

Township ethics ordinance gets first reading, but also draws criticism

By Matt Jachman Staff Writer

An ethics ordinance that would apply to elected officials, employees and others acting on Plymouth Township's behalf appears on its way to adoption, but a township trustee who advocated an ethics ordinance two years ago said the new plan has "no substance.'

Doroshewitz Price

A first reading of the ordinance was approved by the Board of Trustees by a 5-0 voice vote Aug. 18, while a final reading is scheduled for the next board meeting, Tuesday, Sept. 8.

The eight-page proposal seeks to protect confidential information from being divulged, prohibits using a township position for personal or family gain, requires officials to disclose any personal interest they or immediate family members may have in a governmental decision and calls for respectful, orderly conduct at township meetings, among other provisions. Supervisor Shannon Price said it was modeled after Canton Township's ethics ordinance, with a couple of additions

"It's a good start," Price said. "It gives us a good ordinance in place that applies not only to employees but to elected officials."

The township currently has a brief ethics policy, Price noted, and there's debate about whether it even applies to elected officials.

"I think our policy was very vague," Price said. The policy will be superseded by the new ethics ordinance, if passed, he added.

Canton man who led I-96 fix wins top MDOT award

By Darrell Clem Staff Writer

Canton resident Jeff Horne had the weight of nearly 150,000 motorists on his back when Interstate 96 closed for 167 days - yes, he was counting - for a massive road reconstruction project in Livonia and Redford. Horne, transportation engineer for the Michigan De-Horne partment of Transportation's metro Detroit region, was as relieved as anyone last year when drivers rolled onto the seven-mile stretch of I-96 after its $148 million makeover.

"It was a huge sigh of re-lief," Horne, 33, said. " I felt a lot less stress in my life. It

'Satisfied customers' feast at Plymouth's Old Village crawl

Diners on Monday took to the streets of Plymouth's Old Village for the neighborhood's 16th annual Restaurant Crawl.

The crawl, which this year involved three restaurants and the Liberty Street Brewing Co., mixes business with pleasure as visitors get to sample the local dining scene and participating eateries (and the brewery) get good word of-mouth marketing about their fare.

"A lot of satisfied customers," said Vitor Nikollbibaj, owner of Aqua, which was participating in its second crawl after opening in 2014. "By the time you were done, you were full," said Wes Graff, president of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, which organizes the crawl. There were 139 tickets told for the event, Graff said.

At Aqua, at Main and

Starkweather, Nikollbibaj served "avocado bombs," (stuffed avocado), Shanghai calamari, mango barbecued chicken wings and assorted sushi

Nikollbibaj said he had an area reserved for crawlers, but that a line grew quickly and that he had to open half the main dining room as well to accommodate them.

"They came back for more," he said.

Graff said he noticed a pattern among participants: They started the evening either at Old Village's south end (Aqua) or north end (Station 885), moved to the middle (Hermann's Olde Town Grille) and then headed to Liberty Street. The brewery offers samples of its brews.

"It was a nice event," Graff said. "People enjoyed themselves."

Plymouth Township, sponsors offer free night at movies

Plymouth Township and the USA Hockey Arena are sponsoring a free movie night Monday at the Summer Drive-In.

The arena's threescreen drive-in will offer free admission to the first 300 vehicles with passes that can be obtained by township and city of Plymouth residents during business hours at the Plymouth Township Hall. The event has been dubbed the Back-to-School Movie Palooza.

'We are thrilled to be able to host this back-toschool event for our residents," township Supervisor Shannon Price said. "This project is just another example of the great corporate citizens we have in our community.

Visitors will be able to choose between the double features showing on the three Summer Drive-In screens; free popcorn and drinks will be served. The gates will open at 7 p.m. and movies will start at dusk. The township will have a public safety representative present, with a police cruiser, for photo opportunities, along with free Fingerprint America child identification kits. There will also be a Plymouth Township Fire Department staff and a fire truck on hand. The evening will include free face-painting and raffles.

Air Museum rededicates former bomber plant

By Sue Mason Staff Writer

Randy Hotton was in his element.

Standing inside the gutted shell of a 144,000square-foot section of the former Willow Run Bomber Plant, the Canton resident pointed out features of the original plant that were uncovered during the cleanup of the building that's destined to become the National Museum of Aviation and Technology.

"It had wooden blocks for a floor so it wouldn't be damaged if the workers dropped tools," Hotton said. "The factory had a wooden floor up to where the planes were fueled before leaving."

Hotton, board member and treasurer of the Yankee Air Museum, Yankee Air Museum founder Dennis Norton and Save the Bomber Plant Campaign co-chair Bob Lutz were among a group of special guests who gathered recently to rededicate the former bomber plant.

Built by the Ford Motor Co., the plant used Henry Ford's mass-production technology to build B-24 bomber planes for World War II. More than 8,600 B-24s had been built at Willow Run; by 1944 it was producing one plane every hour.

The unveiling of a marker designating Willow Run as a Michigan Historic Site served as the groundbreaking ceremony for the museum. The marker isn't new. It was moved to the plant and placed on a temporary stand for the ceremony.

"Many of you weren't here the day after the fire, many of you weren't here the night of the fire," said Kevin Walsh, the museum's executive director. "It wasn't a matter of if, it was a matter of how we would rebuild. There was never an if spoken. Ten years later, we have found the perfect place for the museum."

After the fire

Walsh was talking about a devastating fire in October 2004 that YANKEE AIR MUSEUM Yankee Air Museum executive director Kevin Walsh tells guests there was never a question of if the museum would reopen following a 2004 fire that destroyed more than 35,000 artifacts and machinery.

'we-can-do-it' spirit. I thought it was impossible, but you did it."

Getting started

Work has already started to enclose and prepare the building. The new museum will be located in what was the tail end of the former assembly line. According to Hotton — who is writing a book about Willow Run for Arcadia Press the future museum is only 3 percent of the original factory.

"When it was built, it was the largest plant under a single roof in the world," he said. "It was so immense."

According to Hotton, the government gave Henry Ford $200 million "for a project that was designed on the back of hotel stationary." Ford needed 3,200 feet for the assembly line. In cleaning up the building in advance of the work to turn it into a museum, the original track used to pull the planes down the assembly line was uncovered.

Hotton has more than the YAM connection to the plant. His father, a tool-and-die maker, went to work there in 1941. "All my life, he'd come

"All my life, he'd come here and say, 'I worked here,'" Hotton said. "I've been fascinated with it since my first exposure to it. I'm so excited to save the place. It's a story that needs to be told."

YAM already has raised $8 million to purchase and enclose the building. It is now in the process of raising another $5 million to build the interior facilities and exhibits. Information on how to make donations can be found at www.savethebomberplant.org.

destroyed the hangar that had been the museum's home. Volunteers were able to save the B-25, the Yankee Warrior, the B-17, the Yankee Lady and a C-47 troop transport plane, the Yankee Doodle Dandy.

Volunteers regrouped and the museum reopened in 2010. But since the fire, it has moved three times and is currently spread out over four locations at Willow Run Airport.

"We can't maximize our potential, but with this 144,000 square feet, we can," Walsh said. "Coming back to one location will show what this location is capable of doing."

"This is a very important day to all of us in the museum who have been working on this for four years now," Norton said.

"Today is like a homecoming for us and this will be home in two-three years," said Ray Hunter, YAM board chairman. "When Dennis Norton started the Yankee Air Museum 30 years ago, his plan was to bring home a Ford-built B-24. There are only four Fordbuilt bombers left — one in Canada, one in Mississippi and two in England. If the planets and the stars line up and we have a benevolent sponsor, we'll bring one back to Willow Run.'

State Sen. Patrick Colbeck, R-Canton, who was instrumental in getting the remaining money needed to buy the plant from RACER Trust, said the museum is representative of the "cando" spirit and the "sizzle" that's coming to Michigan with the growth of the aerospace industry.

"I remember the first time I looked at the building and we talked about what's next," he said. "I looked at what was going on at the plant and your

Man's body found along I-275 trail in Canton

By Darrell Clem Staff Writer

Canton police say foul play isn't suspected after a 36-year-old Detroit man was found dead Sunday morning along the Interstate 275 Metro Trail.

Police went to a section of the trail south of Michigan Avenue after trail users spotted the body and notified authorities shortly after 9 a.m. Sunday.

An investigation is continuing and police Lt. Craig Wilsher said toxicology results aren't expected for several weeks. Police haven't disclosed the man's identity

Wilsher, saying "nothing has been confirmed yet," declined to speculate on a possible cause of death. "We don't suspect foul play," he said, adding police found "nothing suspicious" to indicate the Detroit man had been a victim of a crime.

According to a police report, one of the witnesses who saw the man's body said he was found near a bridge that crosses over the railroad tracks. He was lying face down. His wallet hadn't been taken. The I-275 Metro Trail is a popular recreational place for users who walk, bike or run along the trail. The section in Canton runs along the east side of I-275.

PLYMOUTH CRIME WATCH

Driver ticketed in township hit-and-run

Plymouth Township police caught up with a hit-and-run driver Monday night in the city of Plymouth. There were no injuries and no information on possible damage to the vehicle that was struck.

The 32-year-old man admitted to driving into another vehicle with a Chrvsler 300 while in the parking lot of the Arby's restaurant at Five Mile and Beck, a Plymouth Township Police Department report noted. The man smelled of alcohol, but registered a low bloodalcohol content on a preliminary breath test, police said.

He was ticketed, however, for having an expired driver's license, not presenting a license to an officer and running a red light.

Police were called shortly after 9 p.m. Monday about the crash at Arby's. A witness followed the blue Chrysler 300 eastbound on Five Mile and told police the driver had pulled into the parking lot of the Busch's supermarket at Five Mile and Sheldon, police said. The witness was able to get a license plate number.

Police then saw the Chrysler southbound on

Sheldon and said the driver ran a red light to turn left onto Penniman, where he pulled into the driveway of a house. The driver had no connection to the house, police said.

The driver told an officer he was "just not thinking right," the police report said.

Disorderly warned

A tenant at the Plymouth Manor apartments in the area of Lilley and Postiff was warned not to have contact with employees after reportedly threatening a manager there Monday morning.

The manager said the man threatened to "kill them all," a police report said, during an argument in the office. The man told police he had been upset about the possibility of being evicted for something he didn't do.

Police told the man not to return to the office and not to have contact with any apartment employees. Any business with the complex, police told the man, should be done by his brother, with whom he shares an apartment. The man agreed, police said.

Felony arrest

was arrested Friday evening at a house on Westbury Drive in the township.

Township police said officers in the area shortly after 7 p.m. spotted another person outside the house, and that the person's presence indicated the suspect, who was known to police, might be present also. They knocked on the front door, a police report said, and the suspect answered, with one officer grabbing him by a wrist and telling him about the warrant.

The man was arrested after police confirmed the Ypsilanti warrant. He was held for pickup by Ypsilanti police.

Marijuana ticket

A 31-year-old woman was ticketed for marijuana possession the afternoon of Aug. 18 after surrendering a half-smoked "joint" she was keeping in a cigarette pack, police said.

The incident took place shortly before 3 p.m. in the area of Ann Arbor Road and I-275, where the woman had been acting suspiciously, apparently trying to avoid an officer who was in the area for a building check, a police report said.

CANTON CRIME WATCH Day care worker

finds pot paraphernalia in diaper bag

A Childtime day care manager notified Canton police after one of her employees, getting a diaper from a child's bag, found a marijuana pipe and burned papers that smelled like pot, a police report said.

A manager of the Childtime center on Lilley, south of Ford, notified police about 10 a.m. Aug. 20 after the drug-related items were seen while an employee was getting a diaper for the child. Canton police contacted Child Protective Services to investigate and spoke with the child's mother, who called the incident a mistake. The mother told police she would never harm her child, a police report said.

Squabbling siblings

A family dispute over a 91-year-old Canton woman has her children squabbling and pulling township police into it.

Police got involved after the woman's 67year-old daughter of Southfield went to the Canton police station amid concerns her brother took their mother to the bank and withdrew $3,700 from her account.

The daughter told police she believes her 54-year-old brother opened a joint account in his name and the mother's. The daughter said she has the power of attorney, but isn' allowed to speak to her mother while a court hearing is pending in Wayne County Adult Protective Services. She said she also doesn't speak to her brother.

Canton police spoke with a Wayne County representative who said the 91-year-old woman's son pays expenses for her out of his pocket, possibly explaining why he created the new bank account. The son also has initiated an attempt to become guardian of the mother.

The investigation was continuing.

Dog assault

A 44-year-old Canton woman notified police after she opened her patio door and her chihuahua ran out, only to get bitten by a neighbor's miniature pinscher.

The incident happened about 6:30 p.m. Aug. 19 on Crystal Circle, near Canton Center and Saltz. The woman told police she was cooking when she opened her door and her dog ran out onto a patio shared with a neighbor.

The woman told police she had to take her chihuahua for surgery after it was bitten by the other dog. She said similar incidents happened twice last summer.

Police were planning to speak with the neighbor. The police report indicated that neither dog was on a leash, as required by Canton ordinance.

Odd behavior

Police took a 33year-old Garden City man to a hospital for evaluation after he was seen acting strangely talking to himself, sweating profusely and kicking a van that was giving him trouble, a report said.

The incident happened about 1:20 p.m. Friday on Belvedere, near Cherry Hill and Beck. A resident reported the man's suspicious behavior.

A police report indicated officers believed the man was under the influence of narcotics. He told police he had left a house where some other men "gave him something" and tampered with his cellphone. He told police he met the men through a website.

Police couldn't verify where the man had been or the identities of the other males. The man was taken to St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia for evaluation.

Disorderly man

A 24-year-old Canton man was arrested for disorderly conduct after he confronted police and threatened to kick a police dog during an incident that police say unfolded about 8:30 p.m. Saturday at The Crossings, an apartment complex southeast of Joy and I-275.

The incident started when police stopped a vehicle, driven by a 17-year-old Canton girl, that had a loud muffler. The male suspect, a passenger in the car, got out, grabbed a brown paper bag out of the back seat and began to walk away, even though police told him to stop. According to a police report, the man became irate, cursed at police and told them to stay away from him. An officer who followed him toward a door said the man took a fighting stance and clenched his right fist as though he was going to strike the officer. The man then reportedly threatened to kick a police dog as another officer approached him. He was arrested for disorderly behavior.

"We start the process by learning the objectives of each client in a fact-finding interview," Salloum said. "Then we develop a video campaign which not only engages them (while on the website), but also gets potential customers to the site through email and social media campaigns. We have seen tremendous growth in our business during the past few years and expect this trend to continue."

In the digital world, video is becoming king as a way to better express what a company does. "It helps build and grow marketing campaigns," he said.

Why video? Salloum has three major reasons: It is a search engine's best friend. Video has been proven to keep visitors on a website nine times longer. And a majority of viewers — 64 percent — take action when they watch a video of a product or service.

The Telly Award means people have watched Salloum's video about the Plymouth community. That's how it won a bronze award in this 36th annual program. "It is rewarding that people like our work," Salloum said. "There is great pride in this — to hear a client and how impactful the video was."

Because blood from donors of the same ethnic background as the recipient is less likely to cause complications, the Red Cross must maintain a diverse blood supply to meet these diverse patient needs.

Whether blood is needed for a chronic condition such as sickle cell disease, a surgical procedure or a largescale emergency, it's the blood already on the shelves that helps save lives. Canton Community Foundation

Congratulations to 2015 scholarship recipients

It's Beth Meade's favorite event hosted by the Canton Community Foundation.

"It is so nice to see the gratification on the kids' and adults' faces," said Meade, foundation managing director, donor relations. "It makes a big difference to the kids."

That's because the kids understand not only the cost of a college education, but that every dollar helps them move

This year, the foundation handed out $20,000 in scholarships at a May reception and ice cream social at the Canton offices. "You really get to see the impact right away," Meade said. Over the past 25 years, the foundation has awarded $612,000 in scholarships to 600 students.

Tax-return fraud criminals move to states, officials say

A new wave of tax swindlers who've attempted to bilk the federal refunds of honest taxpayers have moved on to the states, an Internal Revenue Service official told the recent National Conference of State Legislatures legislative summit.

IRS official Paul Mamo characterized the latest form of tax fraud as a blend of identity theft with filing fraudulent tax returns.

Steve Ryan of McDermott Will & Emery, which staffs a national association of tax companies, said those perpetrating the tax fraud are not taking information out of the system. Rather they are putting false data into the system to secure the tax refunds due law-abiding taxpayers. While the fraud at first focused on federal returns because the refunds are greater, states are now the tar-

"We want this to end. It is bad for the industry and it is terrifying for the individual," Ryan said.

Losses are in the billions of dollars, with Mamo noting the IRS stopped $68 billion involving 19 million fraudulent returns from 2011-14.

Ryan explained that his clients, while they are prohibited from reviewing returns done via popular tax-return programs, did first spot issues with lots of returns going to a single ZIP code or bank account.

David Sullivan, tax administrator for the state of Rhode Island, said states could combat fraudulent returns being submitted from dead individuals, but now people go into the system and assume the identity of the taxpayer. And when the refund is sent via a debit card, it becomes very difficult to track down and recover.

It is also a problem affecting refundable Earned Income Tax Credit state programs. Corey Smith of the Tax Division of the U.S. Department of Justice and part of the DOJ's Stolen Identity Refund Fraud Board, said many of the actors are overseas in Nigeria, Ghana, Eastern Bloc countries, Russia, Romania and China.

Characterizing it as a blend of white-collar and street crime, he said first the identities are stolen and then they are sold to those intending to file the fraudulent returns.

States, however, can do very little about prosecuting the perpetrators because they are most often out-of-state, if not out of the country.

Dalton is co-founder of Detroit-based Dalton & Tomich, PLC. He also serves on the Plymouth City Commission. Dalton is the author of the only book dedicated to RLUI-PA – Litigating Religious Land Use Cases, published by the American Bar Association.

Dalton has won dozens of RLUIPA cases across the country, working on behalf of practitioners of many different religions and contending with varying interpretations of the law in each and every state.

"Across the country, churches are facing opposition from their communities, including when expansion or relocation is necessary to advance a doctrinal mission. In a country built on the freedom of religion, this opposition often amounts to a violation of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution," Dalton said. "We've had a lot of success standing up for religious freedom on behalf of 'the little guys.""

Recent RLUIPA cases include support for Church of Our Savior in Jacksonville Beach, Fla., Carlinville Southern Baptist Church in Carlinville, Ill., and San Diegobased Academy of Our Lady of Peace Catholic High School, for which Dalton secured a $1.1 million landmark verdict in favor of the school.

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the hometowns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

Invisible disabilities are just as real as those you can see have read many posts and articles about children with special needs. They always focus on people staring and being rude. I get that, I totally do, but what about the people who look normal, but are unable to form a full thought or take forever to get a sentence out? How about those who prefer younger toys than their same-aged peers? They are considered weird.

When you tell others what invisible disabilities the child has, they say, "But there is nothing wrong with her." They say, "You are wrong and need to stop thinking that way." I have lived both scenarios, with visible and invisible disabilities, and neither is fair or right.

When my daughter was very young, she was diagnosed with mild cerebral palsy. She presented in curling hands and had to wear braces to keep her hands straight. One time at the store, she and her 4-year-old brother were in the shopping cart. My son was using American Sign Language to communicate with her, since she did not yet talk. A woman in the store came up to my son and said it would be his fault if she did not talk. She then asked what happened to my daughter's hands. I told her they were braces and she accused me of lying, insinuating that I did something to her.

I was trying to walk away from the woman when my 4-year-old said, "She has CP; you may ask questions." I was so proud of him because he knew it was OK for people to ask us about her, but we did not like staring and gawking. I just walked away, completely appalled with this lady. That was when my daughter was presenting physical and visible symptoms of the condition. She is now 10 and does not present physically.

At age 2, my daughter was diagnosed with epilepsy as well. Epilepsy has been our main focus since then, because it has been the ailment that has given us the most issues. Most people recognize epilepsy as seizures that make you fall and shake. There are several other types of epilepsy. My daughter has two of the other types. She has absence seizures, which are also known as staring seizures. During these seizures, she stares off into space and you cannot get her attention. She also has myoclonic seizures. Those present as shivers like a cold chill and last a few seconds. You would think, "No big deal, right? Just a few seconds and done." Not the case for my daughter. They last just a few short seconds each time they occur, however they happen constantly all day, every day. They are so short, even I have a difficult time seeing them happen all the time. Sometimes they are only vis-ible on an EEG. When we do see them, unfortunately, there is very little we can do for them.

Since they happen so often, upward of several hundred times a day, she is cognitively behind. These constant seizures make her daily living very difficult. Things we take for granted like conversation can be very difficult for her because she cannot form a complete thought. She tries to plan things and forgets. Some things that are simple for others are hard for her, like following directions. She still is a little young in the mind and loves to play with dolls and watch television shows for younger children. People do not understand why she still likes Doc McStuffins or why she can't understand something simple. When I explain, I am often told, "Well she looks fine." I also have been told, "She looks normal; are you babying her?" She has had adults and kids tell her things like, "You're not a baby," "You should like this" or other mean things.

I am not sure how to make people understand that just because someone looks normal on the outside does not mean anything. Also, just because they act younger than their actual age doesn't mean you can't interact or play with them.

I understand sometimes it is frustrating to sit and wait for my daughter to finish a thought or to get out what she is trying to say, but if you do sit, wait, and listen, you would be amazed by her ideas and thoughts.

In third grade, she was doing kindergarten work. We have made great strides using a special diet, medications and surgery. She is now going into fifth grade and doing thirdgrade work. She loves art and is very crafty. She has great ideas and can come up with things I would never think of. She also plays with a huge, beautiful imagination and wants to be friends with anyone who will be nice to her. Her speech has improved and she is a wonderful kid.

Since the surgery, her personality has really blossomed. She will tell people about her CP and how they can help her. She is not afraid of questions and welcomes them. If she cannot answer them she will come to one of us for help. She will hopefully catch up with her peers completely – but, if not, who cares? She is still a person and, most importantly, she is my daughter.

Resolve the dispute over meat labeling with Canada, Mexico

Congress in 2002 passed a requirement that meat sold in the U.S. carry a simple label stating where the product was born, raised and slaughtered. While that label has been valuable to consumers, the World Trade Organization recently found it to be in violation of our trade obligations with Canada and Mexico.

I disagree with this ruling. But if we do not change the way we label meat, we face the threat of retaliatory tariffs by two of our closest trading partners. That retaliation would harm American businesses and consumers. So we must change our law.

That's why I joined Sen. John Hoeven, R-N.D., and several of our Republican and Democratic colleagues to introduce a common sense bill to do just that, while also retaining the right for American consumers to ask for information about where their food comes from.

The Voluntary Country of Origin Labeling and Trade Enhancement Act of 2015 would fully repeal mandatory country-of-origin labeling to satisfy the WTO decision. We then create a voluntary option for our farmers: a voluntary label, similar to what Canada uses to label its meat.

The U.S. Trade Representative, the government agency responsible for overseeing our trade relationships, believes our proposal would comply with the WTO decision.

It's also noteworthy that Canada and Mexico have themselves said that a voluntary label is a reasonable approach in testimony before the WTO in 2012.

Sadly, even before our bill was introduced, Canada joined with the big multinational meat packers to wage a campaign to stop Congress from pursuing this voluntary label. It insists that the U.S. must not only repeal mandatory labeling, but that the U.S. has no right to establish a voluntary program (even if Canada has one) or it will retaliate against us.

Let's be clear — since our bill repeals mandatory country of origin labeling, Canada has no veto or legal standing to stop the U.S. from deciding to pursue voluntary policies in our own country. It's easy to understand why Canada and Mexico don't want us to pursue a voluntary label: They want to absolutely make sure they never have to compete head-to-head with American products.

This debate boils down to two simple questions: Do American consumers have a right to know where their food comes from? And should American farmers and companies have the same right to accurately label a Product of the U.S.A. when our friends in Canada are already doing the same through their own label? The answer, of course, is yes!

I'm confident the majority of the U.S. Senate supports this common sense approach. That's why the Senate must pass our bill as soon as possible so we can stop any retaliation. Then we need to refocus on all of the wonderful and important partnerships Michigan has with our Canadian neighbors.

Debbie Stabenow, a Democrat from Lansing, represents Michigan in the U.S. Senate.

OUR VIEW

Canton is right to toughen bullying ordinance

Social media in all forms — Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, to name a few — are useful communication tools, often linking people who would never otherwise share stories, thoughts and opinions. But if used irresponsibly by children and adults, social media can become a weapon that can and has had tragic consequences.

Canton officials were right to institute a recent crackdown with an amended ordinance to prohibit bullying and harassment via social media and the The Plymouth-Canton Community Internet. Schools district also has a policy that carries a wide range of penalties, from warning to expulsion, as well as police contact.

Sure, bullying and being picked on may be considered part of growing up. That doesn't make it right. And cyber-bullying is bullying on steroids.

According to the American Society for the Positive Care of Children, cyber-bullying is different because:

» Cyber-bullying can happen 24 hours a day, seven days a week and reach a kid even when he or she is alone. It can happen any time of the day or night.

» Cyber-bullying messages and images can be posted anonymously and distributed quickly to a very wide audience. It can be difficult and sometimes impossible to trace the source.

» Deleting inappropriate or harassing messages, texts and pictures is extremely difficult after they have been posted or sent.

In other words, cyber-bullying has an exponential impact with the speed of transmission and the ability to post without naming yourself as the aggressor. The Centers for Disease Control reports that as of June 2014, 14.8 percent of students reported being cyber-bullied through email, chat rooms, instant messaging, websites or texting.

For kids, the greatest chance for being bullied remains at school. About 28 percent of students ages 12-18 reported being bullied at school during the school year, according to the Indicators of School Crime and Safety: 2013 report, by the Bureau of Justice Statistics and National Center for Education Statistics Institute of Education Sciences.

Canton already had an ordinance to prohibit harassment by telephone or in writing - misdemeanor crimes punishable by 93 days in jail and a $500 fine. The township board's amended ordinance simply broadens the scope of the ordinance to include social media and the Internet. Offenders can be prosecuted regardless of age – and this is important. Some critics have said parents should control their children and be aware of what they are up to. In an ideal world, that might work. But reality proves otherwise. Parents are often the last to know whether their child is the bullied or the bully.

Certainly, parents, teachers, principals and all other adult figures of authority must be constantly aware of how children are using — rather than mis-using — social media. P-CCS officials have made it clear through their policy that cyber-bullying at school is an offense.

No doubt we've all heard and read media reports of young people who were so bullied they found suicide the only relief. Whether the victim is a child, teenager or adult, bullying cuts to the emotional quick. It simply cannot be tolerated and must have serious consequences for the bully.

Wealth divide

I see where Canton's version of Sarah Palin has emerged from the woodwork. Accordingly, I have been labeled a communist, Marxist, fascist and tyrant. Wow. Ms. Palin, oops, Joanne Sonnenberg certainly has the goods on me. I must confess that during my time in the mil-itary and while a police officer, I was really serving as a mole for the KGB. Sorry to let you all down.

Democracy and socialism often go hand and hand. Medicare, Medicaid, Social Security, the Affordable Care Act, public schools and libraries are all programs the ultra-right considers socialist. They don't rely on any of these, so they are determined to not help pay for them.

I don't know if Ms. Sonnenberg can see Russia from her backyard, but I will impart two facts on her she doesn't want to hear and one question she won't want to answer. When the USSR fell apart, it was determined that less then 10 percent of the population owned more than 80 percent of all the wealth in that region. A similar study in our country last year showed almost the same numbers here. My question is, financially speaking only, just what in the hell is the difference between communism and capitalism? With both, the few have the most and the rest have to make due with the scraps Greed knows no boundaries and sharing is to be laughed at by these people. The great wealth divide and income gap today is closer to the old USSR than what should prevail in the U.S Finally I take umbrage with being accused of writing about a urinating cat. My reference had nothing to do with a feline. The quip "fat cat," as everybody knows, was aimed directly at Ms. Sonnenberg's people.

Snobbish? Na-a-ah!

Like art, snobbery is in the eye of the beholder. Last week, Plymouth was named the third snobbiest community in Michigan by www.roadsnacks.net. But those on the street essentially said, "No way!" Maybe, just maybe, what is snobbery to some really is culture, a sense of community, theater, arts, cuisine for all tastes and solid neighborhoods to those who know and love Plymouth.We're just saying ...

GUEST COLUMN Is Old Village development in best interests?

here are those who believe selling bricks from a demolished historic site in Plymouth to raise money for markers to tell folks what was once there is turning lemons into lemonade. I, however, see the loss of the Daisy site as a preventable tragedy, as well as a direct violation of Plymouth City Ordinance 78-311 C(1)(c) and 78-311 C(4).

Now the question soon to come before the Plymouth City Commission is, should a nearly two-century old historic neighborhood be transformed into an appendage of Livonia-style development, because Livonia and Plymouth have run out of land upon which to build?

I have said many times that residents should be allowed to decide these kinds of major city-wide issues. However, very soon, Plymouth city commissioners will be informing residents of their decision of whether to allow earth-movers to come into Old Village and pay homage to the historic Starkweather Elementary School site. At the very least, citizens should let their voices be heard on this issue.

The Plymouth Code of Ordinances Sec. 78-310 preamble under Purpose states that primary goals of any planned urban development are "... to encourage innovation in land use ... to preserve significant natural, historical, and architectural features and open space ... to minimize adverse traffic impacts ... to encourage development of convenient recreational facilities"

Defies logic

So why do P-CCS board members and their superintendent, as well as the Plymouth City Planning Commission, believe a historic city can preserve open space, reduce negative traffic impacts and preserve a historic neighborhood by building two dozen homes and streets in the middle of said open space?

And by adding another two dozen or more apartments into a historic building and into a neighborhood that already has construction commenced for nearly 100 more units? On the face of it, it defies all logic and, in my opinion, 78-310.

I do not see any congruence between historic preservation and massive housing projects on the Starkweather site or on any historic site, especially when the last piece of major public owned green space in a historic neighborhood is about to be lost — a portion of which was a public square, as long as Kellogg Park has been a park. It sets a dangerous precedent for future city commissions to do same with other public parks.

I think it is sad that folks who claim to be preservationists support this kind of massive development in a historic neighborhood. They instead support, in piecemeal fashion, the cobbling up of individual properties and green space in the name of preservation. It is a tragedy, when those who have the historic knowledge at their fingertips, idly stand by and allow such to happen in historic areas which should be preserved for all time and posterity.

There is no doubt, as the public record indicates, that neither the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education nor the superintendent care or have any regard as to the historic culture of Old Village, as well as the property they would like to develop

During the August 2014 vote to sell the Starkweather site (at that time for demolition), one can hear on video the board president state on the record: "OK, so this is how we entertain ourselves,' among other board members giggling. Their only assertions as to this aim is that more homes mean more money for the district, as their legal representative states when he regularly visits commission meetings, promoting this housing project. It is self-evident that the only concern P-CCS has is how much money can be squeezed out of a nearly two-century-old historic neighborhood, regardless of the consequences.

Losing history

Last week at the city commission meeting, it was suggested that city leaders are doing what is best for Plymouth. It was suggested that any city would love to have what Plymouth has. Will this be true though, as more historic sites and homes are lost? Is more traffic and loss of open historic green space in Old Village in the best interest of residents of Plymouth?

Old Village was platted and built during the time of grist mills, horse and buggies and steam locomotives. Built as a small commerce center for a city which at the time had a population of less than 2,000. To attempt to re-create it now as a major shopping center with massive housing developments on the outskirts of town will ultimately harm another sliver of historic Americana.

In July's piece, I invoked the name of Plymouth native and the late nationally syndicated columnist Russell Kirk. I hope that the Plymouth City Commission takes heed to Kirks words of 45 years ago: "In commerce, as in government, the cult of the colossal is a dreary and arid worship. Give me the liberties, of Liberty Street."

Daniel Sabo is the grandson of Karl Starkweather.

Canton's offensive line promises to be as tough as ever in 2015.

THE CANTON WAY

Tough football on both sides of ball continues to be staple for Baechler, Chiefs

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

When it comes to Canton Chiefs football, the more things change, the more they stay the same.

We're talking triple-back sets that confuse defenses. Plus efficiency on offense, doing what it takes to move the chains and find the end zone. And, of course, there are stacked lines on both

"Offensively, we got a few starters back on the O-line, in Devin Obrec and Ben Phillips. But again, we had some good JV linemen off a 9-0 team last year that are coming up and competing hard. We're going to be a very good offensive line."

Talk about a pipeline. A perfect junior varsity squad sending strong players Baechler's direction. That spells trouble for the rest of the KLAA and potential playoff opponents.

Dave Nichols joked about being on the volleyball scene at UCLA in the "dark ages" of the mid- to late 1970s.

he is pumped up about taking over an already Nichols successful program at Plymouth High School in the

KLAA GIRLS GOLF PRE-TOURNEY COOL 'CATS: Plymouth tops field at KLAA pre-tournament

Brisk day at Northville Hills doesn't hinder Wildcats

By Tim Smith

On an crisp, damp afternoon that seemed more like October than late August, Plymouth's varsity girls golf team stayed hot.

The Wildcats finished with a score of 340 to top the field at Tuesday's KLAA Kensington Conference pre-tournament at Northville Hills Golf Club, winning their second tourney in as many days. Plymouth also captured Monday's Fritz/Byerlein Girls Golf Tournament at Kensington Metropark.

What Tuesday's success means for the Dan Youngcoached Wildcats is early season points in the bank. With the first-place showing, Plymouth racked up 11 points that will go toward the end-of-season rankings in the KLAA South Division, conference and association.

"This tournament is great. It sets the tone for where you're at in the league," Young said. "After this, we'll start playing individual nine-hole matches and some (tri-matches) within crossovers, which is good.'

Young's top performer Tuesday was senior Katie Chipman, who already is in mid-season form. She finished second overall with an 18-hole score of 76. In first with 75 was South Lyon's Priscilla Harding, while Salem junior Darby Scott tallied a third-place score of 77.

"I played all right," Chipman said. "I played a lot better on the back. I was even. And I was 4-over-(par) on the front.

P-CEP GIRLS GOLF PREVIEW

'Cats still razor sharp, Rocks on rise

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

Seemingly forever, the Plymouth Wildcats have been one of Michigan's elite varsity girls golf teams.

Early indications are the 2015 Wildcats again will be a force to be reckoned with, although cross-campus rival Salem is an up-and-coming unit that could rattle some cages in the KLAA and state tournament.

Canton might not fare as well as Plymouth or Salem, but Chiefs coach Tom Alles will keep a keen eye on how much his golfers progress particularly skilled freshman Nicole Dawson.

The teams have dabbled in early season tourneys already, with the Wildcats capturing the top spot at Monday's Fritz/Byerlein Girls Golf Tournament at Kensington Metropark and as well as Tuesday's Kensington Conference pretournament.

Following is a closer look at all three Plymouth-Canton Educational Park squads.

Plymouth Wildcats

Nothing indicates things changing for Plymouth and that's a good thing for fourth-year head coach Dan Young and his program.

Plymouth placed eighth in the Division 1 state tournament last season, having captured the KLAA South Division, conference, district and regional titles along the way.

For the Wildcats, it was the fourth consecutive season making it to the state meet.

Could it happen again? Led by senior Katie Chipman, who is getting recruited by Division I colleges, all signs point to yes.

Chipman registered scores of 71, 71 and 80 at her first three tournaments and followed up with Tuesday's 76, good for the runner-up spot at the conference pre-tourney at Northville Hills Golf Club.

Plymouth isn't a oneplayer show, of course. Senior twins Alaina and Ariana Strzalka are steady and consistent bets to average "from the high 70s to the high 80s," Young said.

Another senior, Maren Wisniewski, is in the mix, as are junior Heather Muir and sophomore Erin Johnson.

Young pointed to the winning culture at Plymouth.

"This senior class has been on a lot of successful teams and has followed the work ethic of the older girls who have moved on," he said. "Sydney Murphy is playing golf at Ferris State. Kelsey Murphy's at Eastern Michigan. Sarah Thompson's at University of Detroit."

The current team plans on continuing that kind of success.

"We got our work to do. We want to be clicking at the end of the year when it's playoff time," Young said. "We got to start working on our short game, start getting that putter going and being ready by the end of September."

Salem Rocks

Last season's Salem team went 1-4 in the KLAA Central, but that seems like ages ago thanks to a promising start.

The Rocks fared well both at Monday's Fritz/ Byerlein tourney and Tuesday's pre-conference event, finishing fifth at each.

Although head coach Ryan Nimmerguth doesn't intend to jump to conclusions, the Rocks could indeed be a team to watch out for down the stretch.

Salem's Hope Warkoczeski follows through after a shot during Tuesday's KLAA pre-conference tournament.

PLYMOUTH GOLF

Plymouth already is off to a winning start, having captured two tournaments this week. The team is shown after winning Monday's Fritz/Byerlein tourney.

Nimmerguth immediately points to a group of steady, returning players who have worked hard to get better since last year. Salem's best player is junior Darby Scott, who finished third at the conference pre-tourney. "Darby's just a steady player, a workhorse," Nimmerguth said. "She has put in a ton of practice leading up to this season and is playing very well."

Salem's next two golfers on the pecking order are "very steady" senior co-captains Kylie Flynn and Hope Warkoczeski.

Holding down the fourth spot is junior Grace Grelak, while seniors Amy Lawler and Genevieve St. John and junior Hannah Saad are in the mix for the fifth and sixth spots.

Canton Chiefs

Alles will try to get his Canton squad to improve upon 2014 records of 2-3 in the KLAA South and 3-5 in the conference.

One Canton golfer who could turn heads is freshman Nicole Dawson.

"Right now, Nicole appears to be our most skilled golfer," Alles said. "She shot an 86 at our first tournament."

a fourth-year player who "contributed quite a bit last year." Juniors Lauren Luyet and Avery Ralston have tournament experience, Alles continued, while sophomores Caroline Jones, Molly Mundorf and Ashley Kahanec are ready to help the cause.

Senior Madelyn Mans also is slated to return for her fourth season with the team.

"We're normally looking for more golfers," Alles said. "This is the first time I've ever had a full 12-player squad. In past years, I've had as few as nine. There's going to be some competition to make that top six varsity lineup."

tsmith@hometownlife.com Twitter: @TimSmith_Sports

Shamrocks capture Balconi Invite crown

Canton falls short of tournament finals

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

Novi Detroit Catholic Central is off to a solid boys soccer start after sweeping a trio of 60minute matches Saturday to win the Balconi Invitational held Saturday at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

The Shamrocks defeated MHSAA Division 1 runner-up Rochester Adams in the final, 2-1, getting goals from seniors Anthony Chavez and Matt Turton.

In the opening round, Matt Sherman scored twice, while junior Justin Savona and freshman Charlie Trevison also added a goal each in a 4-0 win over Walled Lake Northern.

Junior goalkeeper Connor Gaskin then starred as CC won its second-round match against Utica Eisenhower, 4-3, on penalty kicks.

Meanwhile, defending D1 champion Canton did not reach the Balconi final for the first time in several years, head coach Mark Zemanski said.

The Chiefs defeated Walled Lake Northern (5-0) and Plymouth (1-0), but lost 1-0 to Utica Eisenhower.

PLYMOUTH 3, NOVI 1: Jayden Huxtable scored a pair of first-half goals to propel Plymouth (2-1-1) to a victory over the host Wildcats (0-1) at Meadows Stadium.

Novi scored its lone goal one minute into the second half as Hernan Brarda crossed a ball into the box that was flicked on by Eduardo DeOliveira and finished on a one-time shot by Nick Harder.

Plymouth, which outshot Novi 9-7, put it away with 29 minutes left as Michael Blake scored on a breakaway. Chipping in with assists were Bennett Brooks and Puop With Ryan Wu. DETROIT CC 8, GARDEN CITY 0: Anthony Chavez, Justin Savona and Ryan Pierson tallied two goals apiece Monday as host Novi Detroit Catholic Central (4-0) scored four times in each half to mercy the Cougars.

Noah Walter and Farzad Bashaie also scored for the Shamrocks, who ended the match with nine minutes remaining. Goalies Connor Gaskin and Peter Kirouac combined on the shutout.

MEN'S SOCCER

Ocelots show firepower in opener

Schoolcraft scores early and often in 7-3 victory over South Suburban

> By Tim Smith Staff Writer

It only took 11 seconds for Schoolcraft's men's college soccer team to strike during Saturday's season opener against South Suburban (Ill.) College.

That goal by Victor Contreras jump-started the host Ocelots to a convincing 7-3 victory.

"It's a good way to start the season," veteran Schoolcraft coach Rick Larson said. "We scored in like the seventh second. It just set a nice tone for what we want to do in the attack."

Contreras scored a pair of goals, while David Tetaj, Costa Wells (from Livonia Stevenson alum Billy Werthman), Davide DiPoce, Leopolodo Arevalo and Jeff Drzyzga each added a single goal.

TIM SMITH Canton alum Cody Widlak is all smiles about how he and his Schoolcraft teammates played in Saturday's season opener.

Schoolcraft scored right at the end of the first half to take a 5-1 lead into the intermission.

"We're very explosive. You can see we understand how to dictate tempo, create timing," Larson said. "The goal that was created between Davide DiPoce, Leopoldo Arevalo, David Tetaj and Jeff Drzyzga was absolutely fantastic.

"The floated-ball-tothe-header goal, it had everything. That's the best goal we've ever scored. It was amazing." Drzyzga's header capped the scoring with

ç

7:28 remaining.

For South Suburban, Cesar Flores scored twice (one on a penalty kick) against Schoolcraft goalie Cameron Gwinn.

The lone downer of the afternoon was a concussion suffered early in the game by freshman forward and Canton High School product Aidan Shennan.

Work to do

"He's a really good player, he has really good skills and he can contribute really well," said sophomore defender Cody Widlak, a high school teammate of Shennan's at Canton. "I can't wait for him to come back."

Widlak said the 2015 squad has a bit of unfinished business after coming so close to a national title last year. Saturday's opener was an indicator the Ocelots do not intend to let up in the quest.

"I think the last game of the season against Iowa, it was a crazy game and it could have gone either way," Widlak said. "Can't help feeling that we should have been there. We should have been in that final game.

"But I feel like we're better this year and we can come back and we can do it again."

Near and far

The Ocelots won the MCCAA championship and NJCAA Region XII tournament last season, compiling a 17-3-1 record.

"There's a lot of excitement around our program, there's a lot of excitement inside the team, there's a lot of motivation," Larson said. "The guys really want to win a NJCAA national championship. And unlike other years, I think the team really believes that each person plays a vital role, one through 23 right now."

It's an intriguing combination.

"You mix that together and you get amazing team chemistry," Larson said.

BOYS SOCCER PREVIEW - PART 2

Chiefs ready to perform solid encore

Mix of stellar veterans, talented newbies could spark another big year for Canton

hometownlife.com

By Tim Smith Staff Write

Who knows whether Canton has what it takes to enjoy a championship encore

But Chiefs head coach Mark Zemanski points to a nucleus led by senior co-captains Hunter Olson, Jason Ren, Jimmy Walkinshaw and Jordan Percy and plenty of returning talent front to back as evidence anything is possible.

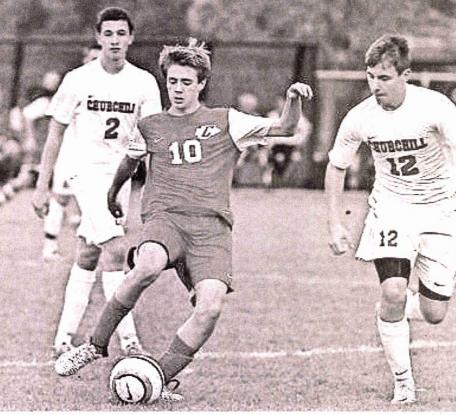

"Our 12 seniors will bring outstanding leadership, starting with our four captains," Zemanski said. "Their determination and will to win will definitely help us in the upcoming season.'

The defending Division 1 state champions who last year went 24-0-3 - also boast a lot of "balance and depth" that could make life miserable for rivals in 2015.

"Most of the players will see significant playing time and have an opportunity to contribute to the success of our team," Zemanski said. "We have good team speed and a lot of depth, which will put a lot of pressure on other teams defensively.

"Our solid back line and goalkeeping will make it hard for teams to find the back of the net against us. We are looking forward to another exciting season playing in one the most competitive conferences in the state son, who scored 16 goals along with nine assists in 2014 and was an all-state honorable mention pick.

Also good in the finishing department are senior forwards Sam Deloy (12 goals, all-conference HM), Matthew Causley (12 goals) and Josh Posuniak.

Returning seniors in the midfield will be Ren and Walkinshaw, who provided skill, determination, energy and timely offense (eight goals between them)

Joining that duo at midfield will be returning senior Alex Yokley, juniors Ryen O'Meara, Joey Chung and Matt Eastman and sophomore Avery Olson. They can get it done on offense and defense, Zemanski noted.

"Our defense will be solid again," he said. "We have four returning defenders ... all four will start. They use their good understanding of the game, ball-hawking skills and tenacity to help shut down the opposing offenses we face."

That quartet is com-posed of "fearless" Percy, senior Beau Hoffman, junior Matt Rockafellow and Trevor Turko.

Other key newcomers who Zemanski predicts good things from are junior defender Matt Tenglin, Cam Waller, Caleb Moraw, Colin O'Keefe, Luke Kurilli and senior Pri Patel.

"Tenglin is tough and tenacious; (he) will push for significant playing time," Zemanski said. 'Waller reads the game well, Moraw has lots of speed and O'Keefe brings great energy.

"Kurilli has very good speed and excellent finishing skills, while Patel brings energy and deter-mination off the bench."

Vying for time at goalkeeper will be junior Steven Page, sophomore David McGrath and senior Patrick Ruhala.

Page and McGrath "both will have plenty of opportunities to showcase their good shotstopping ability and overall goalkeeper skills. (Ruhala) will get the opportunity to show off his talent as well.'

One returnee who will not be able to see time on the pitch is junior forward Mohamad Miri, who suffered a torn ACL. "Even though he will not be able to contribute on the field, his energy, positive attitude and motivational skills will be a big plus to our team," Zemanski said.

Plymouth forecast

Although last year's Plymouth team fell short of the pinnacle enjoyed by its campus rivals, it still was a very successful season (12-4-4 overall, 7-1-2 in the KLAA South).

And veteran head coach Jeff Neschich is optimistic that a strong nucleus of returning players will enable the squad to be a very competitive unit again this vear.

"We are very optimistic about this group and they have a lot of poten-tial," Neschich said.

First and foremost, he points to a sturdy defense and goalkeeping as reasons for such optimism. Damon Favero is a "very strong" senior goalkeeper, with junior Van Nguyen and senior Andrew Liakos at center back.

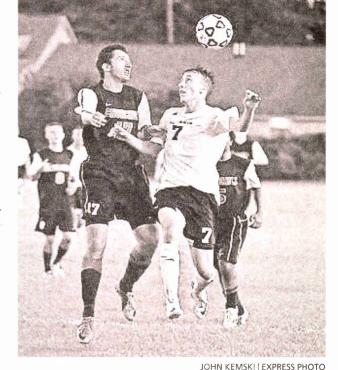

Leading the way at midfield will be freshman Anthony Iacopelli, junior Adam Saunders and sophomore Bennett Brooks, with seniors Nick Freda, Mike Blake, Jayden Huxtable and Dylan Dwyer keying the offense.

Backing up Favero in goal is junior James Visnaw, while other defenders include senior Stephen Rowley, junior Matt Weiner and sophomores Ryan Wu and Thomas Sullivan.

Others who are ready to help as needed include sophomore midfielders Sawyer Eggen and Ben Tetlow, senior midfielder Nick Yoshioka and junior forwards Keaton Hegarty and Ryan Dickerson.

The Wildcats are already off to a good start with Monday's 3-1 win over Novi.

Donnell, Wickens and Pellond.

"Our linebackers are not going to be the fastest we've had," Baechler said. "But we're much bigger, thicker and that situation this year and have another crack at Saline.'

The schedule will be like a 10th opponent for the Chiefs, but Baechler said the squad is ready to take on everybody.

'We have a great schedule," he said. "Dearborn Fordson, who we open with, had 10 wins. Hartland (the Week 2 opponent) was a playoff team

"And, of course, you've got (Westland John) Glenn, (Livonia) Churchill and Plymouth. three very good division teams. And then our Week 8 crossover is going to be a toughie.

Canton then will travel out of state to play Galesburg (Ill.) High School "And Week 9 we got to travel to Galesburg, Ill., and they're a playoff team in Illinois," Baechler said. "Winning six games is not a gimme.'

Winning formula

As in previous seasons, the Canton game plan will continue to be about long drives on offense and defensive prowess.

Despite the graduation of quarterback Greg Williams, the Chiefs expect to not miss a beat, with junior QB Joel Foster taking the spot.

'Replacing Greg Williams is always a big deal, a three-year starter," Baechler said. "But Joel Foster was a JV running back last year and was just OK at it. He asked if he could try quarterback in the summer; we made the switch.

"The kid has literally gotten better every ... single ... day, so he's not there yet, but he's going to be really good.

Also on the depth chart at quarterback are juniors Jimmy Weeda and Jake O'Donnell.

The Chiefs again will foil rivals with a whohas-the-ball running game, led by 5-7 junior Markus Sanders, who rolled to more than 2,000 yards in 2014.

"It's huge having (Sanders) back, plus he's just a tough kid to tackle, too," Baechler said. "He can lower his shoulder.'

Sanders won't be a one-man show. Canton also will line up thirdyear starter Jake Wickens (a 6-1, 195-pound senior), 5-9 Julian Thornton and versatile junior Reid McDonnell.

Canton's defense again features plenty of talent and numbers, good to help keep players fresh.

Up front will be senior tackles Tom Evely (6-2, 215) and Ali Mashhour (6-3, 245), along with nose guards Jake McKinnon (5-10, 185-pound senior) and Gabe Teichman (5-9, 175-pound junior).

They will be augmented by Jake Warner, Maes and 6-1, 200-pound senior Connor Savage.

"We've got a lot of depth on both sides of the line this year," Baechler said.

Slated at inside linebacker will be Lou Baechler and Stephan, backed up by promising junior Chris Thomas.

The Chiefs have several other linebackers for the outside slots, including Cochran, Mc-smart. we'll be much more stout inside than we've been the last couple years.

The secondary is a work in progress as Baechler and his assistant coaches help younger players gear up.

At cornerback, sophomore Colin Troup is "looking good back there," with Thornton and junior Eddie Lang vying for another spot.

Taking care of the safety spots will be Stephens and Rinke, backed up by O'Donnell and Donnelly.

Meanwhile, Baechler said the team is looking forward to playing the game at Wayne State against Fordson (10-1 last year)

"They're excited to play on the big stage,' Baechler said. "Coaching-wise, I don't really like it because you're out of your comfort zone; you don't have your regular warmup times and space. So that's a little different.

"But hopefully, we've got enough experience that the kids get there and they'll get locked in, go out and play well.'

despite the graduation of notables such as Lauren Arquette, Anya Cho, Elizabeth Tripp and Shekinah Johnson, the 2015 Rocks figure to once again be a stellar unit.

And that's despite being a "very young, inexperienced team, veteran head coach Dave Gerlach said.

Salem will be striving to finish at or near the top of the KLAA

Central Division, Kensington Conference, Wayne County and D1 regional standings.

Overall outlook is unknown," Gerlach said. "But the girls have worked hard in the off-season to keep our tradition of maximizing potential alive."

Gerlach does boast a roster featuring key returnees such as sophomores Madalyn Simko and Hannah Jeffress, seniors Sierra Bowden, Kayla Hughes, Kaya Knake, Kayla DelaCruz and Brianna Essien and junior Erin McCann.

Sophomore Madison Justice looks to make an impact, as will freshmen Gabrielle Mancini and Lizzy Lu.

The Rocks, who finished 4-1 in the ultratough KLAA Central last season, officially get the season underway Sept. 12 at the Ramblin' Rock Invitational at Willow Metropark (Salem's home course).

IN MEMORIAM

Livonia Franklin great Kaseta dies

Former pitcher set several records for Patriots, U-D

By Ed Wright Staff Writer

Tall, poised and a commander of the strike zone, Tony Kaseta blazed an ultra-successful career as a pitcher at Livonia Franklin High School and the University of Detroit during the late 1960s and early '70s. On Saturday at his home in Atlanta, Kaseta died unexpectedly at the age of 62.

He is survived by his wife Kim; daughters Evin and Cristin; son A.J.; brothers Kevin and Mike; son-in-law Jeff Ernhardt; grandchildren Carson and Melanie; and his mom, Wanda, who still resides in Livonia.

The cause of death was cardiac arrest.

"This came out of nowhere; we're all still in shock," Kevin Kaseta said. "Tony was a very easy-going, thoughtful, intelligent man. He was always willing to help anyone in need."

Kaseta still holds the careerwins record at U-D, which had a very distinguished baseball program before it was discontinued in 2004.

For a time, Kevin Kaseta noted, Tony Kaseta held the state of

Tony Kaseta

Michigan's record for most collegiate wins by a pitcher.

Kaseta, who threw around 90 mph with exquisite control of his pitches, had tryouts with the Detroit Tigers, Chicago White Sox and Kansas City Royals.

He ultimately accepted a job as a buyer for J.L. Hudson before moving to Atlanta more than 30 years ago. He was involved in the wholesale end of the men's apparel industry at the time of his death, Kevin Kaseta said Former longtime U-D baseball about the team, too, spearheaded by "terrific senior leadership" in co-captains Daniella Barile (setter) and Charley Irvin (libero).

"Danielle is our setter, really tough, smart, she understands the game really well," he said. "Charley's our libero and she's very, very solid.

coach Bob Miller has fond memories of Kaseta, who he referred to as "one of my all-time best players.

"Tony had a great arm, he threw hard and he had a good breaking ball," Miller said. "Why he never got drafted (by Major League Baseball), I'll never understand.

"On Saturdays, we'd play doubleheaders sometimes against Division II or III teams like Hillsdale. When it was Tony's turn to start, he'd throw the first game and we'd win 10-0 in five innings. I'd go up to him and say, 'Tony, it looks like you haven't even broken a sweat. Do you want to throw the second game, too?' And he'd say, 'Sure.' Then he'd go out and shut them out in the second game as well.

During one game Miller remembers, Kaseta's 6-foot-6 frame was a little too big for his uniform.

"He brought his leg up in his wind-up and his pants ripped,' Miller said, chuckling. "So he came into the dugout, I gave him my pants, he gave me his and he went out and finished the game. "He was a brilliant kid. A great person.'

If the walls could talk

Northville home rich in history, elegance By Julie Brown

Staff Writer

A Northville Township home at 801 Griswold is "iconic because of its aesthetics, large piece of property," ac-cording to Realtor/listing agent Dawn Mueller of Coldwell Banker Weir Manuel of Northville.

The home had been part of Chase Farms originally, Mueller said, and the Chase Farms subdivision was also part of the farm.

'When I first listed it, to the present time, I receive numerous calls on it with stories about the property or one of the owners. Everyone admires it as they drive by," added Mueller of the Griswold home, owned by the widow of well-known auto dealer Don Massey, who advertised his Cadillacs extensively on local TV and radio.

Massey's widow is relocating, making the property available. Mueller noted its large size of acreage, almost 15 acres, unusual in the Eight Mile Novi-Northville area, and "how important it was to the community."

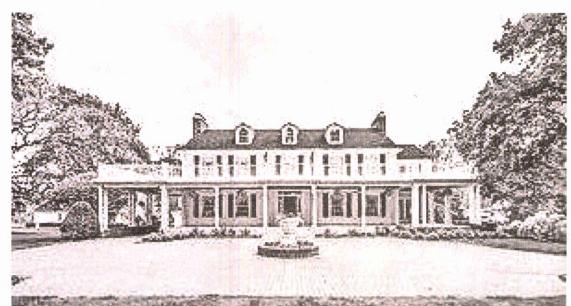

"I know that everybody who lives in the neighborhood has a story about it," said Mueller, in the real estate field for 11 years. There's an old doorbell circa 1920s, possibly with the original owner's name, although Mueller had difficulty verifying that. "It's just one of those old nostalgia things they left in the property," she said. Muell-er talked to the owner who lived there before Don Mas-sey, and noted, "He had lots of stories to tell.'

Mueller said such a listing is unusual for a Realtor. "Oh, it's so much fun, absolutely," she noted. "This is a once in a career."

An offer has come in on the Griswold property, on the market roughly 60 days as of Aug. 4. The home rests on 14.79 acres and is listed at $3,285,000. Dawn Mueller can be reached at 313-610-2085.

Yes, deed terms must be clear indeed

Q: When interpreting a deed, must courts give effect to the clear and unequivocal terms of the deed?

A: Yes. In a recent dispute involving title to a strip of land between a subdivision and the ocean, the court examined the deed, the declaration, and the accompanying maps, and found nothing to indicate the disputed strip was part of the association that governed the subdivision

Q: I had a large amount of damage occur in the bathroom of my condominium unit that was traced back to a leak due to a failed toilet bowl gasket. Unfortunately, my associa-tion believes that, despite having a master insurance policy in place, the loss is not covered because it's been over five years since the gasket was installed. Does the association have an obligation to tender a claim on my behalf to its insurance carrier?

A: Many master policies include language that occurrences that happen suddenly, as opposed to over a long period of time, do qualify for coverage. In addition, there may be a question as to whether you, as co-owner, are included as an insured party under the terms of the policy. If you are a named insured, you might have a right to tender the claim under the policy yourself. In that case, you may want to request a copy of the policy from the association for review purposes. Also, the association may not want to have a claim filed for situations such as this, as it may impact their claims' loss history and therefore affect its premium rates in the future. This is why many associations will only seek and obtain insurance policies that include the Association as the only named insured. As a result, co-owners

See aerobatics, fly in a biplane at Willow Run air show

By Sharon Dargay Staff Writer

Thunder Over Michigan roars into Willow Run Airport in Ypsilanti this weekend.

Aerobatics master, Michael Goulian will attack the sky with breathtaking rolls and tumbles in his EXTRA 330SC airplane.

The U.S. Navy Blue Angels will show off speed and precision as its pilots demonstrate daring maneuvers overhead.

Fighter aircraft, stunt planes, and jets will rule the air in this annual show sponsored by the Yankee Air Museum.

You can be a part of the action by booking a flight on the museum's new open cockpit WACO YMF-5C biplane. The WACO (rhymes with "taco") began taking passengers for "barnstorming" rides recently, and will offer flights on a "first come first fly" basis Aug. 29-30 during Thunder Over Michigan. Other flights, by appointment only, are scheduled for Sept. 9 and 30 at Willow Run.

The biplane joins the mu-seum's B-17G Yankee Lady, B-25 Yankee Warrior and Douglas C-47 "Yankee Doodle Dandy" aircraft in offering flights to the public. The WA-CO flight costs $195 for members and $225 for nonmembers. A ride for two is $295 if one rider is a member, and $325 for two nonmembers. Total passenger weight limit is 350 pounds.

"Î have to tell you, I'm eager to take my first flight in the airplane," said Dave Callanan, museum outreach director. "Barnstorming harkens back to the early days of flight when many pilots, many of whom had come back from World War I, went from farmland to farmland. They found big open fields and would fly over towns and create a storm of sound. They'd buzz the community and everyone would come out and see the aircraft and follow -it to a field, by the barn. The pilot would get out and start

You won't be able to ride this F-16 Fighting Falcon at Thunder Over Michigan, but you'll get a chance to watch its speed, agility and precision.

READY TO FLY?

» If you've made an appointment for the biplane ride, arrive early and bring a camera because "it is a cool airplane," says Dave Callanan, Yankee Air Museum outreach director. Make sure the camera has a wrist strap and ask the pilot if it's OK to use while in flight.

» Consider wearing sunglasses. The airplane has a windshield, but glasses will offer protection from sunlight. Other items should be left at home or in a car trunk. ID or a wallet may be safely tucked into a pocket.

"Nothing should be loose in the cockpit. It's not about turbulence," Callanan said. "It's about excitement. Some people just get excited and get forgetful and don't hold on (to personal items) tight enough."

Air show superstar Michael Goulian will demonstrate his skills at Thunder Over Michigan to the Blue Angels and Michael Goulian, visitors also will see:

» "Fat Albert," the U.S. Marine Corps C-130 Hercules airlifter in a solo performance. » A demonstration of the U.S. Air Force F-16 Fighting

Falcon. The airplane is used in air-to-air combat and air-tosurface attack and can withstand nine times the force of military equipment. Thunder Over Michigan opens at 9 a.m. Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 29-30. The battle re-enactment runs 10:30-11 a.m. and the flying performances are 12:15-4:15 p.m.

» A WWII battle re-enactment will use vintage aircraft, tanks and other restored

 talking about the excitement of flying. It's an important part of aviation history.

WACO YMF-5C, a 1992 aircraft, travels at a ground speed of 80-90 miles per hour, at approximately 1,200-1,500 feet in the air. The flight lasts 20 min- utes, with about 10 minutes of orientation on the ground.

Callanan said the biplane experience comes with unique views, smells and sounds. He *likened the tone of the airplane's engine to the beating wings of 10,000 dragonflies. "A low, guttural buzz," he said. "It's thrilling when you look » Remember to eat lunch.

"You don't want to eat right before a flight like this," Callanan said. "But you'll want to have eaten during the day so you can feel good to come and enjoy."

out and have an unobstructed view. It's awe inspiring. You have to let all of your senses take it in."

The pilots operate the aircraft under visual flight rules. They need clear skies and won't fly under stormy or foggy conditions.

"This is not a thrill ride. There's no loop to loop. No wing walking allowed. You must be seated at all times," Callanan said, with a laugh. "Our pilots will be especially sensitive to the weather and making sure passengers are comfortable.

At the show

You'll have to remain on the ground if you want to experience aerobatics during Thunder Over Michigan. In addition gravity.

» A 1952 Harvard MK IV will engage in "extreme aerobatics.

» The Fock-Wulf FW-190, a German single-seat, singleengine fighter; de Havilland DH 98 Mosquito, a British combat aircraft; World War IIand Korean War-era patrol bomber, the Consolidated PB4Y-2 Privateer; the Avro Lancaster World War II-era bomber; the only remaining Boeing B-29 Superfortress that still flies: and the FG-1D Corsair all will demonstrate their capabilities in the air.

FOOD

Stock your pantry for quick, easy schooltime dinners

The start of a new school year means less time to think about dinner. The good news is, with just a little advance planning and these three easy tips, in no time you'll be whipping up wholesome "A+" meals your family will love.

Fill up your pantry

Add canned fruits, vegetables, proteins and soups to your back-to-school shopping list. Like home can-ning, cans seal in foods' natural goodness and nutrition, making hearty, homemade meals simple and delicious.

Get creative

For a healthy, home-cooked dinner, all you need is a can opener, a strainer and some imagination. Canned crushed tomatoes, sliced carrots and chopped spinach create a savory Vegetable Lasagna worthy of seconds, and canned chick-en with white beans, hominy and chicken broth combine for a White Chicken Chili that's ready in just 30 minutes.

Involve kids in meal prep

Moms and dads face a number of challenges when trying to get their kids to eat more fruit and vegetables. Encourage kids to eat healthy meals by including them in meal preparation, which also teaches skills like measuring, counting and following directions.

CORN AND CRAB FRITTERS WITH LEMON AIOLI

Prep time: 20 minutes Cook time: 10 minutes Servings: 16-24

Fritters:

- 1 tablespoon unsalted butter
- 1 small white onion, finely chopped
- 1 (11-ounce) can Mexicorn, drained
- 1 (4.5-ounce) can chopped green chiles, drained
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder 1 teaspoon kosher salt

- 2 large eggs
- 16-ounce can crab meat, drained
- Vegetable oil for pan-frying (approximately 1 tablespoon)
- Lemon Aioli:
- %cup mayonnaise
- ½ teaspoon lemon zest
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 clove garlic, minced

In a medium skillet over medium heat, melt butter. Add onion;; cook, stirring occasionally, until onion softens, 8 to 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Set aside 1 tablespoon Mexicorn for aioli. Combine remaining Mexicorn, and chiles to combine.

In a large mixing bowl, combine flour, baking powder, salt, and pepper. In a medium bowl, whisk together milk and eggs. Gradually whisk milk mixture into flour mixture just until smooth. Stir in corn mixture and crabmeat. Cover and refrigerate 10 minutes. Meanwhile, make aioli by combining the mayonnaise, lemon juice, zest, garlic and reserved Mexicorn in a small mixing bowl. Chill until ready to serve.

Remove the corn crab batter from the refrigerator and add enough oil to a large, heavy skillet so it reaches about ¼ inch deep;; heat over medium-high heat. Carefully drop 6 to 8 mounds of batter by tablespoon into hot oil. Cook until golden brown, about 1 minute per side. Transfer fritters to paper towels and repeat with remaining batter. Serve with lemon aioli.
