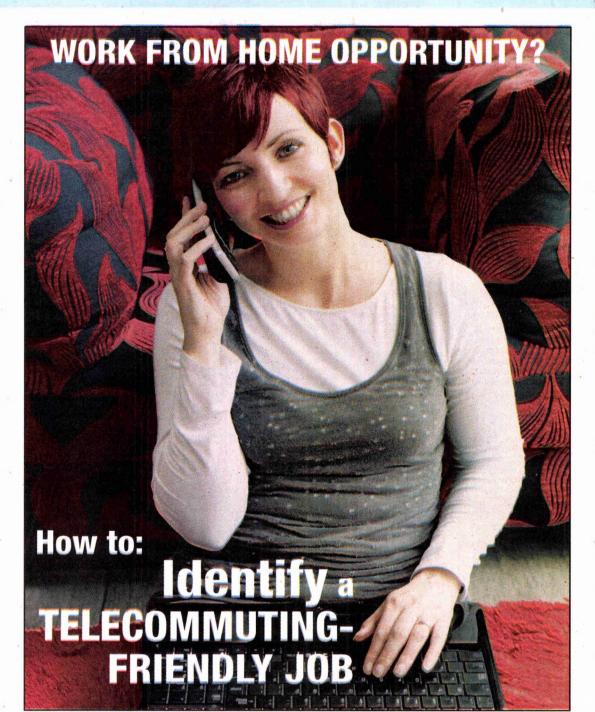

Telecommuting has many benefits for both employees and employers. It helps workers save time and money and gain more flexibility, and it can increase a company's efficiency and reduce its carbon footprint.

Yet the concept is still catching on in the corporate world. According to the latest American Community Survey data, slightly more than 2.5 percent of the U.S. workforce considers home their primary place of work. So while it may seem like a challenge to identify telecommuting jobs, by doing the right research and asking the right questions, you can find a position that matches your interests and desired working accommodations.

Look for telecommutingfriendly occupations

While every company, no matter the field, differs in their flexible-working policies, some industries tend to have more teleworking staff. "Some industries are better suited for telecommuting than others," says Kari DePhillips, owner of contentdevelopment company Content Factory, whose entire team works remotely. "Telecommutingfriendly industries include: graphic design, public relations, social-media marketing, writing and website development. In general, I think tech and startup companies are most likely to be open to the idea of telecommuting."

You may also have an easier chance of finding telecommuting roles by looking for contract or freelance positions. "Since you'll likely be commissioned for particular projects, employers are open to allowing independent contractors to turn in work projects digitally and communicate via social media, i.e., Skype," says Sudy Bharadwaj, co-founder and CEO of job-search platform Jackalope

Do the right research

To find jobs, go to a jobsearch website such as Career-Builder and use the "keyword" search function. Christine Durst, a telecommuting and homebased career expert and author of "The 2-Second Commute" and "Work At Home Now," suggests using words and phrases including:

Telecommute

- Telecommuting
- Independent contractor
- · Work from home
- Offsite
- Virtual • Remote
- Freelance

· Work from anywhere Durst also recommends visiting sites that specifically cater to telecommuting jobs. Another option? Try a search engine, but use specific phrases to avoid any suspicious, too-good-to-be-true work-from-home job offers. To narrow in on relevant jobs, Durst suggests using phrases such as:

- "This is a telecommuting position'
- "This is a remote position"
- "This is a home-based position"
- "Will have the option to work from home'
- "Offsite position"

- "Qualified individual will work from home"
- "Must be willing to work from home'
- "This is a work-from-home
- position'
- "May work from anywhere"
- "This is a virtual position"
- "Our employees work from
- home" "Position can be based anywhere' Ask the right questions

If a company doesn't explicitly say in the job posting that it's open to telecommuting, that doesn't mean it won't allow for a more flexible work schedule. So if you're really interested in a position, don't count it out. Use the interview as a time to take the company's pulse on teleworking preferences.

"When interviewing, ask the hiring manager about the company's policy on telecommuting," says Amit De, CEO and co-founder of job-search platform Careerleaf. "If the company has a strict anti-telecommuting policy, the position's probably not a great fit for you. Just be sure that the focus of the interview doesn't remain on telecommuting. Ultimately, you still need to get hired before you can consider telecommuting."

Keep an open mind Even if a job doesn't offer telecommuting at first, there's always the chance that, under the right circumstances, your boss will be open to the idea of a more flexible work schedule. "The key is to come with suggestions as to what tools you'll use to turn in work and interface with co-workers when work needs to get done," Bharadwaj says. "Outline practical ways to ensure your productivity, and give examples that note your sensitivity to deadlines, since with telecommuting you'll need to be a self-starter to accomplish tasks without being micromanaged."

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Beginner

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
